Some of the younger residents, like Tommy Shattuck of 6 Dean rd., (above) may consider boating on their street fun, but most find the severe drainage problems damaging and a safety hazard. A couple of inches of water had to be pumped from the first floor of the home of Mrs. Joseph Murphy of 7 Dean rd. after last week's rainstorm. The layout of Dean road as a public way was placed on the spring warrant. Some abutters of the road who will not benefit from construction may receive 70 percent abatements from the town if the article is passed. (Staff photo)

29 articles in warrant

Selectmen take stand on articles for annual spring town meeting

After closing the spring warrant Saturday morning, selectmen started their review of the 29 articles Monday night. The board voted in favor or opposition of several articles. Voting was delayed on other articles until main motions are made.

Meeting for the first time after town elections, the board appointed Edward O'Connell as chairman at the Saturday morning meeting. Richard Wilsack was elected vice chairman.

A citizen's petition article to amend the home rule charter to include a board of public works was unanimously opposed by the board.

Article 25 proposes a five-member board of public works that would be responsible for all public works activities. A director of public works would be appointed by the proposed board. Policies and priorities of the department of public works would be the responsiblity of the board.

Article 22, also opposed by the selectmen, asks the town to establish a policy utilizing town employees of the department of public works for the installation of curbing, cleaning of streets and catch basins, maintenance of equipment, and other such functions of the department.

The article would prohibit the use of independent contractors by the town. Selectman Arthur Dunbar said the DPW and the board should have the power to decide whether contractors or town employees be used for certain jobs.

Selectmen said that article 21, which would establish a policy for ambulance fees, countermands a present policy which the board has. The board voted in opposition to the article. Chairman Edward O'Connell said the present policy held by the board is fair and satisfactory.

A bylaw amendment to establish a permanent capital planning committee was opposed by selectmen as it is written in the warrant.

The board said the temporary capital planning committee, which will expire this June, meets the town's existing needs. The proposal in the article, they said, is significantly different from the temporary committee.

Other citizens petitions opposed by the board included articles 23, 24, and 26, to discontinue the use of parking meters, to exempt residents age 62 and older from parking meter fees, and to change the membership of the school committee from a five-member board to a six-member board.

The board voted in favor of article 12, to layout as public ways, Shepard court, West Chardon road, and Dean road.

Articles 14 through 18 were also approved by the board. Articles 14, 15, and 16 deal with establishing a permanent human services council, approving the Senior Center lease, and accepting Chapter 586 provisions to make unpaid sewer charges a tax lien upon the real estate.

Article 17 asks the town to accept laws to authorize the town to license danci schools. Article 18 is to accept the gift of Mary Linnane for the benefit of the public library.

The board favored article 7 appropriating matching funds for grants and maintenance charges to secure benefits of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration programs.

The board will receive additional information on motions of the remaining articles before taking a position.

The board requested a "boiled down" version of over ten pages of zoning bylaw amendments proposed by the planning committee in article 19. Additional information of article 20, a citizen's petition to change the zoning of land on the northheasterly side of Cambridge street, adjacent to the Winchester-Woburn town line from a residental district to a business district, was also requested by the board.

The Central Middlesex Association for Retarded Citizen's, Inc. (CMARC) requested $5,000 to carry out services in article 8. Barbara Hankins, chairman of the human services committee, will inform the board of the motions of the article at a later date.

Article 9, which appropriates funds for litigation involving the construction of a new high school, and article 10, which appropriates money for the conservation committee, were both tabled for action by the board.

An "open-ended" article authorizing the rental or lease of Wyman school, will be acted on after contract negotiations are completed with the Bartlett School.

The board said they were not ready to vote on article 13. This article establishes a revolving fund account for funds to conduct adult and continuing education programs.

The board moved to wait voting on article 29, to authorize the board of assessors to reduce the tax levy and or transfer funds to the stabilization fund, until a final determination of the sum is made.

The board approved only the motion to accept the West Side fire station in article 28. Article 28 also includes the reports of town committees, the establishing of new committees and committee members, and the appropriation of money to these committees.

Article 6, which deals with the appropriation of money for state highway funds, is under further research by Town Manager Thomas Groux.

Articles 1 through 5, are the reports of town officers and budget items. The board said article 4, the main budget article, was too broad to go into at the present time, postponing action until town meeting.

Action on article 5, the recommendations of wages, salaries and working conditions of employees and officers, will be taken after recommendations are given by the personnel board.

The Star will be reporting on the motions of several warrant articles in the coming weeks.

'Court reform need not die'

Judicial overhaul v. local school aid

Senator Samuel Rotondi has expressed his concerns for a bill dealing with a major overhaul of the Massachusetts court system. Senator Rotondi was the former director of Legislation for the Massachusetts Bar Association, and in that capacity began working on this proposal in 1974. He has issued the following statement:

The movement for judicial reform in Massachusetts has survived legislative attacks and public indifference, but it now faces a threat that could prove fatal. Ironically, this new menace takes the form of an apparent attempt to speed up court reorganization.

The House leadership insists that reform should be accomplished in a single year. On the surface, this appears to signal support of the proposal. But the leadership goes on to assert that there is not enough money in the budget to cover both a one-year court overhaul and the popular local school aid legislation now under consideration in the House. In effect they are pitting judicial reorganization against the best interests of education.

Court reform cannot win a battle with the school aid bill. Restructuring our county courts under a new state system would expedite justice and reduce patronage, but no amount of bureaucratic reshuffling can enjoy the popular appeal of a measure that promises to relieve local property taxes. Many articulate and influential people have thrown their support behind court reform, but they cannot match the political muscle of the education lobby. And though local newspapers and television stations have devoted hundreds of stories and editorials to judicial reorganization, vote-conscious legislators cannot help but think of court reform as last year's issue. If reorganization is pitted against any reasonably popular issue, it will lose. And as anyone who understands the mood on Beacon Hill well know, if reform loses this year, it will not have a serious chance for success for many years to come.

Court reform need not die. The current attempt to kill it hinges on the erroneous premise that reorganization must be accomplihsed in one swift, costly stroke. The push for a fast transition exactly fits the needs of reform's opponents and even makes good election year rhetoric for some true supporters of restructuring. But any thoughtful examination of the issue must conclude that a gradual, phased transition is the only sensible answer. We are still smarting from the state's overly hasty assumption of welfare costs. An equally dangerous potential exists in court reorganization. The state will have to take on the operating expenses, including rental and maintenance fees of court houses, assimilate hundreds of personnel, realign pay scales and pensions, redistribute money and manpower, and compact more than four hundred separate budgets into a single one. New York is pursuing just this course — and wisely taking four years to do it. The Cox Commission and the American Judicature Commission, which have studied Massachusetts' judicial problems in detail, both recommended a five-year phased transition from county to state control.

This slower route is anathema to politicians who want to maintain the good favor of reform groups, but it is the only responsible course to follow in rebuilding our court system. No one wants to appear to delay reform, so it will take real political courage for supporters of reorganization to endorse a gradual change-over. However, only a phased plan can guarantee that the initial cost will be low enough to permit immediate implementation. The leadership may be right in saying that there is not enough money to restructure the courts in a single year, but their argument is weaker as it applies to funding a five-year transition. The so-called leadership plan proposes a one-year financial takeover of our court system which is direct contradiction to the findings of the American Judicature Society's report on the financing of the Massachusetts court system which stated, "It would be impractical for the Commonwealth to assume full financial responsibility in a single step." In affect; the House proposal would appropriate in fiscal 1979 enough money to assume all the costs of our court system, but this money would largely be spent in reimbursing the counties for continuing to run the system exactly as it is presently run. This does not make sense, and is a commitment to error. Imagine the day of accounting when the state and counties square off as to how much is actually owed.

A much more sensible approach is immediate creation of an interim Court Finance Committee which among other things would establish a detailed time table for the transition to state assumption of all court costs, study advisability of having the state assume all of the portion of maintaining the court facilities, and determine whether outright transfer of ownership to the state, the establishment of leasing arrangements or a form of combination thereof, would be the most practical arrangement. This committee would also formulate the necessary financial arrangements that would allow the state to assume the bond indebtedness of all court facilities. It is obvious that these are but a few of the serious considerations that must be undertaken by this committee to insure a sensible and logistically feasible takeover of our court system.

Papas named chairman

Closings, teacher elections on school agenda

Constance Papas was chosen as the new chairman and Heinrich Holland vice chairman of the school committee at the board's first meeting with newly-elected members Mary Jean Weylman and Sandra Rodgers Monday night.

After a brief public session, the committee went into a closed-door session to discuss the progress of negotiations for a new teacher contract. Last year's chairman, Robert Frank, who had been in charge of negotiations for the board, was on hand to brief the new members on the status of the talks. Holland will be taking over as chief negotiator this year.

Some concern has been expressed that the school committee's positon in the negotiations has weakened with the defeat of Frank in the Mar. 28 elections. However, board member Cathy Alexander reported that the board's position has not changed substantially as a result of the two new members coming onto the committee.

(The school board's contract with the Winchester Education Association — the teachers' union — runs out this year. The current contract took more than a year of negotiations, mediation, fact-finding, and still more negotiations to settle. By the time a settlement was reached last winter, the teachers had worked without a contract for six months and had tired a "work-to-rule" (working only scheduled school hours) to force the committee's hand.)

The next regular session of the school board will be Monday night. The committee will be discussing what action they might take in response to the report presented last week by the long range task force on school planning.

The committee will also review and elect first and second year teacher candidates. In additin, curriculum reports are scheduled on humanities, reading, in-service courses, and efforts to make the curriculum more challenging.

The board is looking for more public reaction to the task force plans, which outline substantial changes to be made in the school system over the next three years. Among the recommendations are proposals to close three elementary schools by 1980, convert Lynch to an elementary school and McCall to a grade 7 and 8 middle school, and change over to a four-year high school.

The committee plans to hold a hearing sometime in April to hear what the public has to say about the plans. The consensus is that the board will be taking some action regarding the task force recommendations soon after that public hearing, probably before the end of the school year.

"We don't gain anything by letting it hang indefinitely," commented Mrs. Papas; "I think we ought to vote the 1978 recommendations; I think they're good ones." However, she added, "We've got to get some more input from the community."

Holland agreed with her. "I feel pretty comfortable with the recommendations in the report and would have no particular hesitation recommending their adoption," he said. He too added that he would "like to see

A dream realized

By KAREN WHITTLESEY-FIRST

They came in their Sunday finery. They came with canes and walkers, on foot, by car, in ones and twos, to see for themselves this "building of grace and beauty."

They came and came, filling the redwood, brick, and glass Jenks Senior Center until the building could no longer hold them inside. They came 2000 strong and squeezed inside for a glimpse of the building Phillip Locashio built based on the dreams of the senior community.

When they could no longer fit inside, they drifted in and out. The meeting room, designed to hold 300 people, was filled an hour before the dedication ceremonies were to begin.

Old friends greeted each other at the door. Town officials shook the hands of their constituents. Some of those hands were old and wrinkled and others were firm and smooth.

More than 800 people had donated funds to make this building a reality — a place where seniors could meet, eat, go to health clinics, learn to play bridge, square dance, see travelogues, and have a place to share with each other.

Ground was broken in December 1976 on the banks of the Aberjona River on Skillings Path. A crowd of 200 townspeople stood outside in very cold, wintery New England weather and listened as Rev. Jack Zoerheide called them "grand, rare people, tough-minded, tenderhearted, good, and generous."

At that ceremony James J. Jenks Jr., whose generous donation is memorialized in the name of the center, and Dr. Richard Norberg, a long-time advocate for the seniors, together broke ground with a silver spade.

Sixteen months later those two men were together again as the new building was dedicated. Rev. Jack Zoerheide was there again too, as he said, "we have come to look hard-close at what will be. We have come to dedicate this building and have found its meaning already rooted deep within our hearts."

The building itself reflects the needs of the older citizens of Winchester and, at the same time, offers useable space for others.

It is divided into three main sections. The entrance is into a lounge, glass-lined on the side overlooking the Aberjona and the bicycle path.

The the right of the lounge is the administrative wing with reception area, coordinator's office,, counseling room with adjacent lavatory, a work room, utility room, and library meeting room.

This section of the building can be closed off when there are after-hours activities going on.

To the left of the lounge are the two main meeting rooms. The larger room can hold 250 to 300 persons for lectures or movies, and as many as 200 for dining. Adjoining this room is a kitchen and storage area for tables and chairs. It is the hope of Program Administrator Sara Dillon that one hot meal a day can be served in this large room for those who need it.

The other meeting room can be used for things like sewing, quilting, crafts, and other activities which do not require a large room. Here there is storage for works in progress.

More than 2000 people wandered through all these rooms, partaking of refreshments and commenting on the appointments and general feeling of openness and light which Locashio put into this building.

"It was quite a day," someone said. And so it was.

Police arrest Boston man for passing checks

Winchester police were instrumental in apprehending Thomas A. DeBonis, of 5 Carter st., Boston, who as arrested at the Woburn Five Cents Savings Bank Mar. 30, on charges involving the use of stolen checks.

According to police, Pat Polsten, a teller at the Winchester Savings Bank, said the suspect seemed nervous when she told him that she was going to check on a $450 check that he wanted to cash on the 29th. He allegedly said he would be back, left the bank, and when he did not return, the police were called.

When police determined that $450 check was stolen, they sent out a notice to all local banks to watch out for the suspect, whom they described from puctures taken from video monitors at the bank.

DeBonis had allegedly opened a savings account at the Winchester Savings Bank a few days earlier, using fraudulent checks totaling $8642.06. The checks were photo-offset reproductions which were singed "Joseph E. O'Brien." A Winchester address was used for the savings accounts.

It was later discovered that the same procedure had been followed the same day at the Winchester Cooperative Bank, and a $450 check had been cashed.

On the 30th, the Winchester Cooperative reported seeing the suspect, but when police arrived, he had already left. A license-plate number was identified on the blue Ford by teller Betty Kehoe. The car was found in the Woburn Five Cents Savings Bank parking lot, and Woburn police determined that it belonged to a Milton resident and had been stolen in Boston on Mar. 27.

Police searched the car and found severeal savings account passbooks from banks in the suburban area in the name of Joseph E. O'Brien, with checks similar to those used at the Winchester banks ready for deposit. totaling $38,733.36.

DeBonis was arraigned in Woburn District Court, and is being held on $10,000 bail at the Billerica House of Correction.

Winchestr pollce have charged him with uttering (using false information on a check), attempted larceny, larceny over $100, and forgery. His trial is set for Friday.

Residents on Calumet street were distrubed by the sound of gunfire at 2 a.m. Saturday. A school crossing signpost was fired at, at the corner of Cambridge and Calumet roads, and one bullet struck the sign. Another bullet went through the screen and window and struck the wall of a second floor bedroom of a house on Calumet st. No one was injured, and a dark-colored pickup was seen driving away from the scene.

An unidentified woman was found walking along South Border road around 11:30 p.m. Sunday and taken to Winchester Hospital by a passer-by for treatment.

Winchester police were called in, and they referred the case to the MDC, which has jurisdiction over the area where the woman was found. MDC spokesman David Young said the matter is under investigation. (There have been reports that the woman was raped; however, Young said Tuesday that "no rape has been determined as yet."

The woman was released from Winchester Hospital Monday and turned over to the MDC Police for transfer to another hospital, according to the administration up at Winchester Hospital. No other information on the woman was available.

The town incinerator and the Old Colony gas station under construction at the corner of Cambridge and Pond roads were damaged by vandals again this week.

Tools were taken from the incinerator (police suspect youngsters again) over the weekend, and a pump and two windows in a trailer were broken at the station Saturday. Vandals also broke the windows in three doors at the rear of McCall Junior High School.

At 5:15 Wednesday morning, a four-foot piece of 2x3 was put through the window of Anderson's jewelry store on Main street. Nothing was taken. Police had a suspect, but did not have enough evidence to arrest him.

A house on Berkshire drive was reported broken into at 6 p.m. on the 30th. The kitchen door had been smashed and a portable color TV was taken.

Some have suggested that even if court reform is a phased process, there is still not enough money to accomplish it and a new local education formula. There has been no facts presented that sustain this argument, but I would like to offer a few points to refute it.

First, the present court system has no centralized administration, budgeting or purchasing which creates duplication of effort and expenses and frustrates the unchangeable use of court personnel and facilities to maximize efficiency in the system. The court reform proposal changes all of that and puts in place a unified budgetary process with centralized administration and purchasing. The new system cannot help but be the more cost effective.

Secondly, the Governor has proposed 150 million dollars for the new educational formula and 18 million dollars for the initial step of the five-year phase takeover of court costs. It is simply too early to determine whether these figures are unrealistic when measured against projected revenues. It makes more sense to discuss these issues in the context of the fiscal 1979 budget. Also it is important to note that the Governor has proposed the creation of a local aid fund and accordingly has established, in the fiscal year 1979 budget, an accounting mechanism which will allocate forty percent of all revenues from the income, sales, and corporate taxes to this specific fund. A portion of this fund is earmarked for court reform. The built-in growth factor should more than adequately accomodate unexpected costs that arise during the period of gradual takeover.

Only by spreading out the costs over a long period can we afford both court reform and the new school aid bill, and thereby avoid a showdown which could kill all hopes for judicial reorganization.

whether any new data, new ideas, or new plans surface at the next meeting. If they do, I think we have to explore those and either adopt them or put them to rest."

Holland said that, barring any new proposals, he would like to see the school committee act on the task force recommendations "sometime in May."

Board member Cathy Alexander also said she's like to see another public hearing on the plans. However she did not seem in as much of a hurry to take any action. "I still have a few questions that need to be answered," she said, noting she opposed one recommendation in particular; that open enrollment be cancelled for next year. "It might be better to phase out Parkhurst through open enrollment," she suggested.

Mrs. Alexander also noted she was unsure as to how many elementary schools ought to be closed, although she agreed with Mrs. Papas and Holland that Parkhurst and Noonan would probably be closed. "I'm most reluctant to see the neighborhood school concept go down the drain," said Mrs. Alexander. "I see no need to rush to a decision; we've got to be sure we explore all the options."

Holland said he didn't see any real alternative" to closing Parkhurst and Noonan, primarily because of the forecast for continued declining enrollments. "Either you're going to have very small classes, which means a higher per pupil cost, and that's not fair to the rest of the system; or you'll have a lot of split classes, and that's not fair to the kids," he said.

As for closing a third school, Holland didn't see any alternative to that either. "There would have to be some extraordinary turnover in enrollment not to close one," he said. Whether the third school would be Lincoln or Washington (the option presented in the task force report) would depend on redistricting and busing problems, he added.

Another consideration Holland mentioned was the possible disposition of either of the two schools once they were closed. "My recommendation right now would be that we should hold off on that decision until next year," he said.

The two new committee members stressed the need for more input from the public before the board can make any decisions.

Although she felt Parkhurst and Noonan were "likely to be closed," Mrs. Rodgers said she's "like to hear from the community before taking any position." She said there was more information needed, including a review of minimum and maximum school capacities. However, she added, "If there's no legitimate area that requires additional work, I would hope the school committee would vote by the end of the school year on the plans, rather than keep people waiting."

"Before we go any further, I would like to hear what the public has to say," said Mrs. Weylman, who, like the other board members, said she has had no comments from the public about the plans since last week's hearing.

She conceded that some schools will have to close: "The (enrollment) numbers are really out of whack," she said. Parkhurst and Noonan were the most likely choices for her too. "I happen to like small schools," Mrs. Weylman said, but she noted that a school with less than 200 students is "probably not a viable school."

She said costs were a consideration, up to a point: "A lot of people want to save every nickel, but that's not my feeling. It's my view that if it costs $50,000 to keep a school, I think perhaps this town wants to pay that."

She also expressed concern about redistricting and its effect on the children, particularly the group transferred from Wyman to Lincoln last year. In addition, she questioned whether or not Ambrose and Vinson-Owen would become overcrowded when Parkhurst is closed and students are redistricted to those two schools. A final concern of hers was the overall cost of operating the larger schools with small enrollments — notably Lynch, which has one of the highest per pupil costs in the system.

Hydrants to be flushed in April

During April, the department of Public Works will be flushing hydrants throughout the town.

This may cause discolored water for a short period of time. However, the quality of the water will not be affected.

Noonan students give classmates taste of Indians

Under the supervision of Mrs. Martha Sandberg, first and second grade teacher at Noonan School, the two grades presented an Indian Festival for their classmates and parent volunteers at the school.

The festival included an Indian ceremonial dance, samples of clothing, pottery, jewelry, and several cooked Indian foods, all prepared by the children with the help of Mrs. Sandberg and the parent volunteers.

The classes set up a trading post for the various craft items to be bartered and sold.

Amigos walkathon

The Amigos de las Americas will hold its annual walk-a-thon Apr. 23 beginning at 11 a.m. at Plymouth Congregational Church, Alexander and Pleasant streets, Belmont. Winchester resident Lisa MacDonald will be participating in it.

Egypt is a land rich in contradictions, the most fertile and the driest areas in the world are found there, as well as the richest and the least-well-to-do. There are places to hunt, swim, fish, shop, and simply live in Egypt too. But the most exciting part of Egypt, as you might guess, lies in its past, buried in the exotic riches of old tombs. The Pyramids are among the wonders of the world, and by themselves a good reason for visiting Egypt. THE WINCHESTER STAR

Serving The Community For Over 95 Years

With love and dedication

The new senior center was dedicated Sunday with enthusiasm, with touches of chaos as 2000 people overwhelmed the brick building, with obvious joy.

There were speeches and prayers as the town witnessed "a beckoning horizon of things to come arising against the sunburst sky of our new beginning."

And it is a new beginning for the entire town, those over 60, those under 60, and those yet to come.

On a patch of land by the Aberjona River a building has taken shape, a symbol of the love and dedication which should be the core of any group of people calling itself a town or a community.

The building and what it symbolizes is for us all. It came into being as the physical interpretation of some very special people's dreams.

There were donations from 800 people...donations which made the building possible and which said that we supported each other as well as our seniors. The elderly woman living on her small fixed income gave five dollars. The teenager could give a bit of his allowance. Those better off could give more. Each donation was important and they keep coming in.

Behind all the fuss and necessary confusion of the dedication, behind the extensive work and soliciting, behind the very dream of community, was a core of workers whose devotion to this dream knew no bounds and no discouragement.

Mention in a very special way must be made of these people. Margaret Harrigan, Dick Norberg, Larry Hutchings, Msgr. Joseph Lyons, Ralph Hatch, Lenore Rich, Ray Murphy, Marion Hatch, Clarence Borggaard, Malcolm Masters, Ruth Thompson, Barbara Weedon, Pauline McGuigan, and Arthur Pratt.

Rev. Jack Zoerheide spoke at the dedication Sunday and his words sounded through the redwood meeting room and onto the parking area outside. He said,

"Here is meaning beyond the fractious measurements of definitions. Here is the place of wholeness centered in the unity of compassion.

"Those around you, with you, tell the future's truth. They are the today that is also tomorrow.

"So look among you to find the meaning formed, yet still forming — what is and yet will be, here in this space."

It is a new beginning made possible through the dreams of people who care about seniors, about each other, ultimately about us. ---KLW-F.

Wake up, citizens

As a concerned citizen and registered voter of the Town of Winchester, I feel it is my obligation to express my feelings and viewpoints on the recent town election held on Mar. 28, 1978 and other elections held prior to this date.

First of all, I would like to give the readers of this newspaper some food for thought. At the end of 1977 there was recorded at the town clerk's office, a total of 16,233 eligible people in our town who were able to register to vote. (The 1978 census has yet to be totaled.) However, in 1978, only 12,656 of these eligible citizens were registered voters. This fact alone is alarming in itself. The disgraceful fact that deeply concerns me is that out of all those who are registered voters, only 3,472 felt the need to go to the polls on Mar. 28, 1978. This means that only 27.4 percent of our registered voters cast their ballot on that day. This election had the least turnout of voters recorded in recent years.

Another important fact that concerns me greatly is that we have several fine, outstanding citizens in our community that have expressed and shown a sincere interest in our town as either civilians or town meeting members by attending every meeting held and in other various ways. However, the town members who do not show as much interest in our town affairs by their lack of attendance at town meetings, are the candidates who get elected.

A great many of our voters do not take the time or interest to study the candidates who are running for public office. They simply would rather vote for candidates who are running for re-election than bother to do their homework well. The voting trend in Winchester is on a rapid decline and I feel that the time has arrived that we should take serious steps to alter this course immediately.

As voting adults we should set a fine example for the younger generation to build on. If the adults fail to show an interst in the town's welfare, how in the world can we expect the younger generation to want to become involved? Each and everyone of us has the God given right, as U. S. citizens, to express our beliefs in our government by supporting our candidates with our votes, whether it be on a national scale or on a local scale. We all should exercise the right to vote.

I feel that no person has the privilege to justifiably complain or criticize our town governance if they have failed to vote at the polls. We must take a more concerned interest in our town if we are to expect it to continue on a prosperous level.

I also feel that there certainly should be more exposure of our candidates during election time, whether it be through personal appearances, literature, or the news media than there has been in recent campaigns. The candidates should acquaint themselves to the public with well organized campaigns that will generate enough enthusiasm and interest throughout the community which will give the citizens the incentive to want to go to the polls. Silent campaigns contribute little if any enthusiasm during an election period.

I feel that there are many ctiizens who will agree with me, that the recent voting count at last weeks' election was certainly a disgrace. Not only to the Town of Winchester, but also to the candidates who were running for his or her elective office.

I realize that a good portion of the population of Winchester consists of families that are known as transients. These citizens may feel that they do not need to become involved intricately with town issues as they do not consider themselves permanent residents. I feel that they should be involved in issues concerning our town as much as permanent residents. After all, we all are taxpayers and we all should be deeply concerned in the welfare of any community we reside in, especially when what we do today will affect the future of our children. Please remember this.

If we wish to see our town officials take more of an interest in us, then as registered voters we must take more of an interest in our town officials I sincerely hope that the citizens of Winchester will wake up soon before the town government slips away from them permanently.

Letters from readers

A fruitful letter

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I suspect that many readers of The Star are of the opinion that most of my letters are "for the birds" — and I would be the first to agree with them.

However, I do write on other subjects once in a while as the spirit moves me, and it gave me great pleasure last Sunday afternoon to hear the chief benefactor of our beautiful new Jenks Senior Center relate to us all that it was one of these litters of mine which first triggered his interest in an "impossible dream." The results of that interest are there, beside the Aberjona, for all to see and admire.

With apologies for all the letters that turn out to be stuipd, and all the poetry that proves to be bad, let me say that any day that I do manage to write a letter as fruitful as that one was, is, in my book, a good day!

Sincere thanks

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

As chairman of the refreshments committee for the celebration of the opening of the Jenks Senior Center on Sunday, Apr. 2, I wish to express my sincere appreciation to everyone who gave and served the abundance of refreshments. The generosity was a true indication of the togetherness that exxists of all ages and whose primary interest has been the development of the Jenks Senior Center. A beautiful dream has come true for all seniors, present and future.

Thanks for Olympics

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Thanks to all who were so instrumental in making the Winchester '78 Olympics a success.

Without the hard work of many people, this would have been impossible. The co-chairmen, John and Polly Driscoll, were invaluable, as were the "Olympic committee" and its many workers. Thanks also to the parent faculty board, Winchester High School Band members, cheerleaders, officials, and the participating teams.

We are most grateful.

Lucky community

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I would like to take this opportunity to comment on one of the reasons why it is so nice to live in the town of Winchester.

Recently, St. Eulalia's parish completed another year of its basketball program for youngsters in Winchester. One of the coaches in the program was Mr. Dick Clarke of South Border road. While I am sure that many of the adult volunteers in the program contributed a great deal, I can personally attest to those of Dick Clarke. Mr. Clarke contributed much more to the boys on his team than simply knowledge of how to play the game. He was able to instill them with enthusiasm for playing the game, with respect for their fellow team members, and with an understanding of the proper place for winning and losing in a game.

His ability to deal effectively with boys as individuals and with those same boys as a "team" is certainly unique. He was able to merge together a group of boys with a variety of talents into an effective unit. Each boy supported and respected each of the others. With people like Dick Clarke around for our children to look up to, learn from, and identify with, we are quite a lucky community. Clearly, that is one of the reasons why I enjoy Winchester so much.

Bullet voting

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Perhaps those of us who like to be involved in town politics will learn something from the defeat of Bob Frank.

Let's stop political games like bullet voting. Bullet voting distorts the process and can result in the elimination of the most qualified. We should pull the right number of levers when we go into the booth, as long as we can do so in good conscience.

Bob Frank had a vote from us, and we hope to have a chance to give him another.

Unfortunate

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

A most unfortunate occurrence took place on Tuesday, March 28, 1978. The Winchester voters failed to re-elect Robert Frank to the school committee.

The Winchester community has lost the services of a most gifted and kind individual. During the last four years Bob offered a great amount of insight into the legal ramifcations of many school issues. His diverse perspectives on school matters also proved to be enlightening and sound. I am fully aware that some people did not agree with Bob's opinions and-or actions on certain educational issues; that is understandable. Yet, in my opinion, the procedure and process one uses to arrive to a decision is as important as the decision itself. The tools Bob used for making decisions were fairness, sensitivity, and much thought.

Needless to say, I think a lot of Bob Frank; many people do, regretfully not all of them showed their regard and support by going out to vote!

I want to thank Bob and his family for all the effort, long hours and hard work they have given to the Winchester community.

Margaret P. Carayannopoulos

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Bob Frank's loss to the Winchester school committee is immeasurable whether one has agreed with his votes or positions. His efforts of the past four years on the school committee were conscience intelligent acts and votes for what he thought was right for the entire town. Can we ask more of any public official — but we do and now we are agonizing how we lost Bob Frank.

Perhaps this is the town's conscience twitching and losing sight or not wishing to know that less than 2000 people were able to determine for the entire town the direction of the school committee and snatch away an outstnading leader.

No town that chooses not to vote will find any possible way to change the balance of power, equalize education or improve its quality, and these facts are fully recognized by a small few who each year determine a policy, set a standard for themselves and vote.

So they too must examine their conscience. Those who involve themselves in any political leadership role find the going rough but to take the leadership means to also take responsibility for actions taken.

The town will go on and no amount of agonizing, complaining, or blaming will be of any use until a clear majority of the town care enough to support the leadership and experience that is developed through public service.

Thanks Bob for your time and your efforts for working conscientiously for all of the town.

Dorothea Twomey

Attacked

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

God willing, I shall reach the post-biblical age of 74 come September, but living in Winchester, I am not quite sure that even God's willingness will suffice to guarantee that I shall experience my next birthday on earth. This morning walking past a house on Hillcrest parkway, I was savagely attacked by a doberman pinscher three times. The savage beast bit me once in each arm and once on my left leg. The first bite drew blood though my arm was protected by a windbreaker with lining and a sweater. A disturbed lady who rushed out of what I possibly mistakenly took to be No. 50, tried to control the dog, but even after she came out it bit me again.

Now, I am not afraid of dogs. If they bark at me, as they normally will, I talk to them in a friendly tone as I walk by, but this method did not work with this beast which bore no identification that I could see. It is my impression that it is a trained police dog, and I should think letting such a dog run loose, is not only illegal, but criminally thoughtless.

As I said, dogs do not normally bother me, but I shudder to think what could happen to a child in the same circumstances.

Town watch...

Their signals got crossed

By The Observer

Spring's the busiest time of year around here as far as social events go, and with all the hustle for time and space and sponsors and approvals, things are bound to get mixed up once in a while.

One mix-up, which fortunately has been resolved, was between the Winchester Community Theatre, Inc.— Children's Theatre and the Children's Own School.

The local children's theater has been planning a demonstration performance, including a little pantomime, a little juggling, some improvisational acting, and a bit of dance. The children will be presenting scenes from several plays, among them one called "Many Moons." The performances were scheduled for Apr. 28 and 29. at the Lincoln School.

Meanwhile, the folks down at the Children's Own School decided to have a benefit and lined up a theater group from Tufts University to perform, of all plays, "Many Moons," on Apr. 29 at McCall.

When the two groups discovered the conflict, neither could — or would — change their schedules, at least at first. But the problem has been solved, perhaps with an added benefit.

The children's theater will perform Friday, Apr. 28 and Sunday, Apr. 30, while the Children's Own School benefit will go ahead on the 29th. The kids in the children's theater show may get to see how someone else handles "Many Moons" and apply what they've learned in their second performance on Sunday.

It's too bad there isn't more coordination between local social groups and agencies so that this kind of mix-up can be avoided. And perhaps the children's theater could be doing shows like the Children's Own School benefit — they certainly could use the money the Tufts group will be getting.

And speaking of theater and support for the theater, the Winchester Children's Theater is buying up a whole block of seats for the Apr. 22 performance of "Hansel and Gretel" by the Boston Children's Theatre here in town. Those two theater groups, along with another Tufts organization, the summer theater for children, have been around for about 20 years providing constructive, creative, and entertaining activities for area children.

A lot of hard work goes into the productions of the Winchester Children's Theatre, and a whole lot of good comes out: They need and deserve more public support.

We're pleased to see Tony Guarente is out of the hospital and around town after nearly being nailed by a hit-and-run driver Mar. 25.

Guarente was knocked down and out on Foxcroft road while jogging at the dim hour of 6:30 p.m. He suffered a cut on the head and a concussion and was sent to Mass. General for a few days to make sure nothing fell out.

Joggers along the roadsides are more and more common these days, and there's been some talk about setting up a more suitable place to go running, where one won't have to fear mad dogs and Mass. drivers.

The resevoir area is tabu, but the Fells might be a good place. Runners are generally peaceable folk and don't leave much behind except a few gallons of sweat and some superficial flab: the effect on the environment is generally beneficial. The cost of setting up a soft-bedded trail in the Fells would be miniscule compared to most of the other budgets of the MDC. Perhaps they could be convinced.....

We've heard some complaints that the selectmen violated the Charter recently when they turned control of the town computer over to the town manager. The machine used to be under the jurisdiction of the comptroller's office.

Those who complain say the computer is really a business machine — since it is used for accounting purposes — and that it should be in the comptroller's domain. The Charter says the comptroller "shall be in charge of all the accounting and business machines owned by the town..."

The selectmen based their decision on an opinion from Town Counsel Doug Randall, who doesn't consider computers to be business machines. He says the Charter was written in 1962, at which time computers were not as common creatures as they are today; Randall said the intent of the Charter was certainly not to include computers.

Besides, said Randall, "If it were in violation of the Charter, we wouldn't do it."

Tastefully done

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The Lexington-Winchester Wheaton College Alumnae Group wishes to thank all who supported and assisted with its wine tasting on Wednesday, Mar. 29. The enthusiasm of those who participated made this, the 10th such event, especially successful both socially and financially. Proceeds go directly to the alumnae scholarship fund which helps defray college expenses for a number of students needing financial aid.

The alumnae group is particularly grateful to Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Farm and Nursery for the use of its facilities again this year. The greenhouse provided a lovely setting for the benefit affair. In addition, we wish to thank the Continental Cow for its help in selecting the cheeses which were served that evening.

Pleased and proud

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The 1978 Town elections are over, and I am extremely pleased and proud to have the opportunity to serve this community on the school committee.

It would not have been possible without the efforts of many people during my campaign. Many worked continuously by my side throughout the campaign. Many worked in the districts of the Town. And many took the initiative to do something for me as the momentum grew. Every effort counted toward the final outcome of the election. My deepest gratitude and thanks are extended to these many people.

My thanks also go to the many citizens who planned or attended coffess, lunches, dinners and other occasions for me to present my views. Some lively discussions took place, and the opinions expressed have given me better insight as I start my term of office.

My admiration goes to the other two candidates for school committee. From the very beginning, it was clear that one person would have to be disappointed. Jean Weylman and Bob Frank worked very hard. Perhaps this should have been a year to elect three members to the school committee.

The work that counts for our school system begins now, and I want to continue hearing the views of the community during the next three years.

Dangerous to cats

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

This morning I enjoyed a long conversation with a beautiful gray cat on the porch roof outside my window. I was happy to note that he wore an I.D. tag, which told me he was a beloved pet, but dismayed to note that the tag hung from a loose and sturdy collar with a buckle.

Apparently his folks have never seen the warning of the MSPCA about this type of collar, which makes it all too easy for a cat to strangle himself if the collar catches on a tree branch. Since the pet is obviously adventurous, I hope his family will see my letter and either remove the collar or hurry to the nearest pet shop to buy a collar that snaps apart under stress.

Thanks to voters

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Through you, I would like to thank the voters of Winchester for their continued confidence in my ability to serve as one of their selectmen. I hope that I will be able to sustain that confidence over the next three years.

I also wish to thank the many people who worked actively in my behalf during the campaign. I'm sure that my success at the polls would not have been as great without their assistance and moral support.

I return, I shall continue to devote my efforts toward maintaining decent, honest and efficient government for Winchester.

Skateboard path

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I live in the Mary Murphy apartments for the elderly on Palmer st. Behind the buildings there is a rear sidewalk for various purposes, mainly for carrying trash out or to walk downtown.

This walk is used by bicycle and skateboard riders, partly on the mistaken idea that it is a short cut. (It is not. I paced it off and Palmer street is about one-third shorter. But mainly this walk is the only place tenants have to take a walk. There are about four or so women who use crutches, four-prong canes, to suport them and these people could be knocked down easily by one of the high-speed bike riders, and now, the skateboard riders.

Noting a couple of the latter yesterday going by once or twice at high speeds, and not forgetting that I was a kid myself once, I didn't blatt at them or raise my voice. I just waved them down and had a quiet conversation with them. They were nice kids — not the types you hear about that swell our school vandalism budgets. I asked them if there wasn't a place set aside somewhere else that they could use. They replied no, but they might have such a spot if someone offered a petition to isolate this new craze in places where there was no traffic, and maybe with a supervisor.

I promised them that I would suggest something to the authorities and that I thought it was a good idea. They went along and I haven't seen them back.

So, as promised, here is your petition, Chief McHugh. What do you say, chief? A good idea? Or a bad one?

Kids in this town don't have many places to go after school. It would seem practical to face up to this up-coming skateboard hobby — or frenzy.

I liked those kids. They talked sensibly with me and I did promise to start something.

Town meeting elections

Nearly every vacant seat for town meeting member was filled in the March 28 election, but some only by write-in vote.

In some cases, notably in district eight, vacant seats were filled by write-ins who received fewer than five votes. In that district as well, there are two seats remaining vacant for a one-year term and another seat still open for a two-year term.

Ties in the voting are to be broken by district caucus.

Jeffrey Sample, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Sample of 8 Copley Road and a senior at Winchester High School, was awarded a gift certificate for finishing third in the statewide 14th Annual Math Olympiad Competition sponsored by the Massachusetts Association of Mathematics Leagues.

Jeff was third scorer among the more than 6000 students from 172 Massachusetts High Schools who took the test in October.

As a result of his standing in this exam, Jeff has been selected as a finalist in the Olympiad High School Mathematical Competition which will be held Tuesday at the American Mutual Insurance Company in Wakefield.

Suzy Forman, a senior at Winchester High School will play first violin in a Dana Baroque Ensemble concert Apr. 9.

The concert, which will feature 17th and 18th century chamber music directed by Charlotte Kaufman, will be held at 3 p.m. in Beveridge Hall on the Dana Hall campus.

Admission to the concert is free and open to the public. A reception for the performers will be held at the end of the program.

Elizabeth Obbard, Greta Rosenberger, Seth Rosenberger, and Abigail Wechsler of Winchester will be among students of piano teacher Jane Winchell of Arlington to participate in a "creativity festival" Apr. 8 at Steinert Hall, 162 Boylston st., Boston. The students will be playing their own compositions, as well as prepared solo and duet pieces.

Caroline Baumann, 26 Everett ave., won a bronze medal in category 2, and Catherine Skahan, 51 Wildwood st., won a bronze in category 3. Both girls skate with the Metropolitan Figure Skating School.

Under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Hardcastle both an active member of the volunteers Association at the Hospital, and a teacher for the confirmation class at the school, the enthusiastic youngsters created special hand-made decorations.

The entire eighth grade class at the school will be confirmed Friday, May 19, by Cardinal Medieros of Boston. The youths, all residents of Winchester and Woburn, were Edward Welch, Kenneth McLean, Thomas N. Kerrigan, Richard Kenney, David Keane, Beth Walker, Patricia von Heim, Sandra Tartarini, Mona Savino, Kelley Peluso, Lori Marshall, Christine Lovett, Joyce Gibbons, Mary Failla, Christine Double, Michael Maguire.

Outstanding

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The time constraint to meet the requirements for town meeting reports consumes my attention almost totally these weeks. I'd find it unconscionable, however, to use the tasks at hand as an excuse for not taking the time to thank publicly our former school committee chairman, Bob Frank, for his outstanding service to our schools, our town and our children.

At school committee meetings Bob Frank demonstrated able leadership. His ready grasp of the basic points at issue, his openmindeness which yielded a thoughtful position and response to all sides of a question and his articulate summary of discussion provided insight for the audience (proponents and opponents alike) and gave direction and support to our able school committee members and administrators.

As chairman of the finance committee it has been a pleasure to work with Bob. His solid understanding of the $9 million education program budget and his commitment to value received for dollars spent kept logical argument and substantive evidence the key factors in our joint sessions. His professional expertise applied to teacher negotiations insures our right to excellence in teaching in the difficult transition years ahead.

In sum, I am grateful for four years of his dedicated service. In that time he has earned the sincere respect of his colleagues and the community.

Best wishes.

Human rights

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

As a nation, we have been appropriately vocal in our concern for Soviet treatment of Russian dissidents and for South African treatment of South African blacks. We should show equal concern for American citizens whose human rights are violated in Israel.

Since September, two Americans have been arrested in Israel, held incommunicado, forced to sign confessions in Hebrew and given partly or wholly secret trials. The first of these, Terry Fleener, is currently serving a five-year sentence following a one-day secret trial. The second, Sami Esmail, a graduate assistant in engineering at Michigan State University, came to Israel to see his dying father and was arrested on arrival at the Tel Aviv airport on Dec. 21.

Esmail was not allowed to communicate with anyone, nor even to see a lawyer until he had signed a confession. When he was finally allowed to testify in court, he repudiated the confession, stating that he had been coerced into signing it by prolonged physical abuse and psychological torture. He denied the charges that he had been trained as an explosives expert in Libya and that he had been a member of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine.

Esmail's Jewish Israeli lawyer tried to introduce evidence in the form of a written statement by Mark Davidson, the U.S. vice consul in Israel. After objections from the prosecution, the court declined to accept the written statement, and the U.S. State Department refused to allow Davidson to take the stand in person. (The Boston Globe, Mar. 29).

Esmail's imprisonment, abusive treatment, and trial constitute a clear violation of human rights. If we are indeed concerned for the preservation of these rights, his case should provoke the same outcry on the part of the government and the citizenry as do violations of human rights in other countries.

Lenin's strategy

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Former U.S. Ambassador to Argentina, the late Spruille Braden, speaking to the United States Navy League in Los Angeles, Calif. noted that the communization and control of Latin America is one of the five musts listed by Lenin for the Soviet Union to accomplish world domination.

Lenin's successors raise point six: "To build their naval forces to overwhelming strength, accompanied by widely dispersed and fully-equipped bases, their objectives include the domination of all sea lanes, passages, and routes. Among these, the Panama Canal is paramount."

Latin American expert Harold Lord Varney has pointed out:

"One of Moscow's high priorities in its program of world conquest is to strangle the Free World by gaining control of all the world's strategic waterways. As early as Lenin, this strategy was, and it has remained, a guide for the Kremlin planners.

"The great primary waterways are 1) The Straight of Gibraltar; 2) the Suez entrance to the Red Sea; 3) the Aden exit from the Red Sea; 4) the Malacca Straight, key to the East Indies; 5) the Persian Gulf; 6) the Panama Canal!"

Mr. Carter plans to give it away!

How to Take the Sting Out of Your Drinking Water

Chlorine, it turns out, may be killing more than the bacteria in your water

All that glitters is not golden—let alone gold—including the water flowing from your faucet. That sparkling clear beverage you draw from tap may not look suspicious, but it could be contaminated by bacteria, viruses, toxic trace elements, fertilizer residues and other unknown cancer-producing chemicals.

Yes, drinking water can make you sick. If you or your family suffer from upset stomachs, headaches or diarrhea, take a long, hard look at your water.

Most health departments test only for coliform bacteria, however, because coliform are useful indicators of the presence of disease organisms.

Boiling water for a long time, unless you have an emergency problem, concentrates metals as well as nonvolatile organic compounds. Frank Bell, an environmental engineer for the office of water supply at EPA, tells us that "heating water containing chlorine doubles the level of chloroform immediately, but boiling for a long time drives it off. Boiling is not a good method to use to remove chloroform, however, since nitrates and heavy metals become concentrated."

The Chlorine-Cancer Link

Ironically, the very treatment process which has been used successfully for some 70 years to prevent the spread of waterborne diseases like typhoid and cholera is now suspected of causing cancer. The heart of the problem is that chlorine combines with many organics to form new compounds, including chloroform.

A preliminary study funded by the EPA revealed that women who lived in areas with chlorinated water stood a 44 percent greater chance of dying from gastro-intestinal and urinary tract cancer than did those who lived in areas without chlorination. A second study now underway by the same researchers may show that the figures hold true for men as well.

Cleansing Water With Activated Carbon

If you feel that you want to clean up your personal water supply, one of the most effective methods for removing organics is activated carbon. The small granules are extremely porous, with a high surface area which aids in their capacity for absorbing contaminants. The "activation" process makes the large surface area "sticky" so that molecules of the impurities in water cling to the surface of the carbon it contacts. Activated carbon is effective in removing pesticides such as DDT, dieldrin and many industrial chemicals, such as carbon tetrachloride and polychlorinated biphenyls (PCB's). It is also effective in removing chlorine and the products of chlorination (including chloroform). Both bad taste and odor are also effectively eliminated.

December Issue 1977

The health warnings and the cure are coming from Health magazines and not the Government, mainly because the Government cannot correct the problem. Its position is Why Alarm the Public when we do not have a cure. This communication gap works well in keeping the Public from applying pressure. A true democracy is getting this information out to the people and letting them decide for themselves on what course of action to take and what's best for their health.

The Government sets the standards on what it finds in the water and not what's safe for the Public. The EPA tested 133 cities for chloroform and found they all had some chloroform in their water supply while 35 cities had high amounts. The EPA then set a standard at 100 PPB as a compromise in order not to condemn all of the water supplies and the use of chlorine which causes the problem. The setting of this standard was delayed because of the strong opposition of many doctors who claim that there is no such thing as a safe level of a chemical carcinogen in water, especially since water is consumed by everyone on a daily basis.

Recent tests made of the town's water have shown a much higher amount of chloroform than appeared in the January test. Keep in mind that the chloroform level is much higher in the summer than in the winter months and that boiling water for a short time doubles the amount of chloroform.

Why should the Public be unaware of what's going on and allowed to drink toxic chemicals and heavy metals in tap water when there is a simple way of filtering them out?

The Multi-Pure self-sanitizing carbon filtration system can remove all of the chloroform and the chlorine that caused its formation along with many other toxic impurities in tap drinking water.

The Multi-Pure drinking water system takes all of the sting out of tap water while it makes drinking sparkling clean water a real pleasure.

No kitchen is fully modern or safe without a water purification system.

LWV theater night Friday

The Winchester League of Women Voters' Committee on Theater Night is making final plans for their benefit night, Apr. 7, at the performance by the Unitarian Players of three one-act plays.

The Players are performing the three works by playwright A.R. Gurney tonight, tomorrow and Saturday night at 8:15 at the Unitarian Church. Tickets are available for the League's benefit night from Joanne Morgan, 6 Crescent rd., or at the door the night of the performance.

The League has presented their theater night for the past few years to help hold down rising costs and dues and to enable them to continue providing services to the town. Among the services provided by the League are the annual candidates' night, a candidates' questionnaire and guide printed in The Star every year, the town meeting member list, and Inside Winchester, a handbook of town government. A revised edition of Inside Winchester will be coming off the presses this summer.

And these are only some of the group's local activities. The LWV also gets involved in campaigns for specific issues, such as court reform and the bottle bill. They are currently studying the problem of financing state-mandated programs such as Chapter 766 (special education) and Chapter 70 (school aid) and their effect on local tax rates. The LWV traditionally does not support any particular candidate, only issues.

"The League's final aim in every effort is an informed citizenry," comments Cynthia Turnquist, publicity director for the local LWV. "It is working with a diminishing pool of volunteers, as is every unpaid organization. A benefit night helps the citizens to say that they appreciate what the League is attempting to do."

There will be a champagne reception following the performance Saturday night.

Winchester YMCA swimmers spark championship meet

Local swimmers aided the nearby North Suburban YMCA in its successful bid for league titles at the recent Eastern Mass. YMCA Swimming and Diving Championships at Brockton High School.

The eight and under boys' champions were aided by local Richie McCracken. The seven-year-old, who just keeps getting better and better, swam the backstroke leg of the bronze medal 100 yard medley relay, and placed tenth in the 25 yard butterfly and 12th in the 25 yard backstroke individual events.

In the nine and 10 boys' events, Scott Van Ummerson, competing with a 102-degree temperature, grabbed an eighth place ribbon in the 100 yard individual medley, and a sixth place medal in the 50 yard butterfly. The hard-luck youngster also saw a gold medal in the 200 yard medley relay taken when a teammate jumped the start. The mistake was a costly one indeed as it voided the Vikings first place points, and vaulted Brockton to the top spot overall in the age group. Swimming rookie Jim Blasi, just nine, turned in best times in the 50 and 100 yard freestyle events, and joined local Steve Murray, also just nine, in the Vikings' sixth place 200 free relay. Steve also sparked with a one-second improvement in his 50 free event.

The 11 and 12 boys' champions received a three-medal performance from Hugh Murray. Hugh, who was ranked in New England in long course (metric) competition last summer, stroked to a gold medal in the 200 free, a silver medal in the 50 yard back, and paced the Vikings' cold medal free relay. Peter Webber, just 11, also provided valuable depth to the league titlists, placing fifth in the 200 individual medley, seventh in the 50 breast, and swimming the breastroke lap of the Vikings' bronze medal medley relay.

Richard Webber, 13, placed 11th in the grueling 500 yard free in the demanding 13 and 14 age group. The accomplishment was even more noteworthy in light of the fact that it was his first-ever attempt at the distance event. Both Rich and brother Pete return to their respective age groups next season and are being counted on to provide additional scoring ability for the Vikings in both A.A.U. and YMCA competition.

In the senior boys' division, newcomer Mark Vernaglia aided the Woburn-based squad with a bronze medal in the one meter diving. The Winchester High School senior, who was named to the Middlesex League All-Star Team, also qualified for the YMCA Nationals in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Meanwhile, over to the distaff side, local girls were not about to be outdone by their male counterparts and made many valuable contributions to the Vikings' girls' teams. In the eight and under competition, rookie Charlotte Reece stroked to a ninth place ribbon in the 25 yard breastroke with her best time ever for the event.

The nine and ten girls, who finished second overall, were aided by another newcomer, Debbie Twichell, who stroked the butterfly lap of the sixth place 200 medley relay and grabbed eighth and ninth place ribbons in the 50 fly and free events The petite miss, who is a strong candidate for the most improved award, has knocked 11 seconds off her 50 fly time since the start of the season; she is described by her coaches as a real fighter, and one to be watched in the future.

In the 11 and 12 division, diver Michelle Bowen, another rookie in the sport, copped a strong seventh place ribbon. Her return to the same age group next year bodes well for the 11 and 12 girls who finished in third place overall, just six points shy of the title.

The 13 and 14 girls' team, which finished second overall, also received a lot of help from local aquatic aces. Rookies Eileen Conley and P.K. Porter (who really came on strong late in the season) took 11th in the 500 free and third in the 50 free respectively. Eileen also swam the free lap of the fifth place medley relay, while P.K. led off the bronze medal free relay. Veteran Lynn Van Ummerson anchored that free relay, and took ninth in the 50 and 100 Free events. This team returns virtually intact next season and must be considered the top contender for honors.

Winchster Youth Hockey requests that all boys that are planning to try out for the Winchester Pee Wee Blackhawks next season, report for a preliminary drill and get together at the USA Rink in Winchester, Apr. 9 at 10:50 a.m.

Coaches Falla and Boyle are anxious to meet the candidates and answer questions of what is entailed if you make the team, and the rewards that go with it.

For instance, this year five members of the "Hawks" were chosen as league all-stars. Patrick Falla, Michael Griffin and Coley Wilson all enjoyed a week in Quebec City with the Jr. Braves. Paul Tucci and Bill Eaton played in Dalhousie, Canada, as members of the Jr. Whalers.

In addition the team won the Christmas tournament held in Tyngsboro, and just returned from a three-day stay in Lewiston, Me., where they competed in an excellent tournament. The team also plays a full schedule in the Middlesex Youth Hockey League.

It should be stressed that while the drill on Sunday is not a 'tryout," it will be a big help to players and coaches alike to have an idea of who will be "trying out" in the fall and whether Winchester will have one or two Pee Wee teams.

Helmets must be worn and a minimal ice fee will be charged.

Correction

It was Joe Flynn and not Joy who received a letter for his work on the high school varsity track team.

The annual sports award banquet was held recently and letters given to varsity players in winter sports. Joe was on the winter track team.

By KEVIN GOSSELIN

The resounding echo of the starter's gun will soon be heard by the hard-working tracksters of Coach Manny Marshall.

Already the team is psyching themselves up for the upcoming Middlesex League season. The entire team is looking forward to another successful slate after posting a 7-2 record last year. As junior state finalist sprinter Scott Farrar exclaims, "I think the team has great potential, and that we should do real well this year."

Winchester has been slowly building themselves up in the standings over the past two seasons. This has been due to a lot of hard work from the boys themselves, and from a fine coaching staff at the high school.

Winchester, since it has no junior high school track program, has found themselves competing for the last few years against teams that do. Despite this, Coach Marshall feels that his team will do exceedingly well this year.

Winchester had been a perennial track power in the middle sixties, only losing its dominance as more and more towns began track programs at their junior High school levels. As Coach Marshall puts it, "I think that Winchester has been hurt over the years because of the fact that there is no formal track program in the junior high schools. All the other towns in the league have them, except Winchester. If Winchester had such a program, they would be able to contend with some of the powerhouse teams around the league, and place high in the standings each year."

The team will be counting on excellent performances from all its members this year. In the 440, the Sachems will be seeking big points from senior Charlie Larkin, junior Terry Cordova, and sophomore Ken Kirk. The half-mile event will run senior Kevin Gosselin, junior Ed Kilpatrick, and sophomore Feza Kopruca. Wearing Winchester's red and black for the mile event will be junior Andy Wilsack, and two super sophomores, Mark Costello and Joe Flynn. The two mile team will be commanded by junior Jim Wilbur, followed by sophomores Tom Doocey and Rob Flynn. Compiling the hurdling squad will be seniors Scott Kajander and Tim Morgan, and sophomores Loukas Natsis and Don MacMillan. The sprinters will be led by senior Mark O'Neil and junior Scott Farrar.

The boys running the field events this year are without a doubt the strongest Winchester has seen in many years. Coach Tom Kline confidently feels that "we'll dominate the league in shot and discus. I feel that Brian O'Connor will go undefeated and be a finalist in the states. Without question, the discus team of Brian O'Connor, John Haggerty, and John Shattuck will win the Andover relays. Tim Morgan will be a strong high jumper, and may very well break the school record. We'll do very well."

Senior shot put and discus specialist Brian O'Connor feels confident of another undefeated season in his event. "I hope to break both the shot put and discus school records, and win the states in the shot put." With confidence like that, how can he go wrong!

Senior javelinist Artie Monturi also is confident of a fine season. "This time last year, the kids were just learning how to hold the discus. But this year, the sophomores are learning quickly, which is a definite plus in our favor."

The high flying state champion pole vaulting MacDonnell brothers are each anticipating a successful season. Having dominated the league for the past two years with their vaulting, both Peter and Andy are reaching for new heights. This could very well be the year that the school record will fall in this event.

This year will most definitely bring a shattered record or two. Charlie Larkin, having broken in winter track the 600 yd. record by 1.3 seconds, is aiming his sights on the one-half second which separates him from another school record in the quarter mile. Ed Kilpatrick is just seconds away from a new half mile record. Miler Andy Wilsack, who shattered the indoor mile record by 12 seconds this past winter, is looking to break the outdoor record as well. The track team's hopes for this season definitely reflect Coach Marshall's words, "we're going to show."

Sign-ups now for Cap League baseball

Registration for Cap league baseball is now in progress. Applications may be picked up and returned to the Winchester Sport Shop. The deadline for registration is Apr. 15.

Plans are being made to add two more teams, bringing the total number of teams in the league to 18. There are still positions open for managers, coaches, and assistant directors. Parents who wish to help should contact Bill Morton at 729-1808.

WHS girls have own track team

By KEVIN GOSSELIN

Winchester has finally joined the twentieth century, for it has been graced with an official girls' track team. Lead by Coach Joseph Cantillon, the team is hopeful for a good season. Amongst some of the standouts are state record holder in the two mile Jan Oehm, and recent state finalist sprinter Bonnie Price. The members of the team are:

Juniors: Terri Barlow, Terry Bergin, Terry Burns, Ann Bird, Cara Criscione, Kathy Cullen, Sherri Daugherty, Michelle Demars, Ellen Dillon, Laura Delgreco, Mary Donlon, Lynn Foden, Andrea Fortin, Sara Fotsch, Lucy Foule, Mary Ellen Kennedy, Elizabeth Kerman, Jane Terry, Patricia Tracey, Ann Williamson, Margie Roll, Kathy Cahill, Stephanie Schwartzman, Marybeth Reinhardt.

Mini-marathon set for May 21

The sixth annual mini-marathon is tentatively scheduled for May 21, reports Recreation Director Donald L. Spinney.

The races this year will be for Winchester residents only. In addition, the courses for the different age groups have been changed, and runners should take note.

Registration blanks with all course changes are available at the Winchester Sport Shop. The deadline for registration is May 12.

Mites top Newton, 3 to 2

The Winchester Mites kept their play-off hopes alive with a win over a strong Newton team Saturday morning at the Burlington Ice Palace. The three to two win moved Winchester into sole possession of second place, one point behind division leader Waltham, and one point ahead of Medford.

It is not known at this time if the Winchester Mites will have a chance to be in the play-offs due to league changes made this year. Medford also has an additional game to be played due to snow cancellations. It is necessary that Medford lose this game against Woburn. Both teams would then have played an equal number of games, with league officials advising that the remaining snow-cancelled games will not be made up. Each team has to play one addtitional snow-cancelled game.

In the Newton game, it was Petey Regan putting Winchester on the scoreboard on a breakaway early in the first period. It appeared headed for a goalies game as Kevin Boyle came up with many fine saves for Winchester, not only in the first period, but throughout the game.

Newton did come back in the middle of the second period for their first tally, but hard work by Greg Winn digging the puck out of the corner and putting a centering pass in front of the net caught Newton off guard and a defenseman's stick tipped in the pass for the score. Greg Winn was given the goal and assists to Billy Coppins and Petey Regan.

Tremendous defensive work by Winchester's Scott Paine, Billy Coppins, Greg Winn, and Petey Regan kept Newton pressing. It was Marc Todisco and David Butt's back checking that enabled Butt to come out of the pack with the puck and go in alone and beat the Newton goalie for the winning goal. Later in the third period, Newton responded with their second and final goal. With 1:17 left to play in the game, Newton pulled their goalie in favor of their sixth skater but Winchester survived and gained the three to two victory.

Coaches Regan and Winn praised the work of their team. Ted Dever, Sukjong Chung, Tim Day, Marc Falzano, Ronny Settipane, and Matt Quill contributed to the win.

Even if these boys don't make the play-offs they can be very proud of their year's accomplishments and the enjoyment they have brought to their loyal fans.

Names sought for Title I parent, teacher of year

This spring, Title I teachers, parents, teacher aides, administrators, and any others involved in working for Title I will have an opportunity to show their appreciation to a Title I teacher and parent who have performed outstandingly this year. They may do so by nominating them for the Title I Parent- and Teacher-of-the Year Awards. These awards will be presented at the State Title I Conference in Hyannis, April 24-26.

The purpose of the awards is to promote the ideal of the involvement of parents and teachers in Title I beyond the normal expectations of their roles. By focusing at the "grass roots" level, we wish to recognize parents and teachers who have contributed their services primarily in their own school districts, although service beyond the local level will also be considered.

If you know a parent or teacher, or both, in your district whom you feel has contributed to Title I activities in an exemplary was this past year, submit their names to the Title I Dissemination Project by April 10 along with a short statement (100 words or less) explaining why you feel they should receive this award. Your statement should provide some specific examples (besides good attitude) of how your nominee exemplifies the spirit and goals of Title I.

All nominations received in both categires will be evaluated by the Title I Dissemination Advisory Council.

Slide tape on libraries is in town on Friday

Libraries...For the People...By the People, a slidetape prepared by a staff of the state Board of Library Commissioners, is traveling around town this week.

The slidetape discusses complaints about libraries from people in various walks of life. It is designed to stimulate discussion about local libraries and to get those who have not visited their library recently to check it out. It is part of the materials prepared for the Governor's Conference on Libraries and Informatition Services which will be held at the Park Plaza Hotel on April 26 and 27.

Those townspeople who have not used the Winchester Public Library may not realize the variety of materials that can be found there. Reproductions of art masterpieces in attractive frames are available to borrow for a month to help in interior decorating. Cassettes have as varied material as a guide to traveling the Freedom Trail and an interview with local citizen remembering his family's truck farm where the Mystic School stands today.

Local merchants, businessmen, and organizations are showing the slide-tape at various times throughout the week. It will be at the public library on Friday.

Students hear of careers from English studies

Students at Winchester High School with interests in journalism, publishing, teaching, or other language oriented careers, had an opportunity on Mar. 8 and 9 to meet representatives from such professions during the English Department's "Career Days."

The purpose of the "Career Days" program was "to take English beyond the confines of the English classroom," said Francis Russell, English department chairwoman. "We wanted to show young people the important role English plays in a variety of careers."

To meet this purpose, guest speaker Sol Gittleman, Winchester resident and professor at Tufts University spoke on "English, You Ain't Nothin' Without It." Lee Grove, free lance writer, talked about how a writer finds a topic; and Ruth White, retired Enlish teacher, reminisced about her 17 years as a teacher in Winchester and about changes in the way English language skills are taught.

Other speakers in the program included Mark Morse, whose topic was book publishing; Beth Verrochi on communication skills; and Paul Zavitkovsky on English in management positions.

"We hope that the skills we are trying to teach in regular English classes will mean more to the students now, said Barbara Stoddard, an English teacher who helped to organize the program.

Approximately 700 students were involved in the two-day program.

School officials to meet with local black parents

School board member Heinrich Holland will meet with black parents this evening to discuss their concerns about racial problems in Winchester.

In a letter to School Superintendent William C. MacDonald, printed in The Star Mar. 23, a group of local black parents expressed their alarm at the resignation recently of the only black teacher at Winchester High School, Charlene Clinton.

Mrs. Clinton resigned at the beginninng of March amidst reports that she had been repeatedly subject to racial slurs. In their letter, the parents calimed "As Winchester residents, our families have shared in the same indignities suffered by Mrs. Clinton." The letter noted that Winchester had only three black teachers in the entire system (before Mrs. Clinton's resignation) and called this condition "unwholesome."

"To change this condition," continued the letter, "we would strongly urge compliance with both the spirit and application of equal opportunity laws... We advocate the training of teachers and students in human relations."

Holland said he contacted Prof. and Mrs. R.J. Anderson, who were among those signing the letter, and set up today's meeting. "The main thing I want to do is listen," commented Holland, who added the general purpose of the meeting is to discuss the issues raised in the letter and by Mrs. Clinton's resignation.

Supt. MacDonald, who was invited to join the meeting, said he had "a couple of ideas" for possible administrative action, including more active recruitment of minorities for positions within the school department. "We could handle that a little more aggressively," he commented, adding, "We can see what we can do about changing the attitudes of people, but I don't know if there's much we can do about that."

Of the situation in the schools in general, the superintendent felt that, "the atmosphere isn't as bad as it appears."

Asked about past hiring practice, Assistant Superintendent Walter Gleason commented, "We try to hire the best we can find. The teachers we find from minority groups who are equal in qualifications to those from non-minority groups are the ones who tend not to come here." Gleason explained that such candidates tend to have a better choice of jobs because of affirmative action programs and often end up choosing a position with better pay or more responsibility than those offered in Winchester.

One step the school board is taking is to reactivate its membership in a "personnel administrators group," an informal association of area school personnel officers. The group coordinates hiring and recruitment and is at present working on finding qualified minority candidates.

"The group has been instrumental in establishing a recruitment program that would answer the affirmative action programs that have been mandated by federal statute, " noted Lynch Principal Robert Fitzgerald. Fitzgerald, along with Vinson-Owen Principal Clare Corcoran, handles personnel matters for the school system.

Firemen join effort at crash on 93

Winchester firefighters Murphy, McDonough and Captain Dalton responded in engine number 3, Friday, to a two-alarm collision on route 93 near Montvale avenue, Woburn.

A car taveling south went into a skid; an oil tanker ran into it and burst into flames. The driver of the tanker, Francis Burnham, 58, of Haverhill, was thrown from the truck. Woburn firemen brought him to Winchester Hospital where he was treated for burns and released.

Ronald Treantafel, of South Boston, pulled Mary McKenna, 24, of Somerville, out of her car. She was treated at New England Memorial Hospital, Stoneham, for leg injuries.

Department of public works officials reopened the northbound lane Friday afternoon when they determined there was no serious damage to the Montvale avenue bridge.

A nurse on duty on A-3 at the Winchester Hospital was commended for preventing a serious fire in a room containing electrical equipment. All Winchester apparatus responded to a call on the 27th at 8:30 p.m. A rectifier unit for the nurse call system was found smoking. All doors had been closed and the nurse was prepared to use the proper CO2 extinguisher.

Linda McNeill, of 13 Fairmount st., was treated at Winchester Hospital on the 27th for facial and possible neck injuries, after her car struck a school bus at the corner of Cross st. and Kenwin rd. There were no student in the bus and the driver was not injured.

All firefighting apparatus responded to a fire in the kitchen of a house on Englewood road on the 28th. A short circuit in the cord to a coffee-maker started the fire which resulted in extensive damage to the kitchen and caused smoke damage throughout the house. A resident of the house put out the main body of the fire with a home extinguisher.

Firemen extinguished a fire around the carburetor in a Volkswagon at the corner of Highland avenue and Mt. Vernon street on the 27th.

Firemen responded to a call on Wedgemere avenue on the 28th. An Edison wire, broken by a tree limb falling on it, was arced and burning. They stood by until Boston Edison arrived on the scene.

A brush fire on Charles street on the 30th took 10 minutes to extinguish, and firemen spent 15 minutes putting out a brush fire on Cross street. They used brooms to extinguish three brush fires on the 31st, one on Amberwood drive, one on Wendell street, and a campfire on Wendell hill.

INVESTING IN LAND

One of the nice things about investing in land is that it rarely presents management problems. However, since it will produce no income, it should be bought only if you are financially able to carry the debt.

For the typical investment, you have to put down cash amounting to 25 percent to 50 percent of the total cost of the land, with regular payments on the remainder until the entire debt is paid. But if you prefer to pay taxes on a long-term capital gain, rather than ordinary income, then land can be an attractive investment.

The key to a good land investment is predicting land needs of the future. Here is where the experience of a good, local Realtor comes in. He has intimate knowledge of community needs, and can forecast, far better than the layman, what will be required for future land use and the best areas for growth potential.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at ANN BLACKHAM & CO. 11 THOMPSON ST., WINCHESTER. PHONE 729-1663. We're here to help!

Ms. Schwartzman at conference for Title I directors

Mildred M. Schwartzman, coordinator of Winchester's Title I program, attended the annual Title I financial conference in Hyannis on Mar. 28 and 29, along with several hundred Title I coordinators, directors, business mangers and parents.

Hosted by Joseph Cella, chief of the External Audit Bureau, the meeting consisted of several presentations. "Jim" Mountain, Title I fiscal manager, spoke about forms and procedures for preliminary audits, requests for monies and amendments. Frank Macomis from the Bureau of External Audit spoke on Federal regulations concerning audits and record keeping.

Jack Baptista, state Title I director, gave the gathering an update on Federal legislation concerning Title I, and announced that Massachusetts received a 22 percent increase in finds for 1979. He informed the group that since the inception of the financial workshops in 1975 audit exceptions have decreased both in number and amount. Audit exceptions totaling $138,000 in 1976 were down to $8,000 in 1978. It is obvious that attendance at the workshops and the communications from the State have resulted in greater financial control.

Bishop Hines visits Epiphany

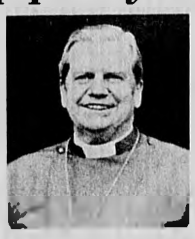
Winchester Episcopalians prepare to welcome one of the great leaders of their church this Sunday morning at the Parish of the Epiphany when the Rt. Rev. John E. Hines, Presiding Bishop of the Church from 1965 to 1974, comes to lead a period of renewal which will give primary attention to the role of the laity in the life of the church today.

The Bishop will preach at the 10 a.m. service Sunday and speak to the adult class, and then at an evening meeting, open to the public and beginning at 8, he will address himself to issues facing the church today and to the ecumenical question.

On Monday evening, Bishop Hines will be leading discussions at a meeting, designed for members of the Vestry, the Council of the Women of Epiphany, the Board of Christian Education and other vestry committees and task forces.

Tuesday morning from 9:30 to 11:30, Women of Epiphany invite friends in the community and Episcopal Churchwomen of the Diocese to join them in a eucharist and informal conversations. The Bishop's stay in the parish concludes with a covered dish supper and eucharist, beginning Tuesday evening at 6:30. Reservations for the supper may be made through Monday afternoon at the church office.

Bishop Hines is a native of South Carolina. He graduated from the University of the South and the Virginia Theological Seminary. He served parishes in Missouri, Georgia, and Texas before being elected Bishop Coadjutor of Texas in 1945. In 1955, he became the Bishop of Texas and ten years later, was the youngest man ever to be elected Presiding Bishop of the Episcopal Church. His episcopate covered the difficult years of the civil rights movement and the Vietnam War, and during this time, the church also was struggling with important internal issues, the revision of its canon law on the remarriage of divorced persons, the renewal of its liturgies and the development of the new prayer book, and the ordiantion of women.



Bishop John Hines

Since his retirement from office, Bishop Hines has continued to serve the church, working with both diocese and parishes as they respond to new structures and the changing patterns and forms of ministry, both ordained and lay. Reflecting on this work, he writes, "These are fascinating times in the life of the church and the world. I wouldn't swap them for any other comparable segment despite the 'waves' being made by the ferment of the Spirit".

Guest speaker at Unitarian for Alliance Sunday

This Sunday will be Alliance Sunday at the Winchester Unitarian church. The Guest speaker will be Mrs. Natalie Gulbrandsen, president of UUWF and a member of the Unitarian Society of Wellesley Hills.

The aim of the Unitarian Universalist Women's Federation, of which Mrs. Gulbrandsen is president, is to encourage women to develop their full potential and to participate effectively in the church, fellowship, and denomination.

Among its activities are support of the Equal Rights Amendment, work for prison reform, leadership training, parliamentary procedure techniques, and peace.

Mrs. Gulbrandsen's theme will be, "Honoring the Past and Looking Forward to the Future."

Lay participants in the service will be Loretta Redding, Mary Jane Grasty, Justine King, Ruth Ann Lombard and Marie Zoerheide.

The February Blizzard snowed out the Knights of Columbus Bloodmobile visit earlier this year and the make-good visit of the bloodmobile late in March encountered no snow, but a hard, driving rainstrom that discouraged donors. So the "take' was low as compared to similar Bloodmobile visits to the Winchester lodges, churches, and civic organizations.

Services Set Tomorrow For Jason W. Dade, 46, Former Star Publisher

Jason W. Dade, former publisher of The Winchester Star, died yesterday at age 46. He suffered a heart attack at home and passed away a short time later at Winchester Hospital.

Mr. Dade and his father, Ernest B. Dade of Hillcrest parkway, purchased The Star in 1969 and he served as publisher until 1971 when the paper was sold to Century Publications, Inc. He continued with The Star as Controller and Assistant Publisher until September, 1976, when he left to join Frederick H. Boynton, CPA, of Boston, a public accounting firm, as an accountant.

Mr. Dade was a lifelong resident of Winchester and active in community and civic affairs. He was a Town Meeting member for 18 years, served on the Water and Sewer Board from 1962 to 1965, and in 1974 he was elected to the Winchester Charter Commission.

He later served on the By-law Revision Committee and in 1976 was a candidate for Selectman. He was also a member of the Winchester Republican Town Committee.

At the time of his death he was a member of the Northwest Metro Health Council, an advisory group of the Health Planning Council of Greater Boston. He was a member of the nominations and elections committee of the Northwest Council and was recently named to the Planning Committee studying the possible consolidation of the Winchester, Choate and Symmes Hospitals.

A longtime member of Grace Chapel of Lexington, he was chairman of the church's missionary committee and a member of the finance committee. He was a member of the Winchester Rotary Club for many years and served on various committees there.

Star publisher C. Peter Jorgensen said employees at the newspaper who worked with Mr. Dade for eight years were shocked and saddened by his untimely passing. "He will be missed by so many in Winchester and the community has suffered a great loss. Jason was one of those people who is active in various town affairs, and serving on volunteer boards and committees, who is so important to the functioning of a small town. He gave selflessly of his time and efforts and all those who served with him or worked with him knew him to be of outstanding character and sincerely dedicated to community interests."

Mr. Dade attended Winchester Public Schools and The Manlius School in New York. He attended the University of Vermont and graduated from Gordon College in Wenham with a B.S. degree. He later received a certificate in accounting from Bentley College and took advanced courses at Boston University and Harvard.

Jason W. Dade

He had served as a director of the Winchester Business Association and was a member of the National Association of Accountants. He was a past member of the Massachusetts Press Association, the New England Press Association and the National Newspaper Association.

Prior to his assuming duties as publisher of The Star he was employed by the H.J. Winn Company of Winchester for 12 years and was Treasurer of that firm when he and his father purchased the newspaper.

He is survived by his wife, Shirley Anne (Hanson); a daughter, Susan; and a son, Stephen, all of Winchester. He is also survived by his mother and father, Ernest B. and Marian Dade of Winchester, and a brother, Douglas B. Dade of Reading.

Visiting hours at the Costello Funeral Home are tonight from 7 to 9. Services will be held Friday at 9 a.m. at Grace Chapel, Lexington. Donations in his memory may be made to Grace Chapel or to the Heart Fund.

School board sets date for hearing on school closing recommendations

A public hearing on long range plans for Winchester's schools is scheduled for Apr. 26 at 7:30 p.m. at the Ambrose School.

After agreeing on the hearing date at their Monday night meeting, the school committee debated just how soon they should start to make concrete decisions regarding the future of the school system.

The consensus of the board has been that a public hearing should be held before any decisions are reached regarding the proposals presented in the report of the task force on long range plans at a meeting Mar. 27.

That report suggests closing three elementary schools in the next three years, consolidating the two junior highs into one grade 7 and 8 school, and converting the high school to a four-year plan. The recommendations in the task force report break down into a series of operational decisions to be made over the next few years.

The major steps include: Close Parkhurst School in 1979; and in 1980, close Noonan and either Washington or Lincoln, convert Lynch Junior High to an elementary school and move the central offices from Sanborn House to Lynch, convert McCall to a two-year junior high school, and convert the high school to four years.

At Monday's meeting, Superintendent William C. MacDonald made it clear that he would like the committee to act "with expediency" regarding the long range plans. In a memo to the committee, MacDonald states:

"As a result of the reports of the enrollment study committee, the middle school study committee, and now the task force on long range plans, it is quite evident that the school committee has all the information it needs upon which to make decisions on school closings. If the town is to benefit from these studies, it is necessary to take action." MacDonald urged the board to accept the task force report and vote their recommendations.

However, not everyone was convinced that the committee has all the information it needs. The committee has asked that questions from the public on the task force report, and any other related questions be submitted to the administration by Monday, Apr. 17, in order to give the committee adequate time to research the answers.

Chairman Constance Papas said she would like to see the committee start making decisions before the end of the school year.

Commented board member Sandra Rodgers, "We should wait until we have a public hearing so that we know what will be coming up before we decide when to make any decisions."

But, barring any radical changes in the enrollment and cost figures, some of the major decisions may already have been made. The rapidly declining enrollments, coupled with the annual pressures to control the school budget, have convinced the committee members, and most of the task force, that schools are going to have to be closed.

"The recommendations made (in the task force report) were very good," commented Mary Skates, representative on the taskforce from the Mystic Parents Association. "And I don't think there's really any other alternative."

Added Mrs. Skates, "I think most of the Noonan people agreed they would be happier in Lynch (where Noonan students would be redistricted in 1980). At Parkhurst, the issue has been a foregone conclusion because of the decline in enrollment."

Another task force member, Lincoln parent Noreen Arcari, also agreed with most of the recommendations. While she noted more study was necessary before deciding between Lincoln and Washington as the third school to close, she said she wished the school board would start implementing the plans for 1978 and 1979.

Alice Mirak, finance committee chairman and that board's representative on the task force, feels the report "represents a tremendous amount of research and is a complete analysis of the situation at this time." She added, "I would urge expeditious analysis and approval or acceptance by the school committee members to that implementation as recommended can be undertaken."

The recommendations for 1978

The proposals for this year to pave the way for later, more substantial changes.

The first recommendation suggests publishing redistricting plans by September for the two major alternatives — closing either Lincoln or Washington.

A more controversial proposal is to suspend open enrollment for elementary schools for the 1978-79 school year. The main

Black parents seek action by board on racial problems

A group of black parents in Winchester has asked the school committee to take a strong stand against racial discrimination in the schools and to move to recruit more minority teachers.

School board members Heinrich Holland and Catherine Alexander met with the parents last week to discuss their concerns about racial and discipline problems in Winchester's schools. The issue came to a head several weeks ago when the only black teacher at the high school quit amidst reports of racial slurs and misbehavior both in and out of the teacher's classes.

Mrs. Alexander reported to the committee Monday night that the parents had made several requests of the school board, including:

— That the board issue a strong policy statement regarding discrimination in the schools.

— That the school department actively recruit more minority candidates for the school system. One related suggestion from the parents was that more exchange programs for teachers and lecturers be arranged.

— That a human relations program be established for both adults and children in the system, in particular for the elementary grades.

As a first step in response to the parents, the school board approved a $1000 appropriation for membership dues in the PAC (Personnel Administrators Club), a group of administrators from surrounding towns who work together to recruit a pool of minority candidates for the member towns.

Mrs. Alexander said she thought the parents requests "were all reasonable" and said she would begin working on a draft state policy statement on discrimination for the committee's next meeting Apr. 24.

Winchester first joined the PAC during the 1960s when enrollments were rising and teachers were scarce. At that time, the group sent representatives around to various colleges looking for teacher candidates.

With enrollments down and more teachers available, the group has concentrated in recent years on affirmative action recruitment of minority candidates.

While he admitted that Winchester has not hired anyone through the PAC in the past, Superintendent William C. MacDonald said, "I hope we would get some if we pursued it more actively."

Faggiano appointed comptroller

Al Faggiano

The board of selectmen voted unanimously to appoint Alphonse Faggiano as the permanent comptroller in Winchester for a three-year term.

Faggiano has been acting as temporary comptroller since last fall. He and Sarah Saccone from Quincy, were the two final candidates in the comptroller search.

The comproller screening committee had orginally received over 90 applications for the comptroller position. Four candidates were interviewed by the selectmen.

Faggiano's salary was set by the board at the midpoint of the M18 level. At present, that figure is $21,926, but Faggiano will benefit from cost of living raises if they are made at town meeting. The board decided he would not be eligible for merit raises during his first year of employment.

The board praised Faggiano for his service as temporary comptroller.

Citizens petition town meeting

Does town need public works board?

The proposal to create a board of public works submitted by citizen's petition for the spring warrant has been opposed by the board of selectmen, the town manager, and the director of public works.

While the chairman of the selectmen, Edward O'Connell fears the change would lead to a "fragmentation" of town government, petitioner Vincent Carroll said the change is necessary because DPW problems are "beyond the capacity" of the board of selectmen.

"True, when the Charter was adopted we anticipated changes in the DPW, but we didn't anticipate it in the form of constant harassment of town employees," Carroll said. "The selectmen are not doing a good job. They are far removed from the problems the department faces."

The article was submitted by 12 citizens, including former Charter commission members Vincent Carroll, Clara Hewis, Michael Saraco, Francis Cullen, and William Ryerson.

It proposes a five-member board of public works elected for three-year terms. The powers and duties of the board include control of all DPW functions, establishment of priorities and policies, and appointment of a director of public works.

Under present Charter rules, policy formation for the DPW is the responsibility of the selectmen, acting through the town manager. The director of public works is appointed by and responsible to the town manager.

Clara Hewis said the problems with the present system lie in poor administration.

"There seem to be many things happening that should not be, and many things that are not happening that should be," she said. "We've urged the selectmen to take a more active part in the problems and they haven't. What else can you do if the selectmen are either not willing or able to be responsive to Charter requirements?"

Hewis said that in addition to relieving the selectmen of "a responsibility they can't handle," the proposed change would give the townspeople a better handle on what's going on in the DPW.

Town Manager Thomas Groux said he has many reasons for opposing the article.

"The main thrust of the Charter was to consolidate the public works. Now that has taken place, as we are finishing our first year. There were bound to be changes that affect people and the way we do things. But we're doing things with less people and more cheaply... I think people recognize that."

Groux said charges of harassment in the department of public works have never been substaniated.

"The charges keep coming up. If you make them often enough, people start to believe them. But making the charges doesn't give them any more substance, certainly not enough to go back and make a Charter change."

Carroll said, however, that morale at the DPW is "very low." Hewis added there have been "hundreds of horror stories" of things that have happened to individuals that resulted in early retirements by some employees and resignations of others.

Nick Luongo, a former supervisor of school custodians, said he was "forced into retirement" in August 1977. Recently, Robert Scholl and Michael Luise, DPW garage mechanics, resigned from their jobs because of alledged harassment.

Local 285, which represents the Winchester Town Employees Association, has won several grievances with the town over the past year.

Four foremen, who were reclassified as W13 working foremen with DPW reorganization, won a grievance which reinstated them to their foremen positions. A new classification, W14a, was created for the men, to remain in effect only as long as they are with the DPW. The men will receive retroactive pay increases of the W14 position.

In another grievance, local Business Agent Michael Roberts said Roger L'Heureux, was reinstated as a special equipment operator (W12) as of Jan. 30, 1978. Roberts said L'Heureux had been demoted from his position, while the town contended he had accepted only a three-month temporary appointment.

Roberts said the grievance was settled with the reinstatement of the job.

Another grievance is pending concerning the one-day suspension of two snowplow operators during the Feb. 7 storm. The men reportedly stopped for a coffee break during the storm at 4 a.m. and were docked pay for going off their route.

In view of these grievances and other problems, Carroll said the petitioners felt a public works board would be more receptive to town employees.

"They'd treat these guys as human beings instead of animals," he said.

"The guys in the department are conscientious, but now, if they were going down the street and saw a manhole cover coming up, they'd be afraid to fix it without a work order. I've witnessed some directives being given that are appalling. Their attitude (the management) approaches Hitlerism," Carroll said.

Director of Public Works Walter Tonaszuck, said past charges of harassment have been resolved by the selectmen.

"I'd say everyone at the department is happy and they're doing a good job," Tonaszuck said. He added that "squabbles" were bound to occur, but that anyone who has a complaint can use the grievance procedure as an effective way to work out problems.

Tonaszuck opposes the proposed board primarily because he said he preferred to work for one boss.

"I like the town manager concept because it promotes responsiblity and a more responsive form of government," he said. "It also tends to take the politics out of public works."

Town Manager Groux also said it was good that the town could look to a single elected board (the selectmen) for ultimate responsibility of town employees.

Both Groux, O'Connell, and Tonaszuck said problems could be worked out under the present system. But Clara Hewis questioned how long the "fine tuning" of the system would go on.

"I don't think the changes will cripple the Charter," she said. "It will give the selectmen more time to do other things with the town. The selectmen-board of public works system has worked successfully in other communities."

Selectman O'Connell countered, "It's always easier to solve problems when they're not your responsibility. We do have problems, but we've muted some of the complaints. We're making progress."

He became senior vice president and secretary in 1973, and executive vice president and secretary in February, 1974.

An alumnus of Boston College, McElwee received his LLB degree from BC Law School, and has participated in the advanced management program at Harvard Business School.

Contract talks continuing for teachers, police, TEA

With town meeting a few weeks away, the bargaining for some of the town's major labor contracts is well underway. Both the town manager and the school committee say they're hoping to complete some of the negotiations in time to have the funds voted with the fiscal 1979 budget.

There are 9 major bargaining groups in town. Four negotiate with the administration at Town Hall — the police, firemen, clerical workers, and public works employees. Five groups do their talking with the school committee — teachers, principals, food service workers, custodians, and secretarial workers.

The only contract settlement certain to come before town meeting is the one just reached between the school committee and the secretaries. Set to take effect in September, the contract calls for a five-and-a-half percent increase in salaries, adding about $20,000 to the personal services expenses.

The teachers, police, and the Town Employees Association are all in the middle of contract talks

The police have been working since last July without a contract, and their association and the town administration have gone into fact-finding. The hearings for the fact finder have just been completed, according to Town Manager Thomas Groux. "I would suspect a report might be issued sometime during town meeting," commented Groux, who added that the meeting may get a chance to vote on appropriations if the fact-finding leads to a settlement.

Groux would not offer any estimate of the figures involved in a settlement. Last year the police personal services budget totaled $820,259. For the 1979 fiscal year, $899,019 has been requested by the department and the manager has recommended $842,905.

The school board's contract with the teachers runs out in June. Committee Chairman Constance Papas reported that "The teachers have said very clearly that they would like to settle before town meeting. . . and we're going to try."

After more than a year of negotiations for the last contract, the teachers were granted a five percent increase (totaling about $260,000) last year. The budget for teacher salaries is about $5 million, according to Mrs. Papas.

The Town Employees Association, representing the public works employees, has a contract that expires at the end of June. They are now negotiating with the town, and Groux conjectured that "it could be settled during town meeting; we hold out that hope."

The only other organized group which bargains with the town administration is the Winchester Organized Clerical Association. Groux said he expects to hold the first bargaining session with this group within the next week, but that he doubted there would be any settlement brought before town meeting. Their current contract expires at the end of June.

The school board is in the midst of mid-term negotiations with the principals, but the issue at stake is the language used for reduction in force, not money, according to Mrs. Papas. The principals' contract expires in June, 1979.

The food service workers have a contract good until September, 1979, and the school custodians are in the middle of a three-year contract.

Two women injured in Parkview fire

All apparatus, under Capt. O'Leary and Group II of the Winchester firemen responded to a fire in apartment 511 on the fifth floor at the Parkview apartments last Tuesday, Apr. 4, at 11:30 p.m.

James Flavin, of apartment 512, contacted police after he helped his neighbors, Claire D'Angeli, 54, and her daughter Laura, 31, out of their burning apartment. Police notified the firemen, who brought Laura to Winchester Hospital while they brought Claire to the same hospital in a police car.

Mrs. D'Angeli was treated for smoke inhalation and released. Her daughter was transferred to Boston City Hospital, and later to Westboro State Hospital. She had suffered more severely from the smoke inhalation.

Firemen brought a hose through the rear corridor of the building, through apartment 512 to the balcony and entered 511 by breaking the glass sliding doors — to release the smoke outside, instead of inside the corridor. They found the rug and sofa of the iving room almost completely burned, and other furniture blackneed by smoke. They extinguished the fire and removed the burned material through the balcony into the courtyard.

Damage was confined to the fifth floor. Apartment 512 had minor smoke damage, and the apartment below 511 received water damage.

Winchester firemen used the Hurst tool on Sunday to rescue Jean Benincasa from a drainage pipe on Cross street. She was taken to Winchester Hospital, transferred to Lawrence Memorial, treated and released.

Firemen responded to a fire in the dumpster at the Parkview apartments Sunday evening. At 6:30, they found a wooden dumpster fully burning, and used two tanks of water to extinguish it.

A fire in an old mail car took 15 minutes to extinguish last Monday, on the railroad tracks near the transfer section on Swanton street.

There were also a number of brush fires this week. On Sunday alone, Winchester firemen handled 16.

School board holds off on closing plans

reason behind this, according to MacDonald, is to avoid draining Parkhurst of students by allowing parents to pull their children out before the school is closed. The superintendent said he fears that if enrollment drops any more at the school it could hurt the academic program.

One school board member who is not convinced is Catherine Alexander. "It might be better to phase out Parkhurst through open enrollment," she suggested.

Because of the low numbers at the school this year, Parkhurst parents have had to fight to keep a minimum number of teachers at the school, and administrators have agreed that some minimum staff must be kept on to maintain the quality of education at the school.

The question of whether or not to call a moratorium on open enrollment next year will be on the agenda at the school committee's meeting Apr. 24.

The next operational decision would redistrict a small area along Cambridge street near the Woburn line from Parkhurst and Vinson-Owen to Noonan for next year. There are now about four or five children in the area, but there are a number of homes under construction and some potential for further development.

Rather than have children who move into the area attend Parkhurst for a year and then be redistricted, the administration would rather make the shift now. Then, when Noonan is closed, the students will be moved once — to Lynch — and be going to school with the same group of children from one year to the next.

A further proposal for 1978 would have the board get together with the selectmen and look into possible easements. These would for the most part run across private property and allow children easier access to their schools. It would also give the administration more flexibility to balance enrollments between schools without having to bus additional children.

Recommendations for 1979

This is the year Parkhurst would be closed. The students there would be redistricted to Ambrose and Vinson-Owen, and the open enrollment policy would be reestablished.

The projected savings by closing Parkhurst this September runs as high as $120,000. However, for several reasons there is general agreement that the committee should wait until 1979 to close the school.

First of all, if Parkhurst were closed this year, the special needs classes there would have to be moved for the fourth time in four years, which is not believed to be educationally sound for the children. Second, redistricting might overcorwd Ambrose and V-O. Third, this September is considered too short notice for the children and parents.

And finally, it would be difficult at best to make the necessary arrangements to dispose of the building on such short notice — such as zoning changes an finding parties interested in taking over the building. The task force subcommittee on building utilization recommends that no building should be left boarded up and unused.

In his memo to the school board Monday, the superintendent made a further suggestion: that the special needs class at Parkhurst be moved to Lynch when that school is closed. And subsequently, all elementary special needs classes would be moved to Lynch.

Argus MacDonald, "Such an arrangement would provide a high degree of permanency for all special needs classes." The move would also eliminate the need to transfer 51 students from Ambrose to Lynch in 1980 to balance enrollments if Washington is closed.

"....for the year 1979 (the figures) show a straight line (projection) for Ambrose of 300 students and 303 for Vinson-Owen, whereas the forecasted figures show 287 students for Ambrose and 303 for Vinson-Owen."

MacDonald further noted that if his recommendation regarding the special needs classes was accepted, then Ambrose would have between 247-267 students, and V-O would have between 265-267 students in 1979.

The recommended capacities for the two schools used in the task force report are, for Ambrose, 220; for V-O, 325. However, in his presentation of redistricting plans at the task force meeting, Joseph Forte, McCall principal, said he was confident that Ambrose could hold the 300 students without any rennovations and without disrupting the open classroom setup at the school. Forte has also been working with Ambrose Principal Robert Forest to see how the numbers would affect the school's program.

Supt. MacDonald has said he would not allow either school to become overcrowded and would change district lines if necessary to maintain an enrollment balance.

Two other major decisions would take place in 1979:

—Whether to close Lincoln or Washington;

—Decide on the disposition of the Sanborn property and the moving of the administration to Lynch.

Recommendations for 1980

1980 is unquestionably the transition year. Among the task force recommendations:

—Close Noonan. The students would be redistricted to Lynch, which would be converted from a junior high to an elementary - school. The central offices would also move in, and, if the superintendent's most recent proposal is accepted, special needs classes would be set up at Lynch.

—Close either Washington or Lincoln. This is perhaps the most difficult decision of all, and the one bound to run into the most opposition. A special article in next week's Star will examine more closely the implications of this decision.

—Establish a grade 7 and 8 school at McCall. This move seems to have general approval. It would eliminate the rivalry between the two current junior high schools, consolidate facilities and curriculum, and move the older students to the high school.

—Establish a four-year high school. This move also has met with general approval. With enrollments expected to continue declining, adding a fourth year to the high school will enable the administration to maintain some flexibility in the high school curriculum. Some savings would be realized by consolidating intersholastic sports.

—Assess whether or not other schools need to be closed in future years. Though most agree it is too early to make any decisions about further closing, enrollment projections indicate that the system will be well over capacity into the 1980s.

Red Cross offers courses

The Winchester Red Cross will provide two safety courses in May. Registration for both courses are being received now.

One is the standard first aid and personal safety course and the other is the CPR (cardiopulmonary) course. Both classes are popular and both have been oversubscribed in the past.

The first aid course will be given at the chapter house on Church street on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday for two weeks, starting May 1 from 7 to 9 p.m. The instructor will be Hubert LeFever, chairman of safety programs.

The CPR course will be given at the chapter house in the afternoon, from 3-5, Monday and Wednesday, for three weeks, starting May 8. Mrs. John Dolan is the instructor.

It is now the policy of the Winchester Chapter to require a pre-registration materials fee for First Aid and Personel Safety and a manikin maintenance fee for CPR, both fees non-refundable. Textbooks can be purchased at the first course meeting. To register for either course call Red Cross 729-2300.

THE WINCHESTER STAR

Serving The Community For Over 95 Years

Guest column

'It's been worth waiting for...'

The Star has received a number of requests to print the speech given by James L. Jenks at the dedication of the new senior center Apr. 2.

While the auxiliary fire department did a good job setting up an outdoor speaker system on that day, the indoor electronics were not in top form, so many could not follow Mr. Jenks' remarks. In addition, there were so many visitors on that opening day that many could not find a spot in the main hall to hear the speeches.

Mr. Jenks was the principle benefactor of the seniors' drive to raise enough funds to build the center, and the center is, appropriately enough, named for him: The Jenks Senior Center. The full text of his remarks follows.

Mr. Chairman, Distinguished Guests, Ladies and Gentlemen:

When you were children, some of you may have chanted, around this time of year, the old poem, "The Spring has sprung, the grass has riz, I wonder where the birdies iz." Recently, I understand, quite a few seniors have been reciting the same poem, only they end up, "I wonder where the senior center iz."

Well, it has been a long time since Dick Norberg and I tried to break the frozen ground that marked the site of this lovely building. But I think we all agree that it has been worth waiting for.

Recently I came across some interesting vital statistics. When this project was started we had 3,000 seniors in town. I am told we now have 3,001. Poor Dick Norberg has aged so fast in the last few months that he is claiming senior status, and I think he well deserves it.

To be serious, however, some may wonder how I became interested in contributing to the center in the first place. One day on Church street I met an old friend and stopped a minute to chat. My friend showed me an article he was submitting to The Winchester Star. The subject was the need for a senior center here in town and I was deeply impressed. At home I talked it over with my wife, Evelyn, and became convinced that we should make a stubstantial gift to the project. You may have guessed who my friend was. It was none other than Clarence Borggaard, a tower of strength in this project, and a man whose well-written letters to The Star have been an inspiration to many.

I can still clearly visualize the little group that met in my home nearly two years ago. It was the first time I had met Dick Norberg, that powerhouse of energy, and his tireless associate, Larry Hutchings. Also present was another pioneer in this project, Ralph Hatch, treasurer of the Building Fund, and a man who has ably assisted in our fund raising efforts and prudently watched over our finances. Incidentally, his sister, Marion, is treasurer of The Seniors' Association and is, also, my own invaluable secretary. And my legal advisor, longtime lawyer and friend, Allen Eaton, partner of the prestigious law firm, Ropes and Gray, rounded out the group.

When I disclosed my plan to make our gift to the senior center, a look of sheer ecstasy came over Dick's face. I did not realize it at the time but I later learned that a senior center for Winchester had been a lifelong dream of Dr. Norberg. And what is more amazing is that a man so young in years would care so much for the happiness and welfare of people twice his age.

As Dick now felt that his dream could become a reality, he redoubled his activity. With the invaluable assistance of Larry Hutchings, plans went forward apace. I can never praise too highly the skill, devotion and enthusiasm of this team. I doubt if there is a nail or wire or any detail that Dick and Larry do not know about and have paid for in blood, sweat and tears. Certainly, no words of mine can ever convey what a magnificent job they have done. I only hope they relaize how grateful we all are to them and that their interest will not flag now that they see their work completed.

Now, of course, any building as charming as this must be handsomely landscaped. We are fortunate that another dear friend of ours, Maurice Freeman, although a very busy man indeed has most graciously expressed his willingness to supervise the planting of trees and shrubs and all outdoor decorations. He has already spent many hours in drawing up plans and I can assure you when the weather will permit, the surroundings of the senior center will be just as handsome as the interior you now have seen.

And lest I be considered a male chauvinist, many charming and energetic ladies have done yeoman service on various committees, running fairs and a host of other jobs. Then there is our devoted decorator, Joanne Galvin. I doubt if anyone realizes the hundreds of miles this young lady has driven and the countless hours she has spent in search of decorations and furniture to make our center charming and livable.

I am sure you all realize that this beautiful building could never have been completed by just the work of those I have mentioned. Literally hundreds of people in our town have given generously of their time, therir money and their prayers. It would be impossible for me to even try to mention them all for if I did we would be here 'til Michaelmas. And worse, I would inevitably leave out some of the most worthy and deserving.

I would, however, like to mention one more reason why I felt it my duty and my privilege to lend financial encouragement to this project. I have been a resident of Winchester for over 30 years and, although I have voted faithfully on all town matters, I have never taken an active part in town politics. This has not been from lack of interest. It is primarily because of my serious handicap of deafness. It would be utterly impossible for me to attend meetings and be able to follow the discussions. I do hope that whatever help the contributions Evelyn and I have made will in some measure pay our debt to the town we live in and love.

And speaking of deafness, I was riding in a taxi recently and the driver noticed that I was wearing a hearing aid. Turning to me he said, "That thing you wear help your hearing any?" "It's wonderful," I replied. "Couldn't do without it." "What kind is it?" he asked. "Quarter of four," I answered. The driver was too polite to smile. "Well," he said, "we all have our troubles. Me, I'm blind as a bat."

A good time

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

A sincere thank you is due the Winchester Kiwanis Club and especially Sonny Cannava who arranged the Fun Night at St. Eulalia's Hall on Saturday evening for the Winchester Senior Citizens.

The music and dancing were delightful and everyone present thoroughly enjoyed the talented group of professional entertainers who so generously performed their dance routines for us.

It was particularly heartwarming to see the patients from the Winchster Nursing Home enjoying the spectacular show.

The Kiwanis Club members once again demonstrated their interest and concern for elderly citizens and we are very grateful to them.

'Many Moons'

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

We of the parent's committee at Children's Own School applaud your idea in the Apr. 6 edition, for a co-ordinating agency to act as a clearing-house for events scheduled by local groups.

At the time we chose the Apr. 29 date for our production of "Many Moons," we felt that we had researched throughly any possible conflict with events scheduled by other groups for that date.

We are delighted to enable the Tufts Honor Drama Society to perform: as this provides them with an opportunity to gain experience, and to fulfill their desire to reach out to the surrounding communities. This is best evidenced by the fact that they are performing without charge.

We encourage the growing expansion of children's theatre in the Greater Boston Area, and look forward to further participation in theatre arts for children.

Does it matter?

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

A letter of congratulations to the 72.56637 percent of the registered voters who didn't appear at the recent election! Fortunately, I was out of town and couldn't vote or I too would probably have joined the 27.43363 percent who did vote just to save face with my neighbors. For in reality, isn't that about all the usefulness voting in these things amounts to — voting so others won't think we're shirking our duty?

To paraphrase a letter in last week's Star," as voting adults we "have" set a fine example for the younger generation." I mean after all, millions of people did vote for Mr. Nixon and for their efforts they got a gaggle of crooks. Having not learned their lesson, millions more went out and voted for Mr. Carter with equally efficacious results.

Has anyone ever undertaken a comprehensive pool after an election? Had 50 percent or 75 percent or even 100 percent of the registered voters gone to the polls in the last 2 presidential elections, Mr. Nixon most likely would have carried 50 states plus the District of Columbia and Carter would still have won. Disprove that.

Does it really matter who the town assessor is? Or the members of the planning board or the school committee? Why? Why? Does it really change anything if Mr. X is elected as opposed to Mr. Y other than that different people will be writing letters of thanks or condolence to The Star? I mean, we had a real hassle over the charter reform which many people want to reform again. So, are we any better or worse off for having gone through the exercise?

Look at the town meeting. I'll vote for putting curbs or a gutter in your section of town if you do the same for my vested self-interest. Still can't imagine why anyone would want such a poor paying time-wasting past-time. If democracy such as this is so great, why not have our duly, elected legislatures force IBM, General Motors & Electric, AT & T, Raytheon, etc. to be run the same way. Shucks, if it's good for Winchester and the USA, it should be good for industry. But I'll warn you before it comes to pass so you can beat the Really Great Stock Market Crash that your lack of confidence in this "old democratic system" will instantaneously trigger.

And the school committee. I haven't gone to a meeting of that august body in six or seven years. Don't even know a soul on it. Would my presence at the meetings have had one bit of influence on the outcome of any question? Would it truly make any difference if any of those recently defeated had been elected or the reverse had come to pass? For example, if Mr. Frank, or any other member...is so irreplaceable why not have a recall referendum and set up the one indispensible person as Czar. Why mess around with a 5, or is it 6, member inefficient committee?

Everyone — even those who voted — knows that there isn't a hell of alot the school committee and other board's and committees can do. How many years did it take to get a new high school? Or close Wyman? Or decide which of a half dozen other schools to close? And when the committees do decide, we have referendum and petitions, revised plans and, you know what, the high school does get built at a cost of millions more dollrs, and Wyman is closed, etc. etc. So why all the fuss and bother? Just so your kids won't have to get some exercise walking to school and mine will?

Can or does the popularly elected school committee really benefit the town? Can or have they gotten rid of ineffective or incompetent teachers and administrators? Even if they wanted to, could they do so what with tenure, teacher contracts, etc. Can the school committee single out and reward those dedicated qualified educators who do somehow manage to subsist in our "exemplary" schools? No for again tenure, contracts, pay scales etc., prevent this. Can this committee reduce the budget other than by eliminating schools and thus teaching positions? Probably not because "you" won't allow this. Yes, the committee can alienate the teachers by dawdling over a contract for a year or so. To what avail? The kid's lost out and the teachers received a raise. For this we need a popularly elected school Committee?

Let me really provoke you by stating that some of our non-registered non-voting youngsters should be on the school committee as they have a better picture of what is going on in the schools than our school committee. How dare I say such an unspeakable thing? Because the students in these superb institutions experience every single school day the nonsense that often passes as education and educators. They don't see it just on invitation and after prior approval with principals who then "sanitize" the place.

So, it has been publicly said at last; that which some 72.56637 percent of us — the overwhelming majority in a democratic society that holds the majority as sacred — no doubt believe and would say but for the ridicule of our neighbors and spouses. I've made the treasonable statement that our brand of democracy at the town level is inconsequential if not irrelevant. I've had my fun and will now sit back to suffer the slings and arrows of righteous indignation. But maybe, just maybe, at next year's elections we'll achieve a turnout of 13.7168 percent. And wouldn't it be fun and newsworthy if we had an election and no one came!

Hope

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

This small piece is about hope in our nation.

Most people live on hope. People who can't see their way clear to pay their current bills each month. They live hoping things will be better in the future; usually they get worse.

In the old days when people got discouraged, the neighbors were always there to help, or your minister or priest. They don't seem to call like they used to. Almost everyone today, including the young, have what they call overwhelming problems, but most folks today turn a deaf ear on whoever wishes to talk about their problems; and be sure not to touch their pocketbooks.

Food has gone up again these last two months and we have had such a bad winter most fuel bills are out of reach for most. Most people are honest and I think there should be a way in our great nation to pull these people out of the red during our nice summers. Some of our big brains could think up some way such as a bank loan (low interest).

Town watch...

Shutterbugs take note

By The Observer

The Winchester Historical Commission is ready once again to take to the streets armed with cameras as part of the grant awarded by the state commission. Volunteers will be making photographic records of the houses and buildings in town that date from before 1916.

Project coordinator, Ed Galvin, tells us that a good portion of the town has already been photographed, but there is still much to do. It has to be done now before the leaves come out and obscure the houses.

The photographs will be filed with the survey forms both at the archival center and at the Mass. Historical Commission. This will form a permanent and complete record of Winchester's historic structures.

Volunteers are needed to take the pictures. The commission will supply all film and will handle the developing. This is a wonderful chance to get out and wander the streets in the spring and forget the long, hard winter behind us.

The survey and planning grant is already underway, but hinges now on having the photography done as soon as possible. If you would like to help the commission, call the archival center during open hours (729-3063).

This project has been funded *with a matching grant in aid from the Department of the Interior, Heritage, Consevation, and Recreation service through the Mass. Historical Commission, under the provisions of the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966

Still steaming

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

May the residents of Winchester know that there are honest merchants in their town.

During the past 28 years I have lived either in Winchester or in Medford. And in that time, McCormack's Apothecary has served my prescription needs. I have known Fred McCormack for all those years and consider him a businesman of integrity. Quite recently the proof that integrity hit me with the force of a sledgehammer

About four months ago I moved to South Boston. Since one of the drugs prescribed by my Winchester physician called for use four times a day, 100 tablets last less than a month. I visit my physician no more than once every other month; and public transportation being what it is, I come to Winchester for no other purpose.

I called my physician and asked him to mail me the prescription. I took it to a local drug store which advertises itself as a discount drug store; i.e., "Compare Our Prices." Well, I compared.

South Boston is a depressed area, with about 75 percent of its residents either on welfare, or on Social Security and-or pension. The incomes of theses, many aged and infirm, are at or near the poverty level. Yet this drug store, serving a financially sub-standard community, which asks its patrons to compare its prices, charged me $12.95 for 100 of the same tablets McCormack's charged me (for 100). This represents an increase of a third over McCormack's price!

I was furious, and let all in the store know how I felt about it.

I have the receipts from both McCormack's and the South Boston drug store, and shall send them to the Better Business Bureau or other proper authority.

Winchester has the reputation for being a plus community which could well afford higher prices. Yet McCormack's asks only a reasonable profit. I am certain other merchants in Winchester are endowed with the same integrity.

Lucky Winchester!

No concern

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

In the 6 April issue of The Star I had a letter reporting as objectively as I was able a savage and completely unprovoked attack on me by what I can only describe as a viscious doberman pinscher. I also reported the attack to the police dog officer and was advised to get a tetanus injection. I had open wonds in two areas and a sore muscle with subcutaneous bleeding in a third area. The savagery of the attack is borne out by the fact that I was protected by a windbreaker and a sweater in two places and by trousers and double knit underwear in the third.

That, as far as I was concerned, would have been the end of it. I did not even intend to ask the owners to compensate me for the medical expenses I had to incur.

But last night a woman telephoned and, after ascertaining that I was indeed the victim of the attack, she had only one question: Why had I written the letter? No concern for the injuries I had suffered or for other possible victims who might be even older and feebler than I or who might be small children and who surely would not be able to avoid serious injury or worse. All she wanted to know was why I had written such a nasty letter about such a darling dog.

So now I am angry, as I was not at the dog even while it was attacking me, and I intend to consult my attorney to find out whether a 10 dollar fine equitably settles a matter of this sort and whether a viscious dog is entitled to a number of such attacks before it is destroyed.

Absurd priorities

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Stop the slaughter of helpless seals! Boycott Japanese goods because they (the Japanese) killed the dolphins! Stop killing the leopards, lions, and lynx and ban the whale killers!

Do these phrases sound familiar? Yes, they certainly do. But personally I find a protest missing that nobody has ever thought to speak — Save the people!!

No wonder our youth are driven to drugs and ourselves driven to madness..... Everyone is so busy trying to protect the animal, insect and bird world from extinction that we haven't once examined the most important common cause — people preservation.

There were no protests and no national headlines when four-year-old Walter Gerwaski was beaten, choked and burned to death by his mother's botfriend. (Boy recently murdered in Massachusetts. Mothers's boyfriend just convicted and sentenced to prison for life.)

And I don't see worldwide concern for the innocent five-year-old child killed in a recent terrorist attack in Israel.

To further increase the level of absurdity — three well-known entertainers cancelled concert tours in Japan (at the risk of both financial and popularity loss) due to the killing of dolphins.

Has anyone ever taken such an action to protest the destruction of mankind? When are the inhabitants of of this potentially good-natured Mother Earth going to put their priorities into proper perspective with reality and start showing an interest in people before pelicans?

One of the best

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I was greatly distressed to read Brant Houston's article in April 2nd's Sunday Globe concerning the racism at Winchester High School.

I am a white Arlington resident and a second-year student at Simmons College. Last year, I had the opportunity to be a student of Mrs. Charlene Clinton for two semesters as she was teaching Spanish at our College during this period. In returning to Simmons this fall, I was disappointed to learn that Mrs. Clinton was no longer with us as she had elected to further her education and study towards her PhD.

I did not realize until this Sunday that Winchester High had been lucky enough to have Mrs. Clinton as a Spanish instructor there. I cannot understand their lack of appreciation and respect for Mrs. Clinton. It is disheartening to read of students taunting, "nigger, nigger, nigger, nigger," to a woman of her quality and the lack of support she received from the Winchester faculty which led up to her resignation.

For myself and many of my classmates, Mrs. Clinton was an inspiring and caring instructor, one of the best I have encountered at Simmons. When will people learn that excellence, intelligence, and dedication know no black or white?

Study completed

LWV takes stand on energy

The League of Women Voters of the US has announced an energy position based on the results of a comprehensive two-year study of energy sources, growth rates, and policies which was recently completed by over 1000 local Leagues, including a study led by Priscilla Baumann in Winchester.

The study was based on reports from League members in all 50 states, the District of Columbia, the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico. It is one of the most extensive looks at energy ever completed by a public interest organization.

The study indicates that League members strongly favor pursuing national energy policies which place conservation first and go on to an increased use of renewable resources, especially solar heating and cooling, as well as coal. To do this, the nation must develop and implement energy strategies that account for differences in the needs and resources of states and regions but give precedence to the national good concludes the report.

The League's position calls for the implementation of federal policies which would:

—Reduce the US energy growth rate.

—Set mandatory federal conservation standards.

—Give top priority to conservation, use of renewable resources and the environmentally sound use of coal.

—Reduce dependence on imported energy supplies.

—Phase out reliance on nuclear fission (light water reactors).

—Provide for the development of nuclear fusion but give extremely low priority to the plutonium breeder reactor.

—Support the development of geothermal energy.

The League says it will use its new national energy position to help shape programs at the federal, state, and local levels to achieve these goals.

High school update

By GEORGE PARKER

Last weekend, the WHS music department journeyed to Madison, NJ, for their "nearly annual" exchange concert. This concert combines the music departments of two high schools for a joint concert. This concert is performed at both of the towns.

Thus, this program allows high school students to experience various lifestyles in towns of nearby states. However, the trips are not limited to rehearsing for the concert. They are also intended as a learning experience, which is the main reason for a Thursday departure. Thus, Friday is relatively free, allowing a day of sightseeing in the area.

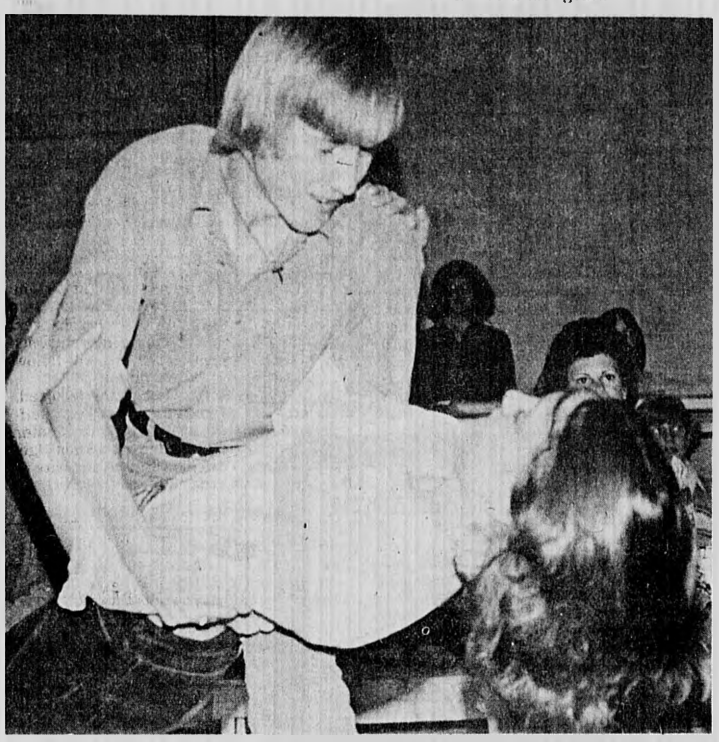
On past occasions, this has included visits to Rockefeller Center, Radio City Music Hall, a General Motors assembly plant, Independence Hall, and the United States Mint. Last weekend, the students visited New York's Museum of Natural History, and were led on a guided tour of the Lincoln Center for the performing arts in New York.

However, Friday is just about the only time spent away from rehearsals. These start almost as soon as the studnets step off the bus on Thursday afternoon, and continue on Friday night and Saturday morning. In the meantime, the visiting town's students often present a shortened version of the concert to an assembly of the host town's student body.

The rehearsals are not only for practice, but also an invaluable opportunity for getting to know the school's musicians, besides the hosts. These hosts are the families of the students who put up the studehts for their stay in the town, providing them with meals and a place to sleep — about all they need. Unfortunately, Madison's chorus director chose not to participate in the exchange. This not only prevented the Winchester chorus from meeting students during rehearsal, but also increased the burden placed on the host families, for fewer families had to put up the same number of persons.

Despite this obstacle, all of the WHS musicians managed to enjoy themselves, in their own individual ways. This was evident not only on the bus trips (which tend to become quite rowdy) and the party after the concert, but also during the rehearsals, and the concert itself, as they interacted with and reacted to the environment of Madison.

The Madison students will have their hance to sample Winchester's (choke) various and sundry enjoyable activities when they make the trip up Apr. 27, departing three days later, after performing with the WHS music department the night of Apr. 29.



Keith McCarthy and Joan Barrafauldi strike a pose in the first act of "The Pajama Game," to be performed May 4-6 at Lynch Junior High School.

Dr. McClean speaker on adolescent pregnancies

On Apr. 3, Dr. Donald McLean, a well-known Winchester pediatrician, spoke at a symposium at the Park Plaza in Boston entitled "Children Bearing Children."

The symposium, sponsored by The Junior League of Boston, The Massachusetts Bay Chapter of the March of Dimes, and the state department of public health, was for service providers educators, and community leaders.

The discussion considered the full scope of the problem of adolescent pregnancy and worked toward providing a foundation for developing an effective network of services for sexually active youth. Mrs. John F. Reno, of the Junior League of Boston, was program advisor for the symposium.

Mrs. Elizabeth Winship, the author of the Boston Globe's "Ask Beth" column, moderated the colloquium, "Breaking Down the Barriers to Sex Education in the Community." Ruth Macdonald, project director of the Educational Development Center, Dr. George Thoms, principal of the George Mason High School, Falls Church, Va. and Alice Verhoeven, director of training and education, Planned Parenthood League of Massachusetts, joined Dr. McLean on the panel.

Dr. Donald McLean

Dr. McLean spoke of the need for the schools, parents, and medical communities to work together to give adolescents the information necessary for the exercise of responsible sexual behavior. He pointed out that each year more than 600,000 teenagers give birth nationwide - 3,000 in Massachusetts alone.

Dr. McLean is co-author with the late Rev. Charles Batten of the booklet "Fit to Be Tied," sex education for the teenager, and a member of the subcommittee on Youth of America of the American Academy of Pediatrics dealing with Drug and Sex Education.

Local talent helps to furnish Jenks Senior Center with class

The following two articles describing some of the donations in kind made to the Jenks Senior Center were put together by Leonor Rich, who handles publicity for the Winchester Seniors Association. The gifts herein described are perhaps representative of the spirit and talent which has gone into the WSA and their campaign to build their own center. —Ed.

Limestone Hills in the Library

Carlene Murphy Samoiloff has given to the Jenks Senior Center a painting entitled, "The Limestone Hill of Puerto Rico", in memory of her father, a well-known artist, Herman Dudley Murphy. This will hang in the library of the center, helping to fulfill the artistic dreams and efforts that both of her parents had for Winchester.

The picture was presented to the Winchester Public Library by Mr. Murphy, who was one of the designers of the library and its picture gallery. When the building was enlarged to the addition, the wall space was lost; thus the painting was returned to Mr. Murphy's daughter by the trustees of the library.

Born in Marlborough, on Aug. 25, 1867, and educated at Chauncey Hall School and the Boston Museum School of Fine Arts, Mr. Murphy continued a study of painting in Paris under Jean Paul Laurens and Benjamin Constant and the Academy Julian. He returned, to accompany as an artist, the Nicaragua Canal Expedition with Admiral Peary. Thereafter, until 1894, he was engaged as an illustrator for the Boston Globe and other newspapers, magazines, and books. He taught life drawing at the School of Architecture of Harvard University.

As an artist, he was a great craftsman, and his technique was considered superb in all phases of his work. He was always a champion of beauty in subject material, in the quality of paint, and in his skill in reproducing texture in his painting. He had great respect for craftsmanship, applying his theory in his own painting and in the designs and making of his own frames. He painted portraits, landscapes, and flower still life. His paintings are in many museums throughout the country. He was nationally known, winning many awards of distinction during his lifetime as an artist.

Herman Dudley Murphy was one of the founders of the old Shoo-Shooaga Canoe and the Winchester Canoe and Boat Club. As an international sportsman of sailing canoes from the early 1900s until he arrived at the sixth decade of his life, he was frequently in the news for his sportsmanship as well as for his paintings.

"The Limestone Hills" measures 52" by 42" and is in an original frame by the Carrig-Rohame Frame Shop-(1916)-founded by Murphy and Charles Prendergast. The wood is hand-carved, a work of art rarely seen in today's galleries.

The Winchester seniors, as beneficiaries of this beautiful gift, are grateful to Carlene Murphy Samoiloff for her generosity to the Center.

Early American craftsmanship in the lobby

Dunn has made a beautiful, handcrafted reproduction of a desk, copied from one now exhibited in the Governor's Palace in Williamsburg, Va. Although Dunn works with wood only as a hobby that he has followed for the past 20 years, the results of his handiwork show unusual skill and artistry.

Before retiring from his executive position as vice president and chief mechanical officer of the Boston and Maine Railroad, he did not have much marginal time during the week to pursue his hobby. Currently, he is serving on a part-time basis as transportation consultant for the Pennsylvania Central Railroad and the Erie Lackawanna Line.

Dunn came from a furniture manufacturing family, but he didn't develop an early interest in woodcraft. When he began to research reproductions, he found that the challenges of fashioning furniture from the Early American period required much research and provided high interest and relaxation.

The beautiful desk that he has presented to the Jenks Senior Center required approximately 170 hours of work. It is made from cherry wood with fine dovetailing, precise fitting, and an intricate knowledge of how to use wood in the creation of a work of art. He took his combination preference from several styles of the same period of Early American furniture. The interior is a copy of the desk created in 1765 by John Townsend, master craftsman of Newport, R.I. The original is now in the Diplomatic Reception Room at the State Department in Washington, D.C. This original piece is appraised at $250,000 and is called America's greatest Chippendale desk.

Dunn also gave to the center a reproduction of a Sheraton chair in the style of the late 1700's. His wife, Dorothy, an artist with the needle, fashioned a work of beauty in needlepoint to cover the seat of the chair.

The third beautiful gift from Dunn is a drop-leaf table, which is a copy of an antique piece of furniture in his home. All three pieces of furniture show outstanding manual dexterity and high qualities of workmanship in the recreation, of Early American styles of furniture.

These generous gifts will endure with the center into the decades to come as a visible reminder of the fruits of the labors of Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Dunn.

WATER PURITY
The Great American Scandal

CHLORINE - A Poisonous, greenish-yellow, gaseous chemical element, one of the halogens, found chiefly (combined) in common salt. Chlorine is very irritating to the nose, throat, and lungs. It is used in bleaching and disinfection, in organic synthesis.

Webster's Third New International Dictionary

CHLORINE - A highly irritating, greenish-yellow gaseous halogen capable of combining with nearly all other elements, produced principally by electrolysis of sodium chloride and widely used to purify the water as a disinfectant, a bleaching agent, and in the manufacture of many important compounds including chloroform and carbon tetrachloride (both chemicals are carcinogenic).

The World Book Encyclopedia Dictionary

CHLORINE - A common non-metallic univalent and polyvalent element belonging to the halogens that is best known as a heavy greenish yellow irritating toxic gas of disagreeable odor made by electrolysis of aqueous solutions of sodium chloride, and is used chiefly as a powerful bleaching, oxidizing, and disinfecting agent in water purification and in making numerous products as bleaching powder, chlorinated solvents, military gases, insecticides, herbicides, and synthetic resins and plastics.

Drinking chlorine in tap water is outright dangerous for it is a highly poisonous pesticide that reacts with natural organics in water and produces cancer causing agents.

The environmental protection Agency has found that all water supplies throughout the country that add chlorine to the water for disinfection produce chloroform when the chlorine is added. The highest amounts of chloroform were found in lake reservoirs with high vegetation.

How are we going to stamp out cancer in our lifetime when the EPA set a standard of 100 PPB of cancerous chloroform while it set a standard of 50 PPB of non-cancerous metals found in water. The EPA places no limitation on the amount of chlorine used in disinfecting water. Winchester adds 1,500 PPB of chlorine to the water supply. These standards are unrealistic and out of proportion to the health of the public.

Dr. Hayes advises the public to support continued investigations on cancer-causing substances in the environment and basic research on what constitutes a safe level. Dr. Hayes said that "researchers have found it difficult to set a safe level for all persons.

"For instance, I expose myself to a carcinogen now and get cancer 10 years later. Someone else exposes himself and never gets it. Another person exposes himself and gets it tomorrow.

"Drinking water is conventionally disinfected by chlorination," Dr. Hayes said. "This can result in chlorine being incorporated in some of the naturally occuring compounds in the water. By themselves, these compounds are harmless. But once they are chlorinated, some become carcinogens.

"The chemical ozone is used in Europe to disinfect water supplies and its use in the United States should be investigated as a possible solution. Another method is to pass water through an activated carbon filter to remove organic contaminants."

The Multi-Pure Home Water Purifier strikes the perfect balance in water purification and meeting all standards. Its purified water meets and surpasses the most stringent U.S. Public Health Service bacteriological standards from any treatable water sources as defined by the U.S.P.H.S.

The 10 PPB of silver used as the bacteria killer in the Multi-Pure unit is a safe method and far below the standard set at 50 PPB.

The sub-micron carbon filtration filters out impurities to the size of a blood cell as it removes all of the chlorine and the chlorinated hydro-carbon chloroform in tap drinking water.

The Safe Drinking Water Act is nothing more than a set of standards while what we need is a cure. Only self-sanitizing carbon Home Water Purifiers can make a giant step forward in stamping out cancer in our life time.

Winchester is fortunate in being the first town in the nation where the problems in water have been clearly explained and also has an instant cure at McCormack's Apothecary with the Multi-Pure unit.

23 first and second year teachers appointed by board

Twenty-three teachers were reappointed by the school committee Monday night.

In the administration, Norman J. Goldberg was reelected as elementary reading coordinator and specialist after his first year in the system, and Frank Bianco was reelected as director of special education and pupil services after his second year.

At McCall Junior High, first year teacher Virginia Laats (home economics, part-time), and second year teachers Felicia Hall (foreign language) and Irene Michelson (resource room) were reelected.

Those in elementary special education hired for next year include first year teachers Carla Jentz (chairperson, CORE evaluation team), Dorothy Seltzer (resource room, Noonan), Cathy Shiflett (primary level ED class, Lincln), and second year teacher Anita Perry (resource room, Ambrose-Parkhurst). Also reelected was Linda Popp, a second year reading specialist at Noonan and Vinson-Owen.

In other personnel matters, the school board Monday approved a request for leave of absence without pay for Susan F. Nettle, a social studies teacher at the high school.

Mrs. Nettle requested the leave because she has been asked to join the teaching staff at the Nishimachi School in Tokyo for a year. She explained in a letter to Superintendent William C. MacDonald that the experience at the bilingual school would be an opportunity "not only to enrich myself personally, but, also, my future classroom teaching at Winchester High School." The board agreed and voted the leave unanimously.

One resignation and two longevity requests were also accepted by the committee Monday.

David Juneau, McCall art teacher, resigned effective in June, reportedly because he was no longer interested in a half-time position.

Mrs. Rita L. Collins, grade 5 teacher at Lincoln, and Eleanor A. Thistlewaite, music teacher at Lynch and McCall and advisor to the high school's singing groups, Los Companeros and Les Troubadours, have both filed for longevity payments and plan to retire effective June, 1981. The annual longevity stipend is $750.

A reminder: permit needed for garage sale

The season of yard sales is upon us, and Police Chief McHugh reminds all residents that a permit must be obtained before any type of yard sale, garage sale or flea market is held.

There is a list of regulations concerning these types of sales, and they will be strictly enforced. McHugh cited the case of one resident who lost the two days that he had advertised for a sale, because he failed to obtain a permit. The cost of a permit for a garage sale is $5; the fine for not having one is $50.

On the 6th, a house on Manchester road was broken into. A string of pearls and a stereo ware taken. Jewelry and a color TV were taken from a house on Laurel Hill road, after a breaking and entering on the seventh. And on the 9th, a TV and $100 cash were taken from a house on S. Border road.

The water department patrol apprehended a 15-year-old Stoneham youth who had set a brush fire near the Winchester reservoir on the 9th.

An antique weathervane was reported stolen off the roof of a barn on Cambridge street on the 7th. It was the shape of a horse (black on bronze) and over 100 years old. A cedar table and two chairs were stolen from the Dairy Maid on Thursday, the 6th.

A 1968 Chrysler sedan, parked at a gas station on N. Main street, was stolen on the 6th. And $100 worth of tools were taken from a car parked at the Winchester train depot on Saturday, the 8th.

Snow removal equipment has taken its toll on the town parking meters. Thirteen are not working and some are missing.

In-law does brother in

(Here's an article that you wouldn't find written the same way these days. Note that the word "alleged' is never used in connection with the murderer, and that the injuries were quite descriptive. It is taken from the Middlesex Journal of Sept. 24, 1853).

Thomas Conner, who was assaulted and stabbed, in Winchester, on the afternoon of the 8th inst., by Michael Fitzgerald, died from the effects of his wounds at 7 o'clock last Friday evening. Fitzgerald is now in Cambridge jail awaiting examination. Conner leaves a wife and three children.

The affair took place in the rear of Conner's shanty, located in Lebosquet Woods, about a mile from the centre of the town of Winchester. (ed. note; the vicinity of Symmes Corner). The two men were brothers-in-law, and laborers on the railroad. Fitzgerald admits that they had a fight, and that when Conner was getting the best of him, he stabbed him in self-defence. After the affray Fitzgerald fled to Boston, and was arrested by Officer Hinkson in Sea Street. Both parties had been paid their wages due on the day of the fight, Fitzgerald receiving about $4, and Conner $28. Fitzgerald had no other money at that time.

Fitzgerald had fled, and the money Conner had received was missing, consisting in part of five new $5 notes on the Central Bank of Worcester of a recent issue. On searching Fitzgerald after his arrest two $5 notes on the same bank, and corresponding in date with those paid to Conner, were found upon his person, of the possession of which he gave a very confused explanation.

On Saturday afternoon a post-morten examination was made by Dr. Wm. Ingalls, assisted by Dr. Samuel Perham, both of Winchester. It appeared that there were five severe stabs, as with a wide-bladed knife, on the left side of the body extending from near the armpit to just above the hip. One thrust of the instrument had broken a rib, and another had pierced the diaphragm, which latter wound Dr. Ingalls deemed sufficient to produce death.

Performances at 8 p.m.

'Oklahoma!' on this weekend

McCall Junior High will present its spring musical production of "Oklahoma!" this weekend. Performances will take place in the McCall auditorium beginning at 8 p.m. Apr. 14 and 15.

This production has been given enthusiastic support by extracurricular clubs at McCall. The Spanish club recently sponsored an "Oklahoma!" poster contest for its members. Under the direction of Mrs. Felicia Hall, teacher and club advisor, the participants created eye-catching original designs in Spanish. The winning entry was submitted by Barbara O'Leary, a seventh grade student.

The photograph club has been taking snapshots of the cast and crew throughout the various stages of work on the play. With the supervision of advisor Dave Ardito, the art department darkroom has been used to develop and print many of the photos. Photographs by Philippe Baumann, grade 9 and Michael McCormack, grade 7 will be on display at the school on the evenings of the performances.

Students and art teacher, Dave Ardito have also offered their artistic talents to create posters and signs publicizng the musical. An oversize, outdoor "Oklahoma!" sign was designed and painted by students Adrian Smith, Laura Cunningham, and Marina Sartori. Posters for around town were made by Rob Willard, Sally Warford, Nancy Foley, Joyce Gibbons and Leslie Koplow. Adrian Smith, a ninth grader, also designed the ad for "Oklahoma!" which appeared in The Winchester Star.

Cast and crew have worked many long hours preparing for this production of "Oklahoma!" The public is cordially invited to attend and enjoy this heart-warming musical at McCall. Tickets will be available at the door on the evenings of the performances.

Sachem stickmen drop opener to Newton

By GEORGE PARKER

For Gene Bouley's team, it was a disappointing, loss, but there won't be many games like the lacrosse team's opening game. They started off against the best team in the Southern Division on Wednesday, and, though they lost, they played a good game, despite a few obvious weaknesses.

The team they played, Newton North, had the slight advantage going into the game of having played four scrimmages, compared to the two that Winchester played. This added experience was easily seen in Newton's play. Their defense was particularly effective, for they were very agile stick-handlers, and often knocked the ball out of the Sachem's sticks.

However, they were caught off-guard in the first quarter, as Midfielder Chuck Began drilled a shot past the Newton goalie in the first minute. Unfortunately, Winchester couldn't maintain their momentum, and Newton stormed back in the last four minutes of the first period with three quick goals.

Newton continued their domination in the second quarter: "The second was very sloppy," according to coach Bouley. During this time period, while the Sachems were only able to put in one goal, Bobby Coppins' scoop shot, Newton racked up three more goals.

However, in the third quarter, Winchester regained some of their initiative and began to compete with the Newton team on defense, holding them to only one scoring effort. They had some close calls, as a few shots came close to getting by goalie Jackie Driscoll — "one of our strong points." Unfortunately, the Newton defense also cracked down, allowing only one goal, Mark Carzo's shot, seven minutes into the 12-minute period.

However, the competition was not to last, as Newton insured their victory with a pair of goals in the first half of the fourth period, while the Sachems could only manage one - Chad Doe's, which came late in the quarter.

Thus, the game ended, 9-4, Newton. At this point, the greatest deficiency in the Sachems is their defense, which is still inefficient at stripping the opposition of the ball. To balance this, though, Winchester's midfield is a strong point, as they scored three of the four Sachem goals.

This domination of the scoring by the midfield continued in the next game, against Needham. However, there were some major differences in this game: Winchester won, 8-5, and the defense started clearing the ball effectively, and following up on the clear, though they still need work on their man-to-man coverage. The game was extremely tight, up until late in the fourth quarter.

Until then, neither team had more than a one-goal advantage at any time, and Needham went into the fourth quarter leading, 5-4.

Then, in the last four minutes, the Sachems exploded. Mark Carzo put in one of his three goals, Kevin Foley added a pair to the Winchester tally, and Chad Doe racked up yet another goal (his second). The remaining score came from Ed Quinn, and the Sachems came away victorious, 8-5, from a team that swamped them last year and is still quite good this year.

Bubba Sanford had five assists.

May is bicycle month

American Bike Month in May is dedicated to promoting bicycle safety. This is the 22 consecutive year that communities throughout the country have held special events geared to making their areas a safer place for bicyclists.

In Winchester, Police Chief McHugh has arranged for Safety Officer McKinely to visit each elementary school, to go over the rules of the road with the students and to have the students see a film on bicycle safety.

Every two years, in cooperation with the Winchester Community School Association a bicycle rodeo is held for all elementary children. They practice bike skills, and each bike is inspected for maintenance needs then engraved by the Jaycees for theft protection. (The next rodeo will be held next year).

The chief cautions motorists to remain alert to bike riders and respect their right to the road. He also warns bicyclists not to use erratic and illegal maneuvers such as exiting from driveways and sidewalks onto public roads, and failing to stop or yield at controlled intersections.

Along with the rules of the road, there are maintenance needs that should be attended to — to make sure a bike is operating safely. Handlebars and seats should always be tight and adjusted to fit the bike driver. Chains should always be kept lightly oiled and brakes should always be checked before going out. And always check tire treading to make sure there are no stone or glass bits lodged there.

New deadline

Scanlon named coordinator for WTA tennis teams

By JAMES R. STEWART JR.

Christopher Scanlon, 45 Spruce st., has been named coordinator of the Winchester Tennis Association's entry in the up-coming Men's Suburban Tennis League.

At a League-wide meeting at the Middlesex Swim and Tennis Club in Lexington last week, Peter Lund, overall director of the league this year, announced that there were expected to be some 36 clubs involved in sponsoring teams in the competition. The league runs for the months of May and June, playing matches on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings around the circuit. Each team consists of three doubles combinations and they compete in five levels of play. Each entering club may field one or two teams in the B and C divisions, while their top combinations enter the A Division.

Scanlon was enthusiastic about the early preparations for this year's championships. "We finished up in first or second place in four Divisions last year," he said; "this year we hope to better this record and we are looking forward to the competition within our organization for places on the various teams".

The Winchester Tennis Association will again sponsor an A team, two B teams and two C teams. Coordinator Scanlon stated that as soon as the William S. Packer Courts, where the Winchester home matches will be played, are ready for play, challenge matches will be arranged to set up all doubles teams. Captains will be appointed soon, and any doubles pair should contact Scanlon at once to get in on the competition. A call to 729-8991 will put you in touch with the coordinator for further information.

Cosmos win 7-0

Youth soccer season opens

Winchester has entered two boys teams in the Middlesex League of the Massachusetts Youth Soccer Association this year.

The new league is affiliated with the United States Youth Soccer Federation, and is considered to be more competitive in the older boys groups due to post-season competition at the state and national levels.

Winchester's boys teams opened their season Apr. 9 with home games.

The cosmos, competing in the under-19 age group, played Wilmington. Pat Fortin scored the first goal in the opening minute of the game, and the team dominated the whole game. Three more goals were scored in the first half by Gary Martin Jim Olivier and Jack Driscoll.

The Cosmos played with the wind in their favor in the second half, continuing their short ground passes and quick break-through runs. Barry McQuillan scored the fifth goal on a skillful penalty kick. Two more goals were added by Gary Martin and Pat Fortin in the last 10 minutes of the game, to make the final score 7-0.

The Cosmos played a well-coordinated team game, displaying good knowledge, ball control and physical superiority. All 17 players performed well, with Mark Mulvaney doing an outstanding job at the Center of Defense. Pat Fortin and Willie Strazzulo dominated the midfield play, ably backed up by Bobby Horne and Peter Franchi. John Barcus and George Casey led the attack, with fine performances by Jack Driscoll, Brad Holmes and Charlie Mahoney. John Waite was faultless in goal, and a big asset to his team with well-placed punts and hand-throws. The Cosmos will play away the next two weeks, returning home Apr. 30 to play against Chelmsford.

The under-16 boys played against Chelmsford, operating with a strong defense led by Jim Kohr, Stuart McCord and Brad Shea. They kept the ball in their opponents' half most of the game, with Roupen Merjanian and Neil Frank controlling the action and feeding the forwards. Numerous chances were created, and Billy Budd and Ned Fortin came close to scoring, but the goalposts, the crossbars and the Chelmsford goalkeeper prevented the goals from being scored.

The team displayed good teamwork in their first game. They will play away against Billerica, one of their strongest opponents next week, returning home to play Bedford on Apr. 23.

This clinic will be open to all interested boys in Arlington, Lexington, Woburn, Medford and Winchester, between the ages of 5 and 12. Boys will be grouped according to age, size and ability.

A charge for the six week session will be assessed. Registration for the spring clinic will be held Sunday morning, Apr. 23 at the USA Rink at 9 a.m.

Energy congress needs delegates

Anyone who has been interested in the energy problems the country has been facing (the Northeast in particular) and has been wondering just how to get involved, here's your chance:

A New England Energy Congress will be held, based at Tufts University, this May. The congress, sponsored by the New England Congressional Caucus, is to be made up of 60 delegates from all six New England states. The delegates will be chosen from applications received over the next month. Serving for six months on six committees, they will be expected to produce energy action plans for the region in the coming year.

Individuals from all over New England, representing public interest groups, the private sector, unions, universities, and government are being invited to apply to serve as delegates.

The six committees for which delegates will be selected will focus on issues such as New England's energy supply, needs and demands, conservation, regulatory and institutional problems, alternative energy sources, and energy financing.

A major time commitment is involved in this project: perhaps as many as two weekends a month from May to October, 1978.

Application papers may be obtained from the New England Energy Congress office, Tufts University, 28 Sawyer ave., Medford, 02155. Phone: 625-6528. Applications must be in by Apr. 20.

Selectmen's notes

A fish market will be opening in Winchester.

Donald F. Green Jr. was granted a common victuallers license by the selectmen to open Viking Seafoods at 47 Church st., contingent upon meeting building commissioner and fire department regulations.

The market will sell fresh fish and take-out cooked fish. Green told the board he is planning to open the business by May.

Alan P. W. Eng was granted a license to open the China House restaurant, formerly the China Hula restaurant at 797 Main st. Eng's license is also contingent upon satisfying several building commissioner requirements.

Resource recovery plants

The problem of what to do with solid waste disposal was examined by selectmen when two representatives of the Bureau of Solid Waste presented plans for resource recovery plants Monday night.

Frederick P. Gross and John F. Albis showed a film on the proposed Northeastern Massachusetts Resource Recovery project in North Andover. Another plant is being considered by the 128 West Refuse Recovery Council in Stoughton. The plants incinerate trash to produce electric power. Residue from the incineration is used in road bed contruction. Metals are recycled.

The Northeastern plant, which could be three years away from completion, is looking for contract committments from communities before ground can be broken this year.

If Winchester chooses to sign with the Northeastern plant, the town will have to make a 20 year commitment for waste disposal at the plant. The cost of waste disposal, including transfer costs, was estimated by Albis at $11 to $12 per ton.

Winchester is currently under contract with a private firm for waste disposal. The contract will be in effect for three years. Cost per tonage to the town presently is $12.33, Director of Public Works Walter Tonazsuck said.

The 128 West project is several years behind the Northeast plant in completion. Vic Karaian, Winchester's representative to the 128 council, told the board the council needs "an intent for committment" from communities before a search is made for construction bidders.

Faced with a mound of paperwork, the selectmen will be investigating the advantages of the two plants, or with continuing waste disposal with a private contractor.

Licenses

The following licenses were approved by the board:

A garage sale at the home of Kathleen Russell, 51 Forest st., on Apr. 15 and 16; a rummage sale at the Church of the Epiphany, Parish Hall, 70 Church st., Apr. 26 and 27; a public amusement license for Children's Own School, McCall Junior High School, Apr. 29; and a parade permit for the En Kastreet fair, May 20.

Middlsex County Advisory Board

Board of appeal appointee

Mrs. Ruth Null was appointed by the board to a one-year term as associate member of the board of appeal.

Null had previously served for four years as a public representative.

The board appointed William MacNeill to a regular three-year term to the board of appeal. MacNeill had previously served a one-year term as an associate member of the board. Fred Pacione was reappointed to a two-year term as an associate member. There is still one three-year associate membership vacancy on the board.

Bradlee Ross was reappointed to the conservation commission. John Lyons, who had served a one-year term on the commission, told selectmen he would not be seeking re-appointment.

Wedge Pond

Dr. Samuel E. Toto requested the board to consider taking a stand about "initiating a preventative and ecologically sound" weed-control program for Wedge Pond. The board considered expanding the soon-to-be-formed Winter Pond Study Committee to include Wedge Pond within its scope and asked Dr. Toto to send along the names of any persons who might be interested in serving on such a committee. The board would be glad to accept resumes from anyone concerned with the preservation of Winter and Wedge ponds and willing to work on a study committee.

Collector-Treasurer

The town manager has appointed Carol Thomas to the position of collector-treasurer effective April 1 for a one-year term. Mrs. Thomas was the only applicant for the job for which she was the incumbent.

Dog complaints

Molea reported that although the number of dog bites in a year has dropped since the start of the 24 hour leash law in 1975, there were still 35 reported bites in 1977.

Selectman Arthur Dunbar said he was concerned with the number of bites, and hoped the offending dogs were no longer in Winchester.

The board asked Molea to come back in a month with recommendations for improvements in the department. Molea said the pound could use at least five more runs and another employee.

In light of the $2500 in leash law violations collected in 1977, Chairman Edward O'Connell said he wanted to see the leash law strictly enforced.

Evan's House of Pizza

Evan's House of Pizza, 292 Washington st., has changed hands and the new owner, Theodoros Papathanasiou, has been granted a common vicutallers license, subject to compliance with relatively minor building department recommendations. Hours of operation will be 10 to 10.

Chairman's goals announced

In his second week of chairmanship, Edward O'Connell identified the goals he thought the board should pursue over the coming year. "We need a charge to ourselves once in awhile," O'Connell said, "although some problems aren't easy to solve."

O'Connell said the board should address themselves to the problems in the town yard and strengthening problem solving with the DPW and the board of health.

He wished to open communications with the Winchester Business Association, and determine the intent of the savings bank in relation to theatre sites.

Other priorities included acting on the liquor license, developing a strategy to address the management letter prepared by the town auditors, assessing progress in purchasing, and evaluating the bench strength of the department structure.

Outside of Winchester, O'Connell said he'd like to see the board work closely with the representatives of the vocational school, and press for budget approval status for the Middlesex County Advisory Board.

For the future, better equipment replacement schedules, ideas on schools - closing possibilities, and bringing the health officer before the board to discuss cemetery needs, were mentioned goals.

Article support

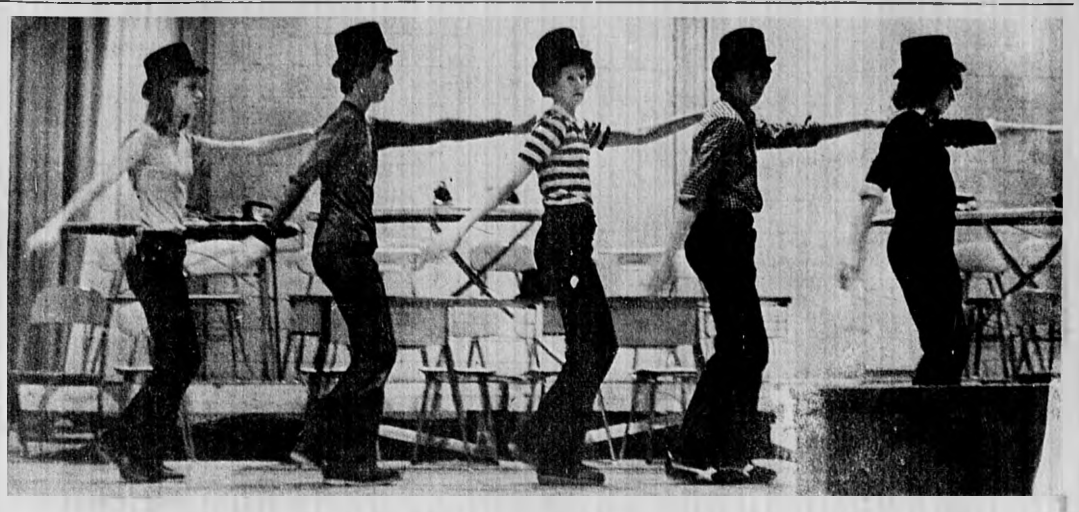
A $20,000 appropriation to assist the permanent building committee in litigation expenses involving the construction of the new high school was supported by the selectmen as article 9 in the spring warrant.

The board also voted in support of article 20, to rezone a section of Cambridge street near the Winchester-Woburn line from a residential district to a general business district. A public hearing on the rezoning proposal will be held by the planning board Apr. 27. The selectmen's support is barring an unforeseen circumstansce that may develop as a result of the public hearing.

Street paving contracts

Two state-funded street paving contracts under the state highway fund (Chapter 90) were approved by the board.

The contracts are over a two-year period. The town will receive $57,326 in state funding.



Dancers Darryl Brian, Michael Guarnaccia, Mem Madigan, Jimmy O'Brien and Margaret Fairbanks rehearse for the "Steam Heat" dance routine for the Lynch Junior High performance May 4-6 of "The Pajama Game," to be held at the School auditorium.

Historical commission applicants

Three applicants told selectmen why they wanted to serve the town on the historical commission.

Mrs. Geraldine DeGeorge has worked as a volunteer secretary for the commission for the past year. She was a history major in college and has lived in Winchester for a year and a half.

Marjorie McCann Estridge is now working on photography for the inventory of houses built before 1916 in town. She has also written publicity articles for the commission and has done a library display.

Henry Simonds, a present member of the commission, organized the house inventory. He plans to do a history of the streets in town and a history of the fire department.

The board interviewed and unanimously approved three applicants to fill vacancies on the historical commission.

Constable appointees

Police Chief John McHugh and Lieutenant Andrew Crawford were also appointed constables.

License approvals

The board approved licenses for a garage sale at the home of Harold J. Wheeler, 42 Wedgemere ave. on Apr. 8 and 9 and for a tag day by the Immaculate Conception Queensmen Drum and Bugle Corps on Apr. 13, 14, and 15.

Voke school budget

A letter from Anthony Moschella, treasurer of Northeast Metropolitan Regional Vocational School informed the board the voke school's final budget will be $6,480,325, instead of $6,510,776.

This will mean a slight decrease in Winchester's assessment, Chariman Barbara Hankins said. Winchester's total assessment will be $204,101.15, rather than $205,840.

The annual En Ka "Story Book" Fair will be held this year on May 19 and 20 at Manchester Field. The fair will operate from 6-11 p.m. on Friday, 10 a.m.-10 p.m. Saturday.

New members welcomed to the club included Mrs. George L. Anderson, Mrs. George Browning, Mrs. Walter L. Dignam, Mrs. Bernard Doherty, Mrs. Robert J. Fahey, Mrs. John Gosselin, Mrs. Brian H. Gross, Mrs. Michael Hewitt, Mrs. Robert K. Quinn, Mrs. Ralph P. Smith Jr., Mrs. Lawrence Tobiason, and Mrs. Thomas Ward. They were introduced to the board by President Mrs. Charles Harris.

Mrs. Paul Goddu read a brief historical report of how the club was started; tea was then served to the group by Mrs. Paul Gleason and her committee.

Sale for blind at Crawford Church

An annual Spring event in Winchester is the participation of many civic, church, and social organizations in a day-long sale of articles made by blind workers, this year to be held Apr. 24 at the Crawford Memorial Church from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Church Women United coordinates this event, with Mrs. Rodney Torres and Mrs. J. P. Eugley as co-chairmen.

Blind workers in this area count heavily on proceeds from this event, and the sale in Winchester brings forth an especially large assortment of articles. Among the items for sale will be linen towels, mesh and net dishclothes, dusters, brooms, broom bags, denim bags, bibs, aprons of many styles for both adults and children, smocks, laundry and clothespin bags, doormats, sheets, and a wide selection of wood and leather craft, knitted goods, and basket work.

Proceeds from the sale of handmade items go directly to the blind workers and to the Blind Handicraft Shop, the chief outlet for products made by the blind.

Bells will ring at Unitarian

In observance of Patriot's Day, the 21-bell chime in the singing tower of the Winchester Unitarian Church will be played on Apr. 15 from noon to 1 p.m. All are invited to visit the tower and everyone age eight and older will be able to try out the bells for themselves — a novel experience.

Bells in any tower fall broadly into two categories, carillon and change-ringing. An instrument worthy of the name carillon has at least 25 bells. The most common change-ringing installation is an octave of eight bells. These bell towers are found around the world.

A third category includes towers having upwards of eight or ten bells and up to 25 carillon bells. There are relatively few installations in this category, which includes the chime of 21 bells in the Unitarian Church. Other than hymn tunes, no music is available for these installations.

Members of the music committee in the church have made arrangements or transpositions of music by Bach, Beethoven, Purcell, and others.

Local music students play in concerts

Several students from the Winchester High School Music Department have recently performed in various music festivals around the state.

On March 11 four music students went to Falmouth to perform in the All New England Music Festival Concert. Playing in the orchestra with students from all over New England were James Wells, viola, Suzanne Farman, violin, Sherrie Daugherty, cello, and Richard Cesari, bassoon. The orchestra was under the direction of Ben Zander, professor of music at the New England Conservatory in Boston. Also selected to perform were Stephanie Ruta and Deborah Shea who were unable to attend due to conflicts.

Three students were selected to perform April 1 at the University of Massachusetts at the Mass. Music Educators Conference. Following two very competitive auditions James Wells, Sherrie Daugherty and Tricia Wells were selected to perform in this All State Concert.

James Wells was selected to play first chair viola, which means he received the best score of all the other violists who auditioned. He is now eligible to be selected to perform in the All Eastern Conference to be held in 1979 in Atlantic City.

Fund drive to send kids to summer camp

The Mystic Valley Campership Coalition has announced its first fund raising drive to provide campership to needy children in the towns of Arlington, Burlington, Lexington, Wilmington, Winchester and Woburn. Earlier this year, agencies and citizens in the area started the coalition because of their concern for providing a camping experience for the children in the area.

Many handicapped children, or children with a difficult family life cannot afford the ever increasing cost of summer camp.

Contributions to the campership fund are being sought from businesses, fraternal organizations and citizens in the area.

All those interested in making a tax deductible contribution to the campership fund should make checks payable to:

"Cambridge Camping - Mystic Valley Account," Mystic Valley Campership Coalition, First Congregational Church, 21 Church st., Winchester, 01890.

Anyone needing further information is urged to call Pamela Brown, treasurer at 729-4350.

She recalls another era in life of Winchester Hospital

She lay in her bed in Winchester Hospital reminiscing about the changes in nursing in the past 57 years. Mrs. Valerie (Timmins) O'Connor laughed when she remembered that her mother sent her off to the Winchester Hospital School of Nursing in a long-sleeved blue gingham wrapper "down to the floor because she thought I'd have to wash floors. We didn't have to wash floors, but we did have to mop and dust the rooms daily, and the supervisor of nurses would come into the room and run her hand over the moldings to see if she could find any dust."

The school of nursing started on Washington street in a large house there, and when it moved to its present location, Mrs. O'Connor (then known as Timmy) was graduated in the class of 1921 — the second class from "the hill."

"When I first started," Mrs. O'Connor continued, "there was one nurse for the first floor, and one nurse for the second floor, and supervisors, but it was the doctors who trained us. And we had to be careful, too, with things like names. Everyone was Miss so-and-so — we only used knicknames when we were alone. I was Timmy, and one of my best friends, Miss Fogg, was, of course, Foggy.

"All the rooms were private rooms then except for the Harrington Room which had two beds in it. There were two big rooms reserved for wealthy patients. Of course there was no Blue Cross-Blue Sheild then, so there were only two kinds of patients — "town patients" whose bills were paid for by the town, and private patients. Things are different now."

Young and pretty Timmy left nursing after she received her RN, and married Dr. James H. O'Connor of Winchester. "He was DMD, and our son, James H. Churchill O'Connor, is an MD in Palm Springs, California." She and her husband and son lived in an aprtment over what was later Heavey's Drug Store, and then moved to White Street to a house built in 1873. She has lived there ever since.

When Mrs. O'Connor needed a nurse for her ill father, and couldn't find one, she decided the need was great enough to go back into nursing herself, and in the '40s she went to Mt. Auburn Hospital for a refresher course. She did volunteer nursing for two years, and in '43 went back to nursing as a special.

"I worked until the mid 50's, and the hours were long, too. In training we trained 10 hours a day, and if we were on nights we worked a 12-hour shift. When I worked as a special, we got $4.50 a day for an eight-hour shift."

Valerie Timmins O'Connor

Mrs. O'Connor said she never remembered being tired in her whole life. She added, "Sometimes I get a little tired now, but I get over it in 10 minutes." Mrs. O'Connor is 82 years old.

BEWARE OF RESTRICTIONS

The courts permit property owners to put in deeds to buyers reasonable restrictions on the use of the real estate being transferred. It might be looking upon as zoning on a very personal basis.

For example, a home in a commercially zoned area may have a restriction against use for any commercial purpose. This may be OK for the first buyer who plans to live in the house, but a lending institution may refuse to loan any money on it because commercial use may be the only reason for a new purchaser to buy it. They prefer to play it safe and give funds for less questionable and risky situations.

From the point of view of the buyer, it is preferable that the agreement enumerate any and all restrictions. The point is this: If there ARE restrictions, bring them out in the open and get the advice of your Reltor or attorney before going any furhter. It's for your own protection.

In all your real estate needs—buying—selling—rentals—appraisals—consultation—please phone or drop in at ANN BLACKHAM & CO., 11 THOMPSON ST., WINCHESTER. PHONE 729-1663. We're here to help!

Music students travel to Amherst for demonstration

On Mar. 30, 28 third graders traveled to the University of Massachusetts at Amherst to give a demonstration music lesson under the direction of music specialist Jeanne Loudon.

The session coordinator was Burton O. Cowgill, director of music with the Winchester Public Schools, who introduced the session, "Music in the Making." The boys and girls demonstrated the various activities occurring in the regularly scheduled music classes in which they deal directly with the basic ingredients of music - rhythm and melody.

The children were accompanied to the university by Mrs. Myrtle Dodge, Lincoln School teach, Principal William A. Warnock, Mrs. John Mercurio and Mrs. Neal McGeoghean.

Music teacher Jeanne Loudon 'best in state'

Jeanne Loudon, elementary music specialist in the Winchester public schools, was the recipient of the highest award given by the Massachusetts Music Educators' Association at its recent annual conference at the University of Massachusetts. It was the first time in this state that such a high honor went to a classroom teacher.

Recognition as outstanding teacher, as stated at the presentation, came "as a result of her demonstrated ability to inspire students to love and enjoy music; of pioneer efforts on behalf of innovative approaches to music education; of diligence in pursuit of music curriculum development."

Miss Loudon is a well-known clinician utilizing techniques of Carl Orff and Zoltan Kodaly. She conducts summer workshops for music teachers at universities throughout the country. Locally her teaching assignments are the Mystic, Lincoln, and Ambrose schools.

The distinguished service award came appropriately at the season of the year when best performances are universally acknowledged, In her acceptance remarks, Miss Loudon alluded to her cousin Dorothy Loudon, winner of the Tony Award for best performance in the current Broadway musical "Annie", saying, "This is my Tony award, and I am deeply honored to receive it."

Bay State roll call

The House

Shellfish purification (H 1854) - House reconsidered 146-67, its earlier defeat of a bill requiring the state to assume costs of operating the clam purification plant in Newburyport. The House, two weeks ago, had barely defeated 114-111, this bill which requires the state to pick up the tab for the $85,000 plant.

Supporters argued the present system of assessing only communities where the clams are dug is unfair, since surrounding communities which contribute to the contamination are not assessed. They also noted the shellfish are a resource enjoyed by the entire state.

Some opponents agreed the system was unfair, but noted they preferred privately owned purification plants as a solution rather than having the state get involved in the process and in paying costs.

Representative Saltmarsh voted for the bill.

Logan traffic (H 1123) - House refused 124-94, to reconsider its passage of a measure prohibiting the Massachusetts Port Authority from restricting the landing and takeoff hours of planes at Logan Airport, and giving that power to the Legislature.

Reconsideration supporters argued the bill takes power away from the Port Authority, which through its flexibility and willingness to make exemptions, has helped solve the problems and controversy between residents and the airport over noise pollution. They said it was a mistake to take the power away from the Authority and give it to the Legislature.

Supporters of the bill argued the Legislature, not the Port Authority, should have the power to restrict the hours. They also expressed fear that if the power was left with the Port Authority, its members might vote for a curfew which would severely hurt and perhaps shutdown the airport which is an important economic resource.

SST at Logan (S 1205) - House refused 159-62, to reconsider its defeat of a bill banning supersonic aircraft from Logan Airport, except in emergency cases.

Ban supporters argued the SST should be banned because it would cause excessive noise pollution and also noted it was not cost efficient.

Some opponents noted the SST was a great technological advance and claimed banning it at Logan would halt the airports progress. Others argued the federal government, and not the state, should decide the issue.

Representative Saltmarsh voted against the bill.

Elderly Excise tax exemption (H 508) - House approved 220-4, a measure exempting persons over age 65 from paying an excise tax on their cars. The bill also provides for reimbursement by the state to cities and towns for any money they lose as a result of the exemption.

Supporters argued the bill was an important one for elderly citizens, and noted it would help provide some tax relief for them, particularly those on fixed incomes.

Opponents argued the state cannot afford to reimburse cities and towns the millions of dollars they would lose under the bill. They also noted the bill makes no income requirements for exemptions from the tax and claimed many elderly people can easily afford to pay the excise tax.

Finally, some opponents claimed passage of the bill gives false hope to the elderly, and labelled it as an election year move for Representatives to cultivate the elderly vote.

Saltmarsh voted for the bill.

MBTA (H 927) - House defeated 181-42, a measure allowing 15 towns to withdraw from the MBTA. The towns are Ashland, Dover, Duxbury, Hanover, Hamilton, Lynnfield, Marshfield, Medfield, Middleton, Millis, Norwell, Pembroke, Rockland, Sherborn and Topsfield.

Supporters argued the 15 towns pay very high assessments to the MBTA and get no service. They claimed local cities and towns should have the choice of whether they want to participate in something they are paying for with tax dollars.

Many opponents agreed the assessments are high, but noted allowing communities to withdraw was not the answer, noting other communities would have to pick up the tab. They also noted the Transportation Committee was presently working on a bill to change the assessment formula, and said this was a better solution to the problem.

The Senate.

Open meeting law (S 1077) - Senate reversed a vote of last week and rejected, 25 to 4, a bill amending the open meeting law. Last week, the Senate had kept the bill alive by refusing to table it on a 20-7 tally. The measure would make the state's open meeting law applicable to all public and private groups that receive five percent or more of their operating budgets from the state or federal government.

Supppрters argued the public has a right to certain information from groups that receive substantial federal or state money. They claimed the bill has worked well with government boards and agencies and should now be applied to these other groups.

Opponents argued the bill may be unconstitutional because it could be applicable to many private businesses and groups in the state which receive state or federal money.

Senator Rotondi voted against the bill.

U.S. military budget (H 3670) - Senate tabled 25-4, resolutions urging President Carter and the U.S. Congress to cut the United States military budget and transfer the funds to state and local governments.

Resolution supporters argued cities and towns are facing severe fiscal crises and claimed some of the billions of dollars used for the military budget should be redirected to cities and towns across the country to create jobs and help the country's "social defense."

They also noted similar resolutions have been supported by the U.S. Conference of Mayors, Governor Dukakis, Lt. Governor O'Neill, and Mayor Kevin White.

Some opponents of the resolutions argued it was important for the country to have a large military budget to keep our defense strong. Others argued the legislature should not be spending its time submitting resolutions to Congress and therefore, voted to table the resolutions or voted "present" on them as a form of protest.

Senator Rotondi voted to table the resolutions.

Voter qualifications (S 289) - Senate rejected 33-0, a bill allowing persons who own property and pay property taxes in more than one city or town, to vote in local elections in each community their home is located.

Supporters argued the homeowner taxpayer is required to pay taxes in each city or town and therefore should have a voice in the choice of elected officials. They claimed to do otherwise would be taxation without representation.

Some opponents argued the bill would create chaos by also allowing dual-voters to run for office in each community. Others argued the bill is unfair and gives multi-property owners and rich people more votes than other citizens.

Rotondi voted against the bill.

Pre-primary conventions (S 291) - Senate defeated 26-5, a bill restoring pre-primary political conventions for political parties in the state.

Supporters argued the conventions used to spark party interest and bring people and ideas from all corners of the state together. They noted the abolition of conventions has made it almost impossible for candidates living far away from the Boston area to get elected to a statewide office. They cited figures that 31 of 36 statewide officials elected since the convention were abolished, have come from greater Boston.

Opponents argued the conventions were run by political bosses, and noted they were full of deals, abuses and corruption. They also pointed out political parties can hold "issues conventions" and other gatherings to unify party members from far corners of the state.

Motorcycle helmets (S 868) - Senate defeated 20-13, a bill repealing the requirement that all motorcyclists wear protective helmets. The bill would require only cyclists under eighteen to wear the headgear.

Supporters argued the helmets can oftentimes be a hazard by impairing vision and causing fatigue, while noting the federal law requiring helmets has also been eliminated. They questioned how effective the helmets have been at preventing accidents. Some supporters also noted this was another example of the state interfering with individual rights and freedom of choice.

Opponents argued it is very dangerous to drive motorcycles without helmets and claimed that many people have avoided serious injury in accidents because they were required to wear the headgear.

Moped regulation (S 869) - Senate defeated 27-4, a bill regulating the operation of moped bicycles. Key sections of the bill include: giving cities and towns local option to require registration of all mopeds and local option to regulate moped sales and rental agencies; requiring moped drivers to ride single file; prohibiting carrying a passenger on a moped except on a baby seat equipped with a harness; prohibiting carrying of any types of packages, except in an acceptable basket designed for it; requiring drivers and passengers under eighteen to weal a helmet; and requiring a person to have a drivers' license or motorcycle learner's permit in order to drive a moped.

Supporters argued the increased number of mopeds in the state makes it important to adopt rules and regulations regarding their use. They also pointed out it was important, particularly in tourist areas, to regulate the sales and rental of mopeds.

Some opponents argued the bill goes too far and requires too many rules and regulations, many of which are unnecessary. Others claimed the bill tries to put mopeds, which travel very slowly, in the same category as cars or motorcycles.

Rotondi voted for the bill.

The House

Court reform- full funding (S 1322)-House approved 124-90, an amendment to have the state take over full funding of the courts on July 1, at a cost of $111 million.

Representative Saltmarsh voted for full funding.

Rent costs (S 1322)-House approved 170-58, a court-reform bill prohibiting counties from charging the state excessive rates when it rents county-owned court properties. The amendment prohibits counties from charging the state more than it would charge a business for renting the same property.

Saltmarsh voted against the amendment.

Personnel transfer (S 1322)-House defeated 120-98, an amendment which takes away the power of individual justices to transfer non-judicial personnel and gives it to the Chief Administrative Justice.

Salary hikes (S 1322)-House defeated 118-87, an amendment reducing the pay raises for non-judicial employees.

Final passage - court reform (S 1322)-House approved 176-40, the bill reorganizing the courts and having the state assume full cost of their operation on July 1.

Other key provisions include providing for a new chief administrative justice to run the daily court operations; allowing judges to be transferred where needed, and several salary hikes for judges, clerks and other employees.

Representative Saltmarsh voted for the package.

Equalized valuation (H 3589)-House refused to reconsider 117-104, its earlier defeat of a bill clarifying equalized valuations by requiring the tax commission to include Chapter 121A tax exempt property in the communities' property report of assessed valuation. Chapter 121A properties are special corporations, mainly in Boston, Springfield and Worcester, whose property values are not included in a communities' assessed valuation.

Saltmarsh voted for the bill.

Bobcats (H 5806)-Senate refused to reconsider 160-58, its earlier defeat of a bill prohibiting the killing of bobcats and fishers for sport or commercial purposes, and levying a fine of up to $1,000.

Saltmarsh voted to ban the killing of bobcats and fishers.

Optometrists (H 409)-House gave initial approval 156-62, to a bill allowing optometrists to use certain drugs previously reserved for ophthalmologists which dilate the pupils.

Saltmarsh voted against the allowing of substances.

Salary advisory board (H 2660)-House defeated 129-91, a bill expanding the duties of the Advisory Board on Legislative and Constitutional Officers' Compensation. The Board presently is structured to review salaries of Legislators and the six Constitutional Officers and make their recommendations to the Legislature. This bill would expand that to include any legislative employee making at least $15,000.

Saltmarsh voted for the bill.

Job posting (H 4533)-House approved 191-26, a bill requiring that any vacant or newly-created non-civil service state jobs to be filled in the state, be posted in every division of employment security office in the state 30 days prior to hiring.

Saltmarsh voted in favor of job posting.

State jobs (H 4534)-House approved 146-63, a measure prohibiting any person from being hired for any state job until the job has been authorized and the money funded.

Representative Saltmarsh voted for the bill.

Travel records (H 4535)-House approved 156-68, a bill requiring legislators to file with the State Secretary and State librarian, a record of their travel allowances, and that they be availa' le there for public inspection.

Saltmarsh voted in favor of the bill.

Signing travel records (H 4536)-House approved 183-38, a measure requiring legislators to sign, under penalty of perjury, their vouchers for travel allowances, thus acknowledging they received them.

Saltmarsh voted for the bill.

No-show employees (H 5080)-House defeated 215-7, a bill requiring certain public officials including legislators and department heads to disclose information to the Governor, House Speaker, or Senate President on "no-show" state employees or employees not doing their jobs.

The bill imposes a $1,000 fine or six-month jail sentence for anyone not disclosing the information.

Representative Saltmarsh voted against the bill.

Domestic violence victims (H 3325)-House approved 164-56, a measure allowing victims of domestic violence to receive assistance under the law which presently requires cities and towns to provide temporary living quarters for victims of fire or other disasters.

Appointments - blue ribbon panel (H 5463)-House rejected 195-28, an amendment to the proposed seven-member blue ribbon commission to investigate state and county construction contracts.

The amendment would increase the number of members on the Commission to nine, and give the Governor the authority to appoint the additional two members.

Blue ribbon panel (H 5463)-House unanimously gave final passage 224-0, to the bill creating the seven-member special corruption commission to investigate state and county building contracts since 1968.

The bill gives the commission the power to subpoena witnesses and also grant them immunity with the approval of the courts.

In addition, the commission is required to hear testimony in public, rather than closed-door sessions. Under the measure, the seven-member commission would include one appointed by the Governor; two by the Secretary of State; two by the State Auditor; the Attorney General or someone in that department designated by him; and the president of the Massachusetts Bar Association, or someone in the Association appointed by him.

Saltmarsh voted for the commission.

The Senate

Death Penalty (H 820)-Senate gave initial approval 21-14, to a bill allowing courts to impose the death penalty in eleven specific cases of first degree murder.

The eleven categories include killing policemen, firemen, or corrections officers; killing while committing rape, armed robbery, kidnapping for ransom, and hijacking planes or school buses; killers who are hired as well as those who hired them; killers previously convicted of murder; and killers who torture their victims.

The bill requires the convicting judge or jury to conduct a subsequent hearing to determine whether the convicted murderer should be sentenced to death or life in prison. In addition, it provides for special consideration for several persons, including those with no prior criminal record, and for those who murdered while emotionally disturbed or mentally ill.

It also makes the state Supreme Court responsible for reviewing all death sentences, and determining whether the sentence is in line with penalties imposed in similar cases.

Senator Rotondi voted against the death penalty.

Public funding abortion (H 3237)-Senate defeated 20-15, a move to strike a section from the supplemental budget which prohibits the use of state funds for abortions for state employees, except to save the mother's life.

Teacher, principal from St. Mary's at Title 1 conference

Sister Michaelinda, principal of St. Mary's Parochial School, and Sr. Mr. Christopher, in charge of testing, attended a one day New England conference on the non-public schools in Auburn recently.

The conference was co-sponsored by Massachusetts and Rhode Island, and a major theme of the conference was the improvement of non-public schools' participation in Title I.

St. Mary's currently is participating in Winchester's Title I program, which serves eighth grade students at Lynch, McCall, and St. Mary's.

Programs featured at St. Mary's Church

A series of talks on the Old Testament is being given each Monday night at St. Mary's, 162 Washington st., Winchester. Dr. Saldarini, a professor in the theology department, Boston College, will speak on the Prophet Amos on Apr. 24 at 7:30 p.m. in the Religious Education Center. All are welcome.

"Evenings for Parents," a four-week series for parents, will begin Apr. 28, at St. Mary's. Are you interested in what your children's fondest memories will be 20 years from now, how you listen to your children, how your children are like you and your spouse, and in what ways you can be more life-giving to your children?

If you are interested in these questions, come explore these questions (and others) with your partner and share your parenting experiences.

Evenings for Parents will be held at St. Mary's for four consecutive Friday evenings, Apr 28, May 5, 12 and 19, from 8 to 10 p.m. For more information call Pat and Lloyd Franke, 729-9287, Nancy and Rick O'Herron, 729-5919, or Ann and Jim O'Neil, 729-7539.

This is the first of three events to celebrate the 50th anniversary of St. Anthony Church Edifice. The first event to take place in St. Anthony Church, on Mar. 26, 1928 was a concert, and thus the concert by Father Strahan is appropriate. All are welcome and admission is free.

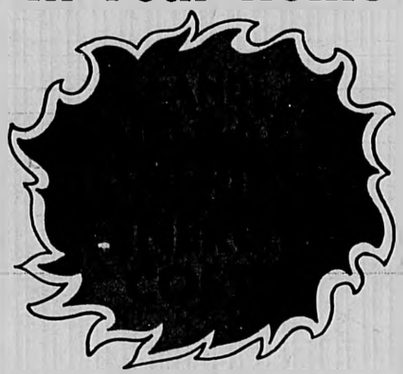
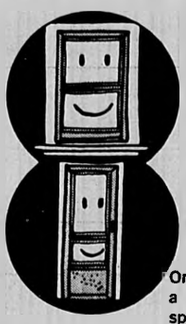
HOW TO SAVE UP TO 50% HEAT LOSS THROUGH GLASS In Your Home



HOME HEATING

Is the biggest user of energy in your home. By incorporating these few simple changes in your home heating habits you can plug up some of those heavy drains on your energy pocketbook.



INSTALL STORM WINDOWS & DOORS

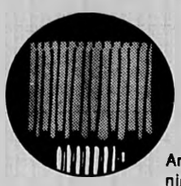
On your home. Provide a dead air insulating space between your prime window and the cold outdoors. Cut your fuel heating loss through glass up to 50%. Save energy during summer air-conditioning time — close storm windows to hold cool air inside — keep warm air outside.

TURN DOWN

Your thermostat at night. Turn it down 5 or 10 degrees and save 5% to 10% off your winter fuel bills.

EVERY DEGREE

Under 75° that you keep your thermostat at saves you 3% to 10% off your fuel bill.



CLOSE DRAPES

And draw shades at night to keep the heat in. Open up during the day to let the warm sun in.

KEEP FILTER CLEAN

INSU-LATE!

Your walls with 4" of insulation and your attic floor with 6" and save even more fuel dollars.

SAVE NOW...$$...and 10 years from now!

Your floor is more than just a place for walking

Don't think of the floor as just a place to walk or place your furniture. Instead think of it as the "fifth wall," and treat it with the respect this designation warrants.

Choosing a ceramic tile floor is the wisest move you can make. It's this category that boasts the flooring family's hottest design news.

Also, ceramic tile goes particularly well with the popular natural look. it'll stay beautiful and luxurious longer than any other flooring material. it adds considerable value to your home, and, last but certainly not least, it's a breeze to care for.

And, remember, ceramic tile floors aren't just for new homes. They needn't be designed in from the beginning. They can be added to your castle or cottage any time.

If a Paleolithic man suddenly surfaced and looked over today's ceramic tile floors, he'd unquestionably recognize their makings —baked clay, the same as in his day. But the many faces of glazed ceramic tile, ceramic mosaics and quarry tiles would astound him.

Glazed-ceramic tiles come in fabulous colors these days and can have designs machine-applied or silk-screened on.

How about an Aztec geometric? Or an elegant Renaissance medallion design? Also think about outlining squares, hexagons and octagonal shapes with grout now available in decorator colors.

Ceramic mosaics are usually one or two-inch square one-color tiles, tinted throughout. Now they come in every color, grouped on 12" x 12" sheets for easy installation.

How about working them into stripes, a big plaid, or some other geometric design that'll underline the style of your home?

ELEGANT AND ECLECTIC—A gleaming ceramic tile floor by Mid-State Tile Co. underscores the elegance of this eclectic dining room. The floor brings unity to such diverse furnishings as a Sheraton sideboard, French provincial chairs, a Haitian straw rug, traditional accessories, and greenery galore.

You can also custom-order arrangements of these mini-tiles in numerous designs.

Rugged quarry tiles, fired as they come from the earth, are available in all the natural clay colors: terracotta, sand and brown.

They can also be purchased tinted in other colors, such as green and blue. They come in square, hexagons, octagons and curvy Spanish shapes.

This means there's a ceramic tile floor to flatter every decor, from informal colonial and casually contemporary to formal traditional and boldly eclectic.

Tile floors are elegant when left bare, but if this look is too pure for you, go ahead and add area rugs. Orientals, the Scandinavian Rya types, and tropical straw rugs look particularly good on tile floors.

For more information on ceramic tile and how to select the right type for whatever room and decor, send 50 cents to the Tile Council of America, P.O. Box 2222, Princeton, N.J. 08540. You'll receive a beautifully illustrated booklet.

Why wait for that modern kitchen you've planned for? Now's the time to bring a new lifestyle into your home - framed in handsome wood finishes and satin finish formica...stylish cabinetry - priced with you in mind. FREE plans and estimates. See your kitchen sketched in color.

Repairing scarred wood is easy!

Are your wooden door frames and baseboards dented and gouged? Is your favorite chest battle-scarred from children's indoor games? It's a fate that befalls the active household—but with a little know-how and a new wood filler, it's almost child's play to repair pitted wood surfaces around the house.

The filler is called Elmer's Professional Carpenter's Wood Filler, and it's workable for at least 10 minutes after application, giving ample time to get the job done right before it dries. It takes stains exceptionally well, and since this latex-based product contains no solvents, it is practically odorless and can be worked even in a closed area. It also cleans up easily with water before drying.

Another beauty of this product, in addition to the wonders it does at repairing wood, is that it can be drilled, nailed or cut without cracking after it dries.

Surfaces should be clean, dry and free of grease, oil or loose particles before applying the filler. Using a putty knife, apply the filler generously from the tube or can. Remove excess with the knife, but leave enough to allow for sanding the filler flush with the surface after it dries.

For shallow dents or holes, one application is enough, but for deep cracks, two or more applications are better than one heavy one. But always allow the filler time to dry between applications. For shallow repairs, sanding can be done about 15 minutes after application. For deep repairs, allow one to eight hours prior to sanding.

Avoid high speed sanding. If machine-sanding, use an on-off, on-off action. After sanding, apply the desired finish.

If you plan to apply a stain, for best results don't sand the filler repair too finely. Medium or coarse grit sandpaper is best. On fine-sanded surfaces, stains require more time for penetration. To get a correct match, test stain on a wood scrap to determine proper color for both filler and wood. Apply the stain within one hour after sanding.

If you use a water-based paint finish, apply approximately one hour after sanding. If the finish is an oil-based paint, shellac or varnish, filler should dry overnight before these finishes are applied.

In addition to restoring wood around the house, wood filler is also a great boon for budget-minded do-it-yourselfers. When damaged plywood or second-hand furniture can be found at low prices, it can be easily restored with filler for big savings.

BATTLE-SCARRED WOOD around the active household can be beautifully and easily mended with a wood filler that takes stains well. This new solvent-free one from Elmer's also washes up easily before drying with water, and can be drilled, nailed or cut without cracking after it dries.

Color and design lend roof variety

As the largest exterior expanse of a home, the roof plays a vital role in any home's appearance. According to the National Home Improvement Council, today's roofing materials offer homeowners considerable leeway in their choice of colors and textures in addition to the roof's traditional role of protection.

Whether traditional or modern, the variety of roofing colors and designs can be used to enhance any architectural style. The shingle color can be chosen to blend a home with its exterior, or used to provide eye-appealing contrast to the siding color.

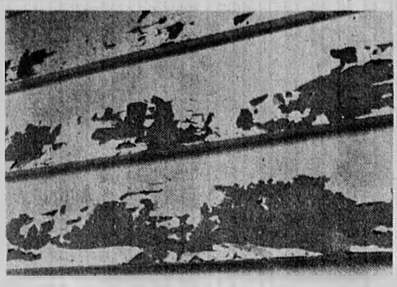
Inspect for problems before you paint

If you've decided to paint the exterior of your home this spring, the first step you take should not be up the ladder. Instead, start by giving your home a thorough inspection to spot common problems such as peeling, blistering and cracking. If you take the time to solve these problems first, you may double the life of the paint job, say the experts at Sherwin-Williams.

Nearly all house paint failures are due to moisture. This can take the form of vapor trying to escape from the inside of the house to the outside, or moisture in the form of rain, sleet or snow, trying to penetrate from the outside to the inside. When a paint coating gets in the way, it will peel, blister or crack. By eliminating moisture seepage, you lessen the chances of paint failure.

To help the do-it-yourself house painter get started on the right foot, Sherwin-Williams has put together a comprehensive "House Paint Inspection Program," which is being featured this spring at the company's more than 1,500 Decorating Centers nationwide.

Included are a free clinic slide presentation, free how-to literature, a house paint inspection checklist to take home and fill out, a special in-store reference manual, and knowledgeable factory-certified house paint specialists who can help you decide upon the correction procedures and exterior paint products to make this paint job the best and longest-lasting one you've ever had.



PEELING is the most common of house paint failures, and moisture is usually the cause. A free booklet available at more than 1,500 Sherwin-Williams Decorating Centers nationwide shows how to spot and solve such problems.

LAUNDRY-PLUS—Chock full of well-thought-out, handsomely designed ways to incorporate washing/drying and sewing, crafts, desk work, potting and play space into a single room is this complete laundry center developed by General Electric and Family Circle magazine in conjunction with the NAHB Women's Auxiliary.

TRADITIONAL BEAUTY AND CHARM endure when homes are clad in solid vinyl sidings by building materials manufacturer Bird & Son, Inc., East Walpole, Mass. The nuisance of continuous maintenance and painting are gone. Exterior sidewall cover made of solid vinyl cannot blister, peel, flake or warp like wood, nor can it corrode or rust like metal. It has proved its rugged durability over many years, under conditions of severe corrosion and weather exposure.

Vinyl siding won't need paint

Paint your home with a garden hose. That is virtually what you can do with an exterior side wall cover of solid vinyl siding. Most soil will just wash away, while any dirt and grime may be removed with a minimum of effort.

Vinyl siding is clean and refreshingly different. It never needs paint or other surface coloring. The color on the outside runs throughout the material.

In addition to charm and beauty, vinyl siding provides home comfort and protection and prevents moisture seepage. Walls and furnishings are guarded against unsightly water damage caused by wind-driven rains and melting snow or ice.

Made of one of the toughest of all plastic compounds, solid vinyl siding has proved its rugged durability over many years under conditions of severe corrosion and weather exposure. Vinyl will not support fire nor will it conduct lightning or electricity. It is impervious to pollutants in the air and is unaffected by fungi and termites.

Solid vinyl siding products and accessories are manufactured by Bird & Son, Inc., East Walpole, Mass. After years of research, vinyl has emerged as one of the most attractive and durable building materials ever to come on the market.

Solid vinyl siding has the look of wood without the work. A variety of styles and colors create handsome architectural effects. The standard clapboard style with a smooth finish has been supplemented by the development of the Branded type.

This new style resembles handsome woodgrain textures. In addition, there is the vertical style, particularly effective in highlighting areas such as doorways, porches, and gable ends of houses.

Supplementing the siding line are solid vinyl soffit and fascia systems, a complete solid vinyl gutter and downspout system with all of the necessary components. The new Woodstead high-density polystyrene ornamental shutter is also available to frame windows and doors.

It's not often a single home feature can create exterior elegance, add outdoor living space, enhance a view, and increase property value—all for relatively little money and virtually no maintenance.

But a wood deck will do it.

A deck is also unique because it benefits all members of the family and is suitable for almost every family activity. It's a functional and fun place to eat, nap, play, party, read, relax, and work—on a job, a hobby or a suntan.

A deck of western wood has the additional advantage of long life and easy care, provided it is properly installed and has good drainage. Competent do-it-yourselfers can usually handle the job.

Support posts and other sections of the deck that have direct contact with the ground need to be treated with preservative or a water repellent. Otherwise, no special finish is required for a wood deck. It can be painted or stained if that's desired, or allowed to weather naturally. Upkeep is limited to an occasional sweeping or a quick hose-down.

Decks are sometimes thought of as backyard features, but are actually appropriate to a number of locations. For example: off the kitchen for convenient dining, off the master bedroom as a private patio, off the children's bedroom as a play area, or adjoining the living room to allow indoor-outdoor entertaining.

ADDING AN OUTDOOR ROOM as a home improvement can benefit everyone in the family. A deck of western wood can be functional as well as a fun place for leisurely enjoyment. And it has the advantage of being easy to care for provided it is installed properly and has good drainage.

To provide easy access to the deck and take full advantage of the view, sliding glass doors and large windows should be installed in the wall of the adjoining room. For privacy and a measure of climate control, use sunshades, opaque screens, fencing or trellises.

A variety of deck patterns are possible with the various species of western wood. Long boards can be set flat or on edge. There's a choice of slat widths. Or parquet blocks can be used to achieve eye-appealing designs. Decks can also be topped with handsome and useful structures, such as a gazebo, a screened-in sleeping "porch" or a shed for storing outdoor accessories.

Other ideas on deck uses, installation and accessories can be obtained from local lumber dealers and building supply centers. For a booklet on "Outdoor Rooms" send 35 cents to Western Wood Products Association, Dept. SR-548, Yeon Building, Portland, Ore. 97204.

Start in the kitchen to save your energy and the country's!

As energy consumption reports headline the news across the nation, energy-conscious Americans are looking for new ways to combat the "war of the watts."

In the home, where 20 percent of the country's energy is consumed, air conditioning and heating costs are taking up the greatest chunk. Though major appliances stand next in line, you can plan toward more efficient use of laundry, cooking and refrigerator equipment to help "freeze out" high bills resulting from these energy-eaters.

For instance, re-shuffling or remodeling your kitchen to save energy—not just the country's, but yours, too—can be the step-saving answer to help cut utility costs. To help launch the attack on the battle of the B.T.U.'s while saving a little of your own energy, home service experts at Speed Queen, the laundry specialists, offer these kitchen energy-saving tips:

Plan your kitchen around the classic "work triangle" that efficiently combines three major work centers: sink, refrigerator, and cooking area. Keep the distance between any two of these work centers between four and nine feet to allow ample room for working with counters and cabinets yet eliminating unnecessary steps.

Installing a washer and dryer in the kitchen can reduce extra trips to the basement or an out-of-the-way utility room and keep you a step ahead of the family laundry. A new space-saving dryer from Speed Queen that features a narrower cabinet but a larger drum for maximum drying efficiency, fits easily into snug areas like an unused nook or alcove.

ENERGY-SAVING TACTICS to ward off wasting watts can start right in your kitchen. With a little reorganization, conserving energy for the country and for yourself can be accomplished with a few basics like planning around the sink, refrigerator and cooking area to allow for ample storage and work space. Installing an energy-saving washer and dryer in the kitchen, like the new space-saving dryer with a larger drum from Speed Queen, reduces extra trips to a secluded utility room and helps the homemaker keep a step ahead of the family laundry. Learning to use appliances you already have more efficiently, like matching pot and burner size and using lids to prevent heat loss, are a few ways to help cut high utility costs.

Wash in warm or cold water whenever possible. Remember a cold water rinse saves energy by cutting down on utility costs, and helps prevent wrinkles to reduce ironing time. Pre-treat heavily soiled items to give dirt a boost in cooler temperature washing and use proper water-level settings to eliminate waste. Recent tests prove Speed Queen washers use less water than other leading top-loading washers which means major savings for consumer utility costs.

Be sure the dishwasher saves as much energy in the kitchen as it does on your household chores. Wash full loads, use a short cycle to save water and an air-dry cycle to save energy, and load dishes properly to avoid unnecessary rewashing.

Position the refrigerator so that the door swings open to face the counter serving it for easy access and to eliminate reaching or walking around the door. Locate refrigerators and freezers away from direct sunlight and from heat-producing appliances.

Match pot and burner size to prevent heat loss and use lids to save energy and cook more efficiently. Use flat-bottomed pots and pans and remember that aluminum and copper are good heat conductors.

Remodeling your kitchen by using a step-saving, well-organized floorplan, adding new appliances with built-in energy-saving features, and using appliances you already have more efficiently, will help replenish your own energy reserves and conserve kilowatts for the nation.

Ceramic tile easy to install

By LIS KING

So you want to tile it yourself?

Good for you, for putting in your own tile has got to be the most rewarding do-it-yourself project of them all. And easier than you'd think, if you're reasonably handy.

Of course, common sense IS in order! Start small. Good first projects would be a kitchen backsplash area, a kitchen or vanity counter, a tub wall, or an entrance hall floor. Then you can go on to bigger things. But DO leave very complicated installations, such as sunken tubs and very large floors to be laid in some intricate pattern, to the professional.

So many colors, shapes and textures are available today, but choose fairly conservatively, since ceramic tile is so permanent. Remember, outlandish colors might tire you quickly.

Find out from the distributor about the latest easy-does-it installation methods and aids. Today, there are quick-set adhesives, mastics for special conditions, mildew and stain-resistant grouts, pre-mixed this and that, and special trim pieces.

Let the tile distributor help you figure out how much tile you'll need, recommend special trim and installation methods, and lay out the job. Then pay heed to his advice. This is ONE time it doesn't pay to be a wise guy. Bring along a sketch or Polaroid shots with measurements clearly indicated. Also be prepared to answer questions about the surface to be tiled.

Don't worry about the tools you'll need. Most do-it-yourselfers probably have the basic ones around the house already, and the special ones can be rented from the tile dealer for a few dollars.

You'll be happy to find that you can tile over almost any structurally sound, dry, clean and level surface. This includes double wood flooring, ½" exterior type plywood, ceramic tile, steel-troweled cement, asphalt or vinyl tile or sheet flooring.

The tiling itself is actually the easiest part of it all. It amounts to spreading the adhesive, setting the tile, cutting tile when necessary, and, after 24 hours or so, adding the grout.

For complete instructions on how to tile, write the Tile Council of America, P. O. Box 2222, Princeton, N. J. 08540. They've got two handy leaflets, one on how to tile floors, the other on how to tile walls. Each is 25 cents. Specify which one you want, of course.

Save on decorating dollars

The Spring blight is soon to strike in many households. That's when the sun shining in does more than light up your life; it also strikingly points out the havoc a winter indoors has wreaked on your home furnishings!

Don't be too alarmed, though. A multitude of sins can be coped with easily and inexpensively, with some simple Spring cleaning and planning.

Take a survey

First, take a survey of what refurbishing needs to be done. Then, map out a schedule for yourself of which tasks should be accomplished first.

Should you find that upholstery, rugs and draperies are soiled, don't let thoughts of expensive, dry cleaning bills get you down. Some K2r® Spot-lifter applied to the dirty spots may do the trick, and literally save you hundreds of dollars on professional cleanings. Just apply spot-lifter to the spotted or stained portions of the fabrics, let dry to a white powder, and then simply vacuum or brush the powder—and the soil—away.

A bit of "elbow-grease" and a good all-purpose cleaner can often take the place of paint or new linoleum for revitalizing smudged and soiled walls and floors.

Rearranging furniture and wall hangings can do wonders for a room, too, and it doesn't cost a cent. For example, if last year's spacious look leaves you feeling empty this year, try moving the couch and an arm chair or two into the center of the room to form a cozy "island."

Fill-in foliage

Any resulting empty spaces along the perimeter can be attractively filled in with plants or small indoor trees.

Of course, it may be necessary to replace some household items; things do eventually wear out. However, following common sense tips like these can save you money that can be put towards more pleasurable things . . . like this summer's vacation!

THE PROCESS OF GRASS MULCHING

1.) The closed cutting chamber design creates a suction which straightens grass for even cut.

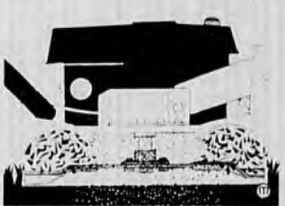
3.) Grass clippings are cut and recut into tiny mulched particles, promoting fast decomposition.



4.) Cutting action blows tiny particles deep into the lawn where nitrogen and other nutrients are returned to the turf.

POTS AND PLANTS. One of the easiest and most economical landscaping techniques is to use container gardens to decorate your exterior. And, according to the Ortho book, "Container and Hanging Gardens," these easy-to-grow mobile minigardens can make handy camouflages for many garden problems like refuse areas, poorly-designed architectural features, etc.

If you want to satisfy your taste buds along with your eye for beauty, try enhancing your indoor plant arrangements with tomatoes grown in containers. It makes sense to grow tomatoes indoors, because they look great, and if you get tired of admiring your decorations, just whisk them into your salad bowl.

And, not only will your taste buds appreciate home grown tomatoes, but so will your pocketbook.

All you need are the same basics required for container gardening with all plants—light, soil, nutrients and water.

Finding a spot in the sun should never be a problem, since container tomato plants are mobile. Just make sure yours receive at least 6 hours of direct sunlight daily. If you don't have a southern exposure, you can supplement the light that does shine through with indoor fluorescent lighting, according to the Ortho book, "All About Tomatoes."

Another one of the luxuries of growing tomatoes indoors in containers is that you can control your plant's soil conditions. Most professional gardeners prefer the synthetic "soilless" mixes to regular garden soil, because they are cleaner and free of plant disease organisms.

Nutrients are circulated through the plant by water, so a continuous supply of just the right moisture is as important to your tomatoes' health as a good nutritional diet. The frequency of watering depends on the stage of growth, daily temperatures, the humidity and light intensity, and the size and type of your container.

Since water brings nutrition to your plant, you have to also make sure that there are nutrients to be brought. The soil and water will provide some, but to produce the juiciest and most robust plant, you should supplement those nutrients with a fertilizer, like Ortho Tomato and Vegetable Food 10-20-5; it will give your plant the exact required balance of nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potassium, and because it's a special timed-release formula, you only have to apply it once every 3-4 months.

Once you've got the basics down pat, the real fun begins, and you have to choose which plants you want to grow.

There are a great many tomato hybrids available which are especially suited for planting in containers and hanging baskets.

For specific suggestions on what to grow for the design and environment you have in mind, check with your local garden center, or a good book on the subject, like Ortho's "All About Tomatoes."

SHRUBS CAN BE A BEAUTIFUL and functional addition to your landscape—they can be used to dress up your perimeter, while keeping your kids off the neighbor's property, and the neighbor's kids off yours. To make sure yours start out properly, handle them with care and protect the shrubs on the ride home, or better yet, have them delivered. While they're still in the nursery containers, keep the shrubs well watered, and plant them as soon as you bring them home, says Ortho's "Fundamentals of Gardening." Before putting them in the ground, make sure you've chosen a planting site that will suit the particular shrubs you've chosen. Then, prepare a hole large enough to allow for the root system to spread easily through the soil. Drainage is fundamental to the growth of shrubs, so if the soil does not provide adequate drainage, dig deeper or plant your shrubs in raised beds.

Organize spring clean-up to get it done fast and well

Spring flowers, Spring showers, and Spring . . . cleaning! The smell of Spring in the air inspires a new flurry of activity and a lot more in-and-out traffic, creating a dilemma for the homemaker who wants to complete her spring cleaning ritual with the least amount of fuss and confusion.

The secret: reduce the amount of cleaning that has to be done, and then devise ways to make the remaining tasks as effortless as possible; in a nutshell, plan and organize!

Leisure time

Check your cleaning supply closet to make sure you are prepared for the job. Throw away old, dried-up or unusable products that are taking up space. Make sure your cleaning equipment is in good working condition; any necessary repairs should be made before you begin the job. Then, map out a strategic "battle" plan listing what has to be cleaned, either on a room-to-room or an item-to item basis. It may be easier to do large jobs—like washing all the windows—the same day to complete the entire job.

Clear out clutter. When cleaning closets and drawers, throw away clothing, cosmetics, trinkets, and any other items that you haven't used in a year and probably won't use again. Also, remember to dispose of old newspapers and magazines; besides taking up valuable space they are dust collectors. If you have second thoughts about just throwing things away, have a garage sale instead, and turn discards into dollars.

Touch-ups help

Don't turn little jobs into big ones! Do touch-up cleaning on a regular schedule to help avoid major clean-ups. For quick and effective on-the-spot-cleaning, keep a bottle of Glass'Plus* glass, appliance and cabinet cleaner handy. Just spray this versatile cleaner on washable surfaces all around the house—glass, plastic, and chrome surfaces, countertops and appliances—wipe with a paper towel or clean cloth.

Kids can help!

Enlist the children's help in such jobs as dusting, general straightening up, folding laundry, and vacuuming, according to their ages and abilities. Planning is vital, so make a schedule listing the chores for each child, explaining when and how they are to be done. When every family member pitches in, it makes for greater efficiency and a homemaker whose spring cleaning is more quickly done!

How to make room for dining

Don't give up a dining room just because the floor plan of your home doesn't show one! According to the building industry, typical new private homes of today only have three quarters as much space as the homes that were built in 1970—and often it is the dining room that has disappeared.

On the bright side is the fact that there is specially-scaled traditional furniture that can be used to create a dining room in a hallway, a foyer, or in a corner of the living room. These "space savers" and "junior" dining room groups are now styled as elegantly as formal dining rooms and they are also available at prices that fit most budgets.

Specialists in the scaled-down effect are SK Products who say there is no reason for the appearance of the "junior" dining room furniture to be detectably different; it's a matter of subtle styling for the tables, chairs, buffets and hutches. They avoid the very heavy look in legs and trestles and give a solid look through the deeply-carved decoration rather than massive size.

Real key to convenience is the adaptability of the table. The dropleaf table, for instance, was popular in America long before the Revolution. The reason was the same as today: few houses in colonial days had a separate dining room either. Tables with inset "leaves" appeared later to give the same kind of adaptability to a different style of table.

So whether it's in the living room, kitchen, hallway or foyer, dining can still be done in style.

The last picture show — This is the view from the last row as the Winchester Theater was being torn down last week after 40 years of entertaining local movie-goers. After much haggling, the movie house was opened with a gala premiere on Dec. 20-21, 1937, attended by a host of officials and celebrities. Hearing April 27

Building use, redistricting major school closing issues

After three weeks of mulling over the proposed long range plans for Winchester's schools, the town has begun to react.

A week ago, school committee members were expressing concern that they had not heard from the public on the proposals, which include closing three elementary schools by 1980. Now the problem appears to be when the school board should stop digging for information and opinions and start deciding what to do.

In a 100-page report to the school committee Mar. 27, the task force for long range planning presented their proposals for how Winchester should be dealing with declining enrollments. The recommendations called for a series of steps over the next three years which would, by 1980, close the Parkhurst, Noonan, and either Washington or Lincoln elementary schools; convert Lynch Junior High to an elementary school and move the administrative offices there; convert McCall to a grade 7 and 8 middle school; and put the high school on a four-year plan.

While the school committee appears poised to start making decisions on the proposals, there are some residents who feel that there are some important questions to be answered before the board acts.

Building utilization

The questions raised deal with a variety of issues, including which schools should be closed and how the town should deal with the closed buildings.

The school board has conceded that building utilization after closing should play a part in their final decisions. However, what happens to the buildings is not up to the school committee, and there are some who feel that before the board comes to any conclusions, the town should investigate what the possibilities are.

The new chairman of the selectmen, Edward O'Connell, has said he feels his board should look into the issue before any action is taken by the school committee. A more reserved stand was taken by the subcommittee of the task force charged with looking into building utilization. In their section of the task force report, this group urged that a study committee be formed, "consisting of people qualified in building renovation (i.e. architects, engineers and realtors), neighborhood representatives, local businessmen, a member of the historical society, and interested citizens," to study the potential uses for closed schools.

But the school committee is looking to make some decisions before the end of the school year.

"The school committee has to get the ball rolling," commented Chairman Constance Papas, who said she'd like to see a decision by the end of May. "Nothing is so cast in concrete that it can't change if something happens. We're not going to close our ears after we vote on it," she said. Mrs. Papas added she feels that if the board acts soon, it will be easier for the town to move ahead with the study of how the closed schools could be used.

However, the board will not be making any decisions until after their public hearing on the long range plans, scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Apr. 27 at the Ambrose School. And if and when the board does move ahead, no schools would be closed until 1979.

Several members of the task force, along with Superintendent William C. MacDonald, have said they would like to see some action taken by the school board before the end of the school year.

However, as the potential impact of the task force recommendations begins to sink in, the number of questions being asked has increased. In addition to building utilization, various groups have been questioning other aspects of the report.

One of the assumptions made by the task force which is being questioned is that four elementary schools — Vinson-Owen, Muraco, Mystic and Lynch (after conversion) — should be maintained at all costs. But the report does not include any cost estimates for operating Lynch as an underenrolled elementary school. (The report estimates an enrollment of between 255-365 students at Lynch in 1980; the school's capacity is 500.) Nor does the report cost out the proposal to move the central offices from Sanborn House to Lynch.

The report also assumes Ambrose will remain open, based mainly on the same criteria for keeping the other four schools open: location, size, investment in facilities, and population density.

However, a group of abuttors from the Parkhurst School district contends that Ambrose would be a more likely school to close than Parkhurst. Their main argument is that Parkhurst is wholly owned by the town and is cheaper to operate. The town is still paying off its debt for the purchase of Ambrose. The Parkhurst group presented their case before the selectmen Tuesday night.

Another point brought out by the Parkhurst group is that the school is not suited for any other use. They have even suggested that, if the school must be closed, it should be torn down rather than converted to some other use.

They also said that the "ultimate use should be established prior to the decision to close" a school.

Possible uses for Parkhurst mentioned in the task force report include apartments or a creative arts or day care center.

In the report, Parkhurst is slated for closing in 1979, to be followed in 1980 by Noonan and either Washington or Lincoln.

The opposition to closing Noonan appears to be limited. The school is older (built in 1920), needs some renovation, and has a very small population. Also, the whole school population would be transferred together to Lynch in 1980, and there has been little opposition voiced to this move.

Lincoln or Washington?

The toughest decision of all probably won't be made until next year: whether to close Lincoln or Washington in 1980.

The Washington parents are perhaps the best organized group in town. It is the only school with two parent associations — one for mothers, one for fathers, — and this probably accounts for the active role played by the parents. When the superintendent and his middle school study committee came up with 10 long range proposals last fall, it was the Washington parents who countered with three plans of their own — including the idea of closing Lincoln instead of Washington.

Francis Golden, a task force member and Washington parent, believes the school committee has enough information upon

Town to host bike races April 30

Town youngsters and top quality bicycle racers will test their skills in two different bike races, as Winchester hosts their first annual criterium race Apr. 30.

The races, scheduled from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m., will begin at Manchester Field, (McCall Junior High School) and continue along a 1 4 mile course on Main street, Bacon street, and Mystic Valley parkway.

A citizen's race will be held at 1 p.m. for three different age groups. The criterium race, for licensed racers, will begin at 3:30 p.m.

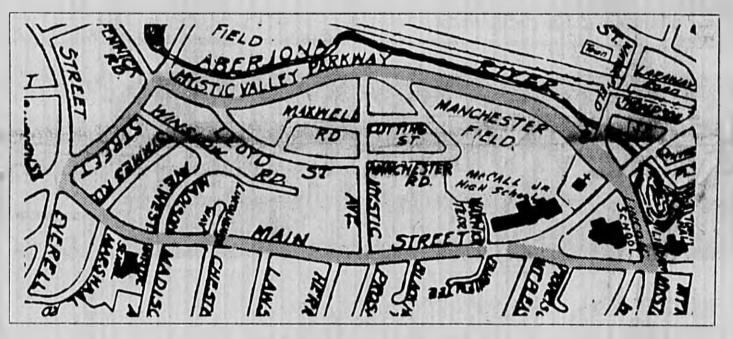
To minimize disruptions, streets in the area will be blocked off to traffic. MDC and Winchester police will be assisted by several dozen race marshalls in monitering the race.

The Mystic Valley Wheel Works and the Northeast Bicycle club are sponsoring the race in conjunction with Bike Week '78, a statewide celebration of safe bicycle use.

The Citizen's Race

A time trial race is planned for residents. Three separate time trials for ages 9-12, 13-15, and 16-18, are set for one, two, and three lap races, respectively. Trophies will be awarded to the first three places in each group.

A time trial is the safest form of racing for inexperienced riders. The cyclists start at brief intervals and are each timed accordingly. Because of the time this type of race takes to run, the sponsors are reserving the right to limit the number of participants.



Route of the Apr. 30 bike race.

A registration form to enter the race is printed in The Star. It should be mailed or dropped off at the Wheels Works shop, 889 Main st., by Apr. 28 at 8 p.m. No entry fee will be charged, but all riders must have the signature of a parent or legal guardian.

For the riders' protection, some kind of helmet must be worn during the race. Bike, hockey, and football helmets are all permissible.

Bicycle safety inspections are required for all bikes entering the citizen's race. They must be inspected on or before the entry deadline.

Inspections will be made free of charge at the Wheel Works shop. Wheel Works employees will check to make sure gears, brakes, wheels, and frames are in safe, working order. An inspection sticker will be given to bikes that have passed the test.

Hearings set on school closings, warrant, budget

Two major Public hearings will be held in the coming week, one on the town meeting warrant and the other on long range school plans.

The town manager will hold the hearing to receive public comment on the articles in the town warrant (on articles which have not yet been the subject of a public hearing), and at the same meeting, the finance committee will hear out the public on their budget recommendations for fiscal year 1979.

The town manager's and the FinCom's hearings will be held Wednesday, Apr. 26, at 7:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

The school committee will hold its public hearing on the report of the task force on long range plans at the Ambrose School at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, Apr. 27. (This hearing was originally scheduled for Wednesday, as reported in last week's Star.)

Former Star editor

James H. Penaligan dead at 83

James H. Penaligan, former Editor of The Winchester Star, died Sunday night, Apr. 16 at the age of 83.

Born in West Somerville on May 8, 1895, he was the son of James N. and Mary E. (Wright) Penaligan who moved to Winchester when Jim was two years of age. He lived at 16 Maxwell Road but for the past four years had been a patient at the East Village Nursing Home in Lexington.

He was a member of the Parish of the Epiphany, where as a boy, he sang in the original boy's choir under the well-known choir-master, J. Albert Wilson.

"Jim" served in a variety of capacities at The Star over a period of approximately 55 years. First employed while in college, under The Star's founder Theodore Price Wilson, he subsequently became a reporter of all events, assistant editor from 1940-1954, editor from 1954-1960 and contributing editor from 1960-1964.

He graduated from Winchester High School in 1913 and from Tufts University in 1917. In 1945 he married Thelma Howlett, sister-in-law of his friend and neighbor Henry T. Knowlton, former athletic director and football coach for Winchester High School.

Jim's interest in sports stemmed from high school days, during which time he set records in two sports, serving as catcher and captain of the WHS baseball team and as a valued member of the track team. His record for the 100-yard dash and the 220-yard-dash remained unbroken until recently.

Entering Tufts in 1913, he continued his participation in track, contributed sport news and cartoons to the Boston Globe, played in the college band, and worked at The Star during summer vacations.

After graduating from Tufts, Jim became part of the permanent staff of The Star, although as he often stated, "no one ever officially hired me." His duties included waiting on customers, plus covering every conceivable type of news including births, marriages, deaths, sports, art shows, concerts, town meetings, school activities, fires, etcetera. He brought to each subject his own personal interest and concern, a characteristic rare indeed in today's journalism.

His coverage of the Winchester Art Association's exhibits in the Library were professional in judgment, as Jim Penaligan was a commendable painter in water colors. His obituaries were warm, well-documented articles, written only after a personal visit to the bereaved family.

Town meeting members often remarked that they could set their watches by Jim's entrance into the Town Hall. When he quietly slipped into the reporter's seat facing the audience, they knew that the meeting was ready for the call to order. His proud record of "never missing a meeting" went unbroken for an uncounted number of years. His spicy town meeting writeups appeared promptly in the next edition of The Star, even if it meant that Jim had to work far into the night to finish his story on time.

James H. Penaligan

Jim was never too busy to chat with his readers in The Star office. Townspeople found him to be a constant, accurate source of local reference, for every event and name mentioned in an article became catalogued in his mind, ready to be brought forth at a moment's notice. Many of his timely, unsigned articles, cherished for their exactness and understanding, remain in the scrapbooks of older Winchester residents today.

Those who knew him over the years recall his in-depth and fair reporting. Never taking sides publicly on town issues or politics, he expressed all opinions equally, frequently with dry humor. This humor was probably the most vividly remembered facet of his personality, and his stories in New England dialect, his poignant cartoons, and his mimicry of friends and VIP, will be remembered by those who were witness to these priceless talents.

For 55 years the names off Jim Penaligan and The Winchester Star were synonymous. Although Jim stepped down as editor of The Star almost two decades ago, those who faithfully perused each page of his newsy paper still miss him and his typically personal, home-town touch.

He is survived by his widow, Thelma Howlett Penaligan. The funeral service was held in the Norris Funeral Home on Wednesday with internment in Wildwood Cemetery.

Scouts to clean-up Aberjona April 29

The ninth annual Aberjona River clean-up sponsored by the Winchester Boy Scouts, troop 507, will be conducted rain or shine Apr. 29.

Boy scout troops from Woburn and Winchester will participate in cleaning both the river and its banks. The clean up will start at Washington circle, north of Montvale avenue in Woburn and finish at Wedgemere train station where the Aberjona joins the Mystic lakes.

During the past eight years the boy scouts have moved over 200 truck loads of trash consisting of car and truck tires, bicycles, refrigerators, and supermarket carts and barrels from the Aberjona. This year, it is expected 25 to 20 truck loads will be removed.

The boy scouts will be cleaning the river from 25 canoes. Over 100 scouts will fill burlap bags with rubbish from the river banks. Prizes of boy scout equipment will be awarded to the teams that collect the most trash.

Boy scout Aberjona commemorative patches will be awarded to all scouts participating.

The Woburn and Winchester departments of public works provide the trucks and personnel to assist in the project.

Troop 507 is headed by scoutmaster Vincent Coates and is sponsored by the United Methodist Church. Chairman of the clean up is Charles Perenick.

Contributions are provided from businesses along the river, local merchants and social and civic organizations. Contributions will be accepted by the Boy Scout Troop 507, Aberjona River and may be mailed to Charles Perenick, 53 Wildwood st.

Winchester to receive $92,492

The funds are made available under two federal government programs and are distributed on a quarterly basis. Part of the allocation comes from federal revenue sharing funds; the remainder are anti-recession funds.

Winchester will receive $87,978 in revenue sharing funds for the second quarterly period of January-March. "Because time is needed to gather and weigh unemployment statistics for the previous quarter, allocations for this period are made in early April," Markey explained.

Revenue sharing funds supplement local budgets and are often used to improve existing community projects and services.

$4,514 in anti-recession funds will also be made available to Winchester under the "Intergovernmental Anti-Recession Act of 1977." "The purpose of these funds," Markey stated, "is to provide financial assistance to state and local governments during times of sustained high unemployment."

The funds will help pay for services and may be spent in a variety of ways including payme,t of salaries and benefits for local public workers.

Revenue sharing funds are allocated according to formulas set by the Department of the Treasury. Among the statistics used in computing these formulas are: population, per capita income, local tax effort and inter-governmental transfers.

Anti-recession funding amounts are determined by a formula that weighs the community's current rate of unemployment and the most recent allocation of funds it has received under the federal revenue sharing programs.

To date Winchester has received $1,855,028 in federal revenue sharing funds and $59,732 in anti-recession funds.

League meetings focus on discrimination in schools

"Images of Male and Female," a powerful and well-documented audio-visual program, will be featured at the upcoming League of Women Voters' units on equal opportunities in education (Chapter 622 and Title IX).

Produced in 1975 by a team of sociologists from the University of California, this program examines the kinds of self-images, role models and values offered our children by the most popular elementary school textbooks used across the country in the early seventies.

The LWV committee (Jeanne Duffy, chairperson, Binnie Backer, Deborah Hall, Fran McClintock, Sydelle Pittas, and Phyllis Provenzano) will compare the findings of this program with the results of its own local research.

For the past school year, under the jurisdiction of Superintendent William MacDonald and Assistant Superintendent Walter Gleason, the committee has been studying the implementation of Chapter 622 and Title IX in the Winchester elementary schools.

They have examined the structure of the staff, the physical education program and extracurricular activities, and, most intensively, the curricular materials. Next year's study will involve the junior and senior high schools.

Winchester mothers and fathers, teachers, and administrators are invited to attend one of 5he three units, at which the above presentation will be given:

Tuesday at 7:45 p.m. at the home of Anna Baylies, 7 Harrison st;

Wednesday at 9:15 a.m., at the home of Judy Muggia, 14 Dartmouth st; and Thursday, April 27, 9:15 a.m., at the home of Mary Albers, 26 Seneca rd.

Your questions, concerns, and suggestions will be welcome. Refreshments will be available.

Vandals hit local autos

Charges have not been made against youths involved in several assults Apr. 16. Police reported two or three carloads of youths who assulted individuals on the street. These incidents are also under investigation.

On Apr. 16, two youths were apprehended for tearing out a stop sign at the corner of Harvard and Florence streets.

A color television set was reported stolen from a Lantern lane home on Apr. 17. Silverware and jewelery were stolen on Apr. 14 from a Dennett road home.

The Criterium Race

The United States Cycling Federation race will start after the citizen's race for veteran class racers. The racers will circle the course 30 times, for a total of 42 miles.

Although the race is only for experienced racers, it is particularily exciting to spectators, because the riders will be passing any one vantage point every three minutes or so. All riders start en masse behind a pace car. The top ten win prizes.

Peter Mooney, from the Wheel Works, said the course is not "too difficult" for the criterium race. One bad area, he pointed out, is at Symmes corner. Wheel Works owner Clint Paige said the course was chosen from a variety of options since it was the best in terms of safety and traffic flow.

On meeting warrant

CMARC funding approved

Funding for the Central Middlesex Association for Retarded Persons, Inc., (CMARC) will once again be on the warrant for town meeting. This time, the proposal has the support of the human services study committee.

At a committee meeting Monday night, members voted to support article 8, which asks the town for $5000 in funding for CMARC. Specifically this money will be used for the Winchester participants in the CMARC sheltered workshop in Woburn, a non-profit, pre-vocational training center for the retarded.

Chairman Barbara Hankins said members of the committee had visited the CMARC facilities and found they were "impressive." "There is no doubt it is a worthy cause," she said.

The sheltered workshp now has 38 participants, three of whom are from Winchester. Workshop instructors and volunteers supervise the participants in doing low level skill jobs.

Charles Sewell, head of the center, told Hankins he could not put a percentage on how many people would "graduate" from the workshop and find jobs outside of a sheltered workshop setting. The committee estimated that the percentage of graduates would be low.

Funding for CMARC was voted down at last spring's town meeting by a vote of 77-30. At that time arguments were made by town counsel that it was against the Massachusetts constitution to appropriate funds for services not under the superintendence of public officials.

CMARC programs have been made possible this year by proceeds from fairs and other fund raisers.

Although the center is available for people of all ages, those under age 22 can be funded through the state and Chapter 766. Participants who have been institutionalized are also able to receive state funding. The participants that the state is not funding are those who have been living at home.

Of the three Winchester participants, one qualifies for Chapter 766 funding.

The human services study committee will now being giving their support proposal to the selectmen, the board of health and the finance committee, asking for their support at town meeting.

In other business, the committee will be circulating a proposed privacy policy to various town departments for approval. The policy says, in part, that the privacy of certain individuals using social services must be "protected to the greatest degree possible."

To accomplish this, the committee suggests that primary files of individuals be kept in locked files, and that billing from outside vendors on human services contracts be coded.

Investigation of the privacy question was one of the four charges given to the human services committee when it was formed last spring. They decided the proposed privacy policy was an "administrative" rather than a "legislative" matter, and therefore should be given to town departments for approval. It will not come before the town meeting.

Graves named cancer chairman

Robert Graves has been named the American Cancer Society's Winchester chairman for the 1978 Cancer Crusade.

A kick-off dinner at the Marriott Hotel in Newton was held March 5. Attending the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. David Mortenson from Winchester.

April is cancer control month in Massachusetts and across the nation. The Massachusetts division hopes to raise $2,402,000 to fight cancer.

The funds will serve research, education and service programs.

Graves said that people interested in volunteering for the Minuteman Unit of the American Cancer Society, which will be visiting houses in Winchester, should call 267-2650.

Travel Along with Mavis

Northern Ireland is separated from the rest of Britain by 75 miles of rough water. Yet many of the inhabitants consider it an honor to think of themselves as British. It is the same island pride which prompted William Shakespeare to write of England three centuries and more ago: "This scepter'd isle...this precious stone set in the silver sea." British people are the first to admit that their strength of character is a composite of the characters of the Irish, the Scots, the Welsh, as well as the natives of England itself.

Bay State roll call

The Senate

Bonin resolutions—Senate suspended rules 23-8 to allow immediate consideration of resolutions calling for the immediate suspension of Superior Court Chief Justice Bonin. The Senate then approved 29-2, the resolutions, which urge Governor Dukakis to call upon the Chief Justice to suspend himself until the Supreme Court's Committee on Judicial responsibility finishes its probe of Bonin's activities.

The first roll call listed is on rule suspension. The second is on the resolutions themselves. On both roll calls a "Yea" vote is in favor of the matter. A "Nay" vote is against it).

Sen. Samuel Rotondi voted "yea" both times.

Blue Ribbon Commission (H4632) Senate approved 37-1, the bill creating a special seven-member commission to investigate alleged corruption in state and county building contracts since 1968. The measure gives the commission subpoena powers and the power to grant immunity for witnesses with the approval of the courts. The commission is required to hear testimony in public sessions and will be comprised of one member apointed by the governor; two by the secretary of state; two by the auditor; Attorney General Bellotti or his designee; and president of the Massachusetts Bar Association or his designee. Supporters argued the commission is important to get to the bottom of the state building contract scandal, and claimed it would consolidate all the various investigations now being conducted.

Sen. Rotondi, vited for the special commission.

Parole Eligibility (S459) Senate rejected 27-7, a bill providing for standard eligibility of prisoners for parole. The bill would allow first degree murderers, previously ineligible for parole, to be eligible after 15 years. It also reduces from 15 to 10 years, the minimum sentence which a second-degree murderer must serve to be eligible for parole. In addition, the measure requires any other priosners with minimum sentences to serve one-third of their sentences before being eligible for parole.

Supporters argued this standardized system would give all prisoners a ray of hope and incentive for rehabilitation. They noted the bill also ends the present distinction between prisoners convicted of violent crimes and those of non-violent ones, and does not "free them all immediately," but merely makes them eligible for parole.

Sen. Rotondi; voted against the bill.

Defaulting Loans (S210) Senate refused to table (defeat) 30-2, a bill allowing schools to withhold transcripts from students who owe money to the school or a financial institution under state and federal low interest student loan programs. The bill applies to any student who has not paid in full or whose repayments are not up to date, whichever the case may require.

Supporters of the bill argued it was unfair to the colleges and loan programs involved who are being cheated out of money. They claimed the power to withhold transcripts would give the schools and loan programs some leverage in collecting old debts.

Opponents argued it was unfair to withhold transcripts from students who might have legitimate reasons and hardships for not being up to date in repayment. They argued there were other legal ways for the schools or banks to press for repayment without involving the transcripts. Others argued release of transcripts was often necessary for students applying for jobs which would lead to the student earning money for repayment.

Rotondi voted against tabling the bill.

The House

Private schools' services (H388)—House first approved 176-40 and then reconsidered 119-87, its passage of a bill requiring school committees to provide standardized tests, and speech, hearing, and diagnostic psycholgical services for resident pupils who attend private schools.

Rep. Sherman Saltmarsh voted for the bill both times.

Fiscal autonomy (H771) House defeated 157-67, a bill abolishing fiscal autonomy and allowing a four-fifths vote of a town meeting or city council to delete any new expenditure or individual item increase over last year's amount in the school budget. The bill would take effect in any community where voters approve it in a ballot question at the polls.

Saltmarsh voted for abolishing fiscal autonomy.

Voting lists (h 4843)—House defeated 205-16, a bill allowing a voter to remove his name from a city or town's voting list by submitting a written request.

Rep. Saltmarsh opposed the bill.

State poem (H705)—House defeated 130-84, a bill designating the poem "Chick-a-dee' as the official state poem. "Debate" was highlted by a recitation of the poem on the House floor, and a subseuqnet standing ovation.

Rep. Saltmarsh voted for the poem.

Judges' pensions (H4118) House approved 184-34, a bill requring all judges in the state to pay into the state retirement system.

Rep. Saltmarsh favored the measure.

Abolish lottery (H583)—House defeated 206-14, a bill abolishing the state lottery.

Supporters argued thousands of people who cannot afford it, are purchasing lottery tickets and they have very little chance of winning. They also claimed the cities and towns are getting only 30 percent of the take because of high advertising and staff costs and raising of the prizes to compete with illeal gambling.

Opponents argued the lottery has brought millions of dollars to local cities and towns and has helped reduce some property tax rates. They also contended Massachusetts has one of the model lottery commissions in the country.

Saltmarsh voted to keep the lottery.

Bottle bill (H4182)—House gave initial approval 118-105, to the "bottle bill," requiring a minimum deposit of five cents on beer, soda bottles, and cans containing less than 32 ounces, and a ten cent deposit on containers of a quart or more. Key provisions also include required state reimbursement of up to 75 percent of any loss suffered by the bottling industry as a result of the bill; a required state retraining program for any employees laid off as a result of the bill; and required payment from state's General Fund, instead of by employers of unemployent benefits for any workers who lose their jobs because of the bill.

Open meeting (H1883)—House approved 156-65, a bill to include the governor's cabinet meetings under the open meeting law.

Supporters argued that the governor's cabinet meetings are important and their results have a great effect on all the citizens in the state. They noted many local officials support the bill and many think it's an unfair double-standard that local governmental bodies must hold open meetings, but the cabinet is exempt.

Opponents argued the cabinet does not fall into the category of "governmental body" under the open meeting law. They also pointed out they have no real statutory or advisory powers, exept as individuals.

Rep. Saltmarsh voted for the measure.

Failure

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

As satire, Mr. Schwartzman's letter of Apr. 12 is a failure.

Conscientious non-involvement, as advocated by Mr. Schwartzman, is a sure guarantee of continuing growth in a tenured government bureaucracy uncontrolled by review of such public bodies as school committees, boards of selectmen, or town meetings.

Many thanks

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

We wish to thank C. Peter Jorgensen and The Winchester Star for the lovely tribute to our dear loved one, Jason Dade. The many expressions of love from the townspeople, neighbors, and friends have been a great comfort.

You be the judge

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

To all the esteemed citizens of Winchester: I shall appoint you as my judge and jury.

After reading a particular letter in last week's Winchester Star, I found myself being put in a position of defensiveness and judicability. Please understand, that in no way do I feel that my viewpoints or beliefs in the democratization of our country need to be defended in any way. The structure of our government rests on its' own merits. However, I do feel that the demeanor of our democracy should be defended at all times, against such contemptible hypocrisy as that which appeared in last week's article.

The plaintiff has accused me of the horrendous act of voicing patriotism in our beloved community. Of course, for a mere plebeian such as myself, to write of such despicable conceptions on issues such as voting, certainly should warrant a severe punishment. After all, as the plaintiff has pointed out so verbally in his article, the only way for citizens, such as you and I, to be able to survive in this plebiscite community of ours, is to simply not show up for any elections or meetings, at any time.

I would like to bring the plaintiffs attention to the fact that his concept of an aristocratic governance was laid to rest by Thomas Paine, when in 1776 he wrote his political catalyst phamphlet "Common Sense".

I also might add that the so called "poor-paying, time-wasting, pasttime" of our town meetings, was created with delicate and loving care from our colonial government. In case the plaintiff does not possess the full knowledge of what a town meeting represents, I will try to joggle his memory. A town meeting is a political device with direct democracy which permitts tax payers to go and vote their local ordinances into effect. Perhaps if the plaintiff was more active in civil affairs, his animus attitude toward local government would not be so hypocritical.

Actually I am mysfieid as to why our beloved historians even bothered to write a Declaration of Independence, or our very first constitution of the United States, "The Articles of Confederation, and eventually our institutionalized Constitution. And why in heaven's name did all those marvelous and beautiful patriots surrender their lives for such preposterous and disdainful ideals?

Our Constitution is the legal framework upon which all other laws rest and was written in such a manner that it would grow with our changing times. Laws could be ratified when necessary. The response of William E. Gladstone, several times prime minister of England in the latter half of the 1800's, to our Constitution was exceedingly appropriate: "The most wonderful work ever sturk off at a given time by the brain and purpose of man." Perhaps the plaintiff would be much more at home in an establishment of aristocracy, demilitarized, and just plumb full of envious bigots.

He points out that voting is a nominal and evincible factor and why bother to cast your vote when all we are going to receive is nothing but a "gaggle of crooks." Dear God! We all know that there are and always will be imperfections in our democratizied government as well as our democratic electors. This is what makes our country or town, in this case, so great. This is what gives our citizens, or should give our citizens, the incentive to strive for a more stablized government. When we see issues that are terribly wrong, then we should strive to change them. If we fail, then we must never lay back and accept that which in the ultimate end we can alter.

This sedentary attitude of the plaintiff is disgusting and degrading to all Americans. Unfortunately, there are too many Mr. Plaintiffs in our society of today, but with dedication and devotion from our townspeople we can and will make these type of citizens become very insignificant.

The plaintiff feels that as adults we "have" set a good example for our young people. My response to him is brief and concise. His views on our town and its governance are a subversive rape of our young peoples intelligence. Thank God, the juveniles of our generation realize this and will take necessary action to alter what must be altered and will not allow illicit government to reign. My attitude towards the younger generation is sanguine and justifiably so.

I will end my summation by saying this to you, my fellow citizens. I believe more strongly than ever in our democratic way of life and I can assure you, I will continue to speak out in defense of it as many times as the occasion arises. I believe in participation and striving towards the betterment of our government. And I will continue to urge all citizens to exercise their privilege of voting, that our forefathers fought so bravely for.

If believing in all I have stated to you, my jurors, past or present, makes me guilty of patriotism, then so be it. For no greater judge is there than one's self. I rest my case.

Gail M. Crosby

One-sided ritual

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

We have at least one pair of Cardinals in our back yard. They go in and out of an opening between the branches of one of the spruce trees in our spruce hedge. They have been doing this for some time, but whether they have a nest in there I cannot say. We have seen no evidence of nest-building activity by our cardinals so far this year, and I think that if they mean business they should get started soon. I saw a cardinal cross Madison avenue at Goddu street with straw in its bill this very morning.

What prompts this letter, however, is this. On a number of occasions lately we have seen the brilliant cock pick up a fat sunflower seed, fly to his mate, and pass the tidbit over to her, mouth to mouth. Other watchers must have seen this happen with their cardinals, but if I have ever read about it, I have forgotten where. We have witnessed it many times, although this is the first time that I have tried to write about it.

I wonder, could it be a gesture that occurs only during the mating season? I wonder, also, if it ever works the other way round, and she brings something over to him?

Clarence S. Borggaard

Don't close it!

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

We are writing this letter in the understanding that there still remains a possibility that the Lincoln School in Winchester may be closed within the next few years.

The parents of Lincoln School children are not apathetic on the issue of the closing of the school, as has been recently surmised. We, and other parents, have not been particularly outspoken, in the belief that reason, despite the normal political battles, would prevail. This, evidently, may not be the case.

We have only one child in the Winchester school system, and we have no particular "case" to make as to which school this child, and our next, will attend. The issue, we believe, is the management of our school facilities in Winchester, and how this may best be accomplished over the next few years.

We cannot examine all the possibilities; and, indeed, a committee has been commissioned to do just that. In your deliberations, we would ask that you take into account the following issues, before you close Lincoln School:

1) Lincoln School is the largest and most centrally located of the elementary schools in town. If we abandon this facility, we abandon the possibility that it may be used in the future (should enrollments continue to decline) as a school where children may be transferred without busing.

It should not be ignored that the above reasons have led to this use in recent years. The current population of Lincoln School consists of many children who have been transferred from other locations. To further move these children (many of them from the Wyman School) would further disrupt the continuity of their education. This doesn't seem to make sense.

2) If we close Lincoln School, and transfer the children to a school to which they must be bussed, we are bargaining against the future. The costs against which we must bargain are those of labor.

Our school facilities are a "sunk" investment: that is, we have already paid, through taxes and municipal bonds, the price of the land and buildings. The annual cost of the facilities, therefore, are largely those of heating and janitorial services. The operation is, largely, "capital-intensive," the capital having already been spent for these purposes.

It is certain that there are good educational reasons for consolidation of classrooms. At the same time, if we rely on busing to accomplish this, we become "labor-intensive:" that is, we trade our already invested capital against the cost of labor for transportation.

Boston finds itself in this situation at the moment. Their problem has been ordered by the courts; should we place ourselves in the same bargaining position, voluntarily?

3) We do not believe that the "attractiveness to industry" is an issue in determining which building to make available. Should a small company choose to make its home in Winchester, the attractiveness (perceived) of Lincoln's central location would be of little importance.

In viewing the Lincoln facilities, it would, in fact, be difficult to imagine it as restructured for office facilities.

Lincoln has been a high school, a junior high school, and an elementary school. It might in the future serve either of its previous ends. As an office building, it is not so well equipped.

We are not equipped with the information to suggest reasonable alternatives to the restructuring of the elementary school population. We are assured that you have resources available to you who are studying this subject quite objectively.

We can, however, assure you that many of us in the Lincoln School district had not conceived that a decision might be expected to close the school - for the reasons above, and probably many others. It appears necessary to write to you. And we're doing so.

Mr. & Mrs. David F. Beaber
226 Mystic Valley pkwy.

Looking back

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

There is a great sense of urgency to take immediate action on deciding whether Plan E (close Washington) or Plan II (close Lincoln) is adopted. The atmosphere created is that we must take action, any action, before there is criticism. In October of 1977 the superintendent endorsed Plan E and stressed the need for prompt action. Later, after Plan II had been submitted, he again stressed the need for closings.

However, I suggest that before the town reacts in a hasty manner, there should be consideration of some prior school decisions.

Town watch...

Time to speak up

By The Observer

Tis the season for public hearings, and there are some weighty issues worth looking into.

On Wednesday night (Apr. 26), the town manager will hold a hearing with the finance committee. The manager is looking for public comments on the warrant articles, while the FinCom wants to hear what you have to say about their budget proposals for the coming year.

The meetings should be of particular interest to town meeting members (that endangered species), since they'll be voting on it all next month. The TMMs might also consider that the more informed they are about what's coming up in town meeting, the more sense the discussions there will make and the easier it will be for them to make up their minds. And besides, the Charter says town meeting is supposed to be an informed group.

For the sake of the tax rate and the future of the town, let's hope they are.

Another hot item the school plans for the coming years. By 1980 Winchester may see three schools close, Lynch become an elementary school, and the high school convert to a four-year system.

A hearing on all these plans will be held Thursday (Apr. 27) at 7:30 at the Ambrose School on High street. Copies of the report of the task force on long range planning are available for the public to peruse at each of the schools, at the Sanborn House on High street, and at the library.

This may be your last chance to get some words in before the school board takes action on the task force proposals. They have held off making any decisions in order to have the hearing to find out what the townspeople think of the plans. But they won't hold off the decisions for long.

Senator Samuel Rontondi, a believer that a one-year take over of the Massachusetts court system would lead to chaos, spoke out against a recent Channel 5 editorial favoring the takeover.

Rontondi appeared in rebuttal on Channel 5's 6 p.m. and 11 p.m. news broadcasts Apr. 17.

In his rebuttal, Rotondi said the proposed takeover would "pit the courts against education in competition for new local aid money."

In addition he said the state assumption of court costs cannot be completed in one year. He concluded the proposal is "logistically impossible and is putting the cart before the horse."

The rush is on to license your dog. Dog Officer Domenic Molea said 933 licenses were issued in the first two weeks of licensing.

Molea added the department is cracking down on leash law violatiors. Last week, 31 $10 fines were given out to owners of offending dogs.

Licensing will continue at the present rates until June 10. After that date, the cost will go up one dollar.

Sen. Sam Rotondi will be talking about a subject which will be coming up again and again, one which tends to kindle some rather strong emotions on both sides of the fence: "Should Public Funds be Used for Abortions?"

Sen. Rotondi's talk will be this Sunday at the Medford Community Forum at 7 p.m. The forum is free and is held in the hall of the Unitarian-Universalist Church on Powderhouse road, near the corner of High street, in Medford Square.

The forum committee chose this topic because of last year's decision by the US Supreme Court which left it to the states to decide whether to use public funds for abortions. This led to a lenghtly struggle in the House and Senate on Beacon Hill. Sen. Rotondi has spent a lot of time in research and discussion of the issue and his views should be worth hearing.

We've had a changing of the guard, so to speak, here at The Star: Karen Whittlesey-First, our prize-winning assistant editor who has been with The Star for two and a half years, has stepped down to pursue everything she never had time for when she was working long hours for the newspaper.

Karen's principle beat was the selectmen, but she shared in responsibilities for everything at the paper, from rewrites to pictures to editorials. Her column In the mood... has won her prizes from the Suburban Newspapers of America, and she was runner-up for SNA's "Suburban Journalist of the Year" award last year.

Ms. Whittlesey-First wrote her last (well, maybe the last) article for The Star this week: a review of the McCall musical, "Oklahoma!" She was a star to us, we wish her luck, and we're sorry to see her go.

Karen's replacement is another Karen, which should smooth the transition a bit. Karen Webber is in her final term at Simmons College and has been an intern at The Star since January. She has already weathered a few storms with us, most notably the one in February when she was snowbound here for three days.

50 years ago

This week starts a new column in The Star, a look at the past on record in the Winchester Archival Center. The stories and anecdotes to be reprinted here from old editions of The Star and the Middlesex Journal are compiled by Henry Simonds of Crescent road, a fellow who's interests take him into the past.

Simonds has been working for some time on historical projects around town, most notably of late, the survey of historical buildings in town. While the following articles may not always be specific in date, they are generally taken from the month they appear here, 50 years ago.

April Fool's Day was appropriately observed by three boys in the vicinity of Symmes Corner who while hidden in a garage, watched 78 motorists stop and pick up a well-stuffed pocketbook which had been "planted" in the middle of Main street. On the outside of the roll of plain paper with which the pocketbook had been filled, was printed "April Fool". A taxi driver with no sense of humor finally spoiled the boys' fun by taking the pocketbook along with him.

Easter sunrise service will be held at 7:30 Easter morning on Border road, now South Border road, opposite the Boy Scout Headquarters. Weather permitting, the church bells will ring at seven o'clock to remind the townspeople of this service. All the ministers and church choirs have been invited to participate and instrumental music will accompany the singing. This is the first service of this kind to be held in Winchester, and the public are cordially invited.

Sunday, Apr. 22, marks an important milestone in the history of the Winchester Unitarian Society because on that day the new manual organ, which was donated by Lewis Parkhurst, will be dedicated and the new chancel opened. This is the first stage of a building program which will culminate in the erection of a modern parish house and cloister to be ready if possible by next November.

The society was organized in 1865 and the present church edifice was dedicated in April 1899, the original church, which stood south of the site of the present McCall Junior High School on Main street, having been destroyed by fire November 16, 1897.

Patrolman Mark Kelley of the police department was seriously injured shortly after 3 Monday morning when a Ford sedan which he was driving south along Washington street was in collision at the corner of Oak street with a milk wagon owned by H.P. Hood & Sons of West Medford and driven by Michael J. O'Connell of Medford. O'Connell was also driving south on Washington street.

Officer Kelley was off duty at the time of the accident and was operating a car owned by Ugo Rolli of 56 Swanton st. Both the Ford and the milk wagon were badly damaged by the collision, the former being a complete wreck. Milk and broken bottles were strewn about the road and the horse dragged for some distance and badly cut about the legs.

Both Office Kelley and O'Connell were hurled from their respective vehicles by the force of the impact and both badly injured. The accident was witnessed by two of Kelley's brother officers; Patrolman John Regan and William Cassidy, who were on their way home after finishing their rounds of duty.

Meanwhile Sergt. Thomas Cassidy and Officer Charles Harrold arrived upon the scene in the Police Buick and Officer Kelley and O'Connell were rushed to the Winchester Hospital where they were attended by Doctors Sheehy and Brown. The policeman was found to have been the more seriously injured of the two, having sustained contusions and abbrasions to the face and knees with a possible fracture of the skull. O'Connell was found to be suffering from lacerations about the h3ad and had also sustained an injury to his left foot. Both men were held at the hospital.

At the scene of the accident the police were kept busy for some time clearing away the wreckage and broken glass. The horse was covered with a blanket and later removed by the Hood Company who also claimed the battered wagon. The wrecked Ford was towed to the Central Garage where it was an object of curiosity, during several days following the accident.

A member of the Coast Guard got in trouble with Officer Archie O'Connell of the Police department at 1 o'clock Wednesday morning when the former had difficulty in navigating among the traffic beacons in the square.

Officer O'Connell piped his machine to a stop and upon investigating discovered that he was running in ballast - to be exact, liquid ballast - several bottles of alleged beer being found in the car.

The nautical chauffer, who was accompanied by another young man and two girls, was escorted to headquarters where after a technical examination he was allowed to go, to appear in the district court in Woburn.

At the later port he was charged with driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor.

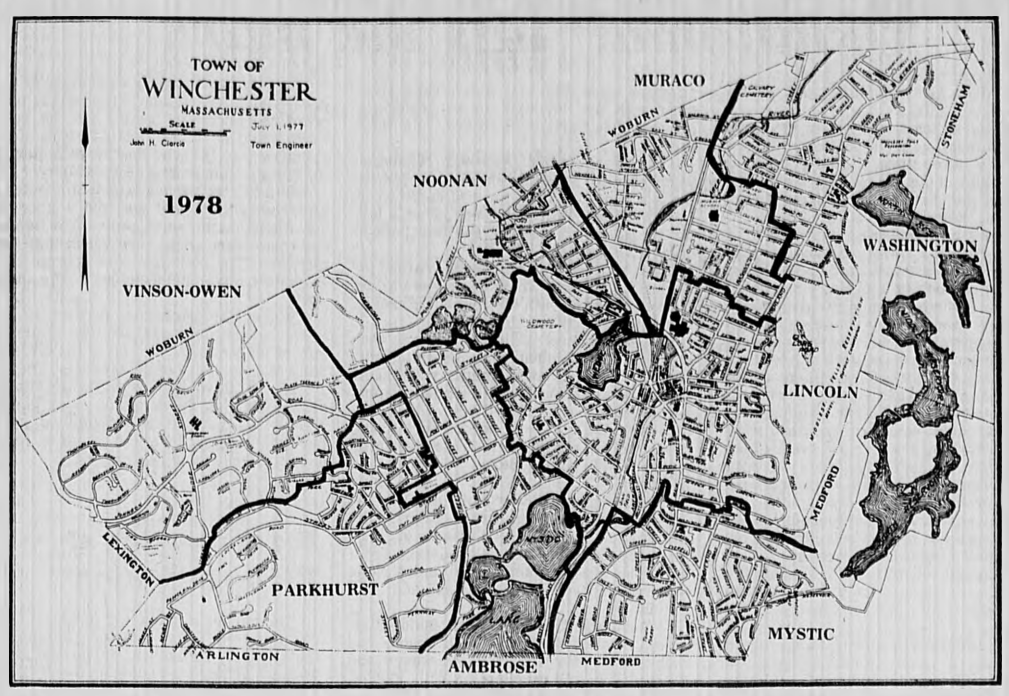
At 10:45 Friday morning Central Fire Station was notified by phone from the Home of Mr. Herbert Cox on High street extension that a considerable section of the wooded highland near his residence was ablaze.

Hose 4 responded with a crew in charge of Capt. Eugene Flaherty. The men found that a bad brush fire had started in Lexington, had spread into Woburn and thence into a triangle in Winchester between the Lexington and Woburn line.

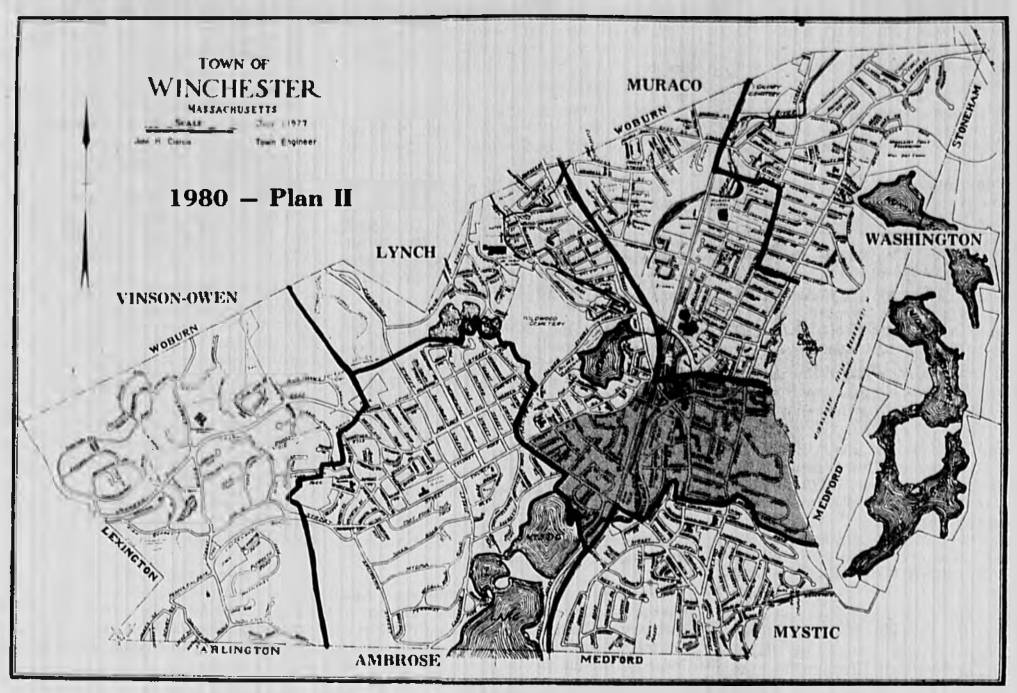
The firemen were successful in their efforts to limit the fire to this one small section, though they were kept hard at work until 4:50 in the afternoon. Additional alarms were sounded for more help at 11:06 and 11:45 in the forenoon bringing more men to the scene.

At 3 in the afternoon the fire shifted to the rear of the Locke home on Ridge Street but once again the firemen prevented the blaze from assuming alarming proportions.

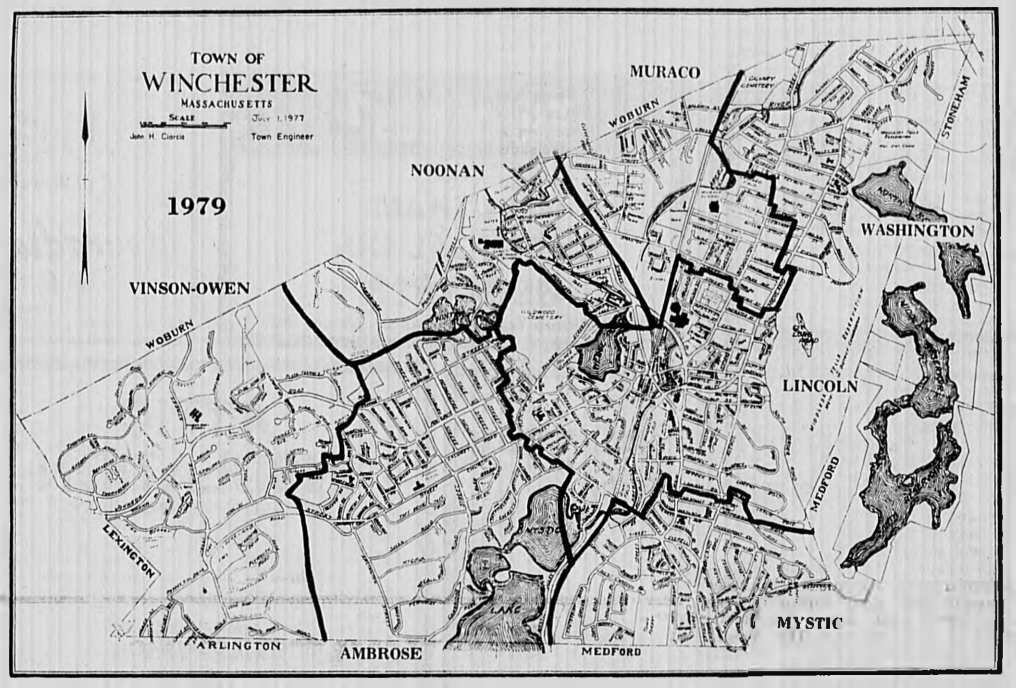
Redistricting plans for 1978 - 1980



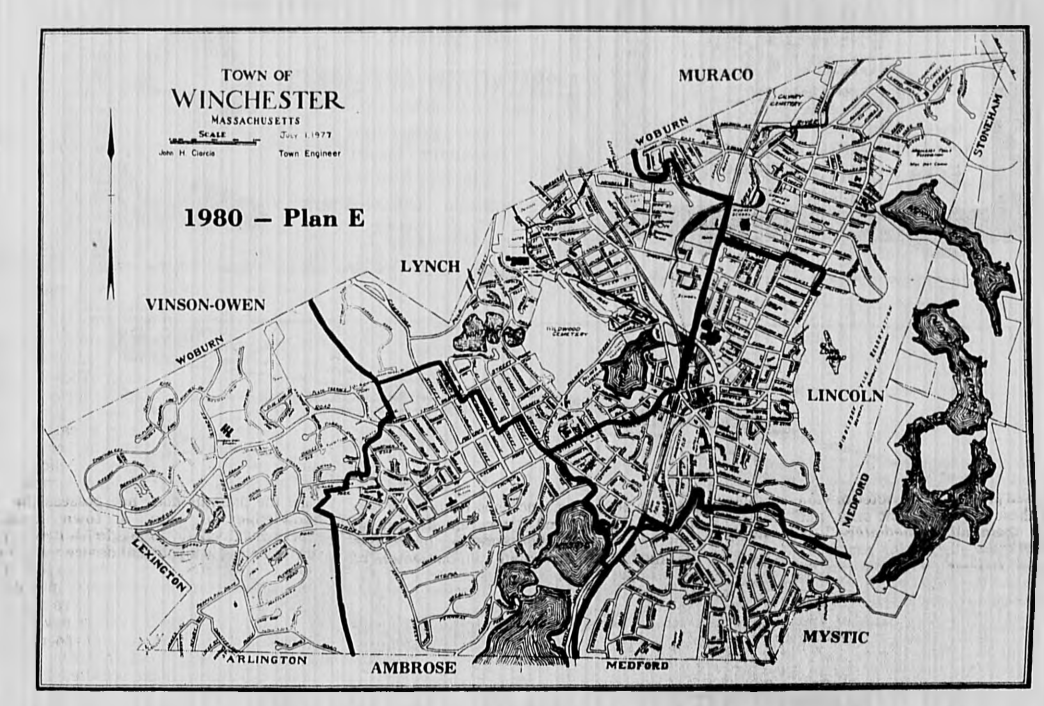
September, 1978: All present school districts remain essentially the same, excepting a small area west of Cambridge street near the Woburn line which would be redistricted from Parkhurst to Noonan.



September, 1980, Plan II: Noonan and Lincoln closed; Washington picks up part of Muraco, while Muraco picks up part of Lincoln; rest of Lincoln goes to Lynch and Ambrose, while Ambrose picks up a portion of the old Noonan area near Winter Pond. The shaded area represents the bussing pocket: 164 children from Lincoln who would have to be bussed to Lynch. Mystic and V-O remain the same.



September, 1979: Parkhurst closed and divided between Vinson-Owen and Ambrose. Other districts remain the same.



September, 1980, Plan E: Noonan and Washington closed; Washington redistricted to Muraco, with part of Muraco redistricted to Lincoln and Lynch; part of Ambrose to Lynch; part of Lincoln to Lynch; Lynch becomes elementary school, absorbing the Noonan district.

which to base a decision. He does concede that there is more work that could be done. But the numbers, he feels, dictate some closings, and if enrollments continue to decline, both Lincoln and Washington may have to be closed. He, of course, would rather see Lincoln go first.

"There's something to be said for having smaller schools," he says. Golden feels that the cost factor alone is not enough upon which to base a decision, noting that the difference between the operating costs of the two schools probably won't exceed $75,000. The task force report estimates the difference at more like $20-24,000.

Golden also sees Lincoln as having a better potential for being converted to some other use, such as apartments. He cites the need for low income housing as a prime consideration. However, the task force notes that such federally subsidized housing does little for the tax base, and the report suggests luxury apartments or office space would be better options.

On the other side of the third school issue stand the Lincoln parents. They are less well organized, but they are becoming increasingly vocal about saving their school. School Board Chairman Papas says she has received more than a dozen letters in the past week from concerned parents.

But the Lincoln parents are split over the issue. Some appear to be shocked that the school board would even consider closing their school. Says Noreen Arcari, another task force member and a Lincoln parent, "Most parents don't believe it could ever happen."

Ironically, one group which was formerly very vocal on closings — the Wyman parents — seems to be split on the Lincoln-Washington question.

One reason is that the Wyman group was physically split up when some of the children were redistricted to Lincoln, some to Ambrose, and others opted for another school under open enrollment. Another reason is that while some of the Wyman parents don't want to see their children redistricted again if Lincoln is closed, others would just as soon move their children out of the school. For some, Lincoln is too big and its location in the center undesireable.

Mrs. Arcari expressed the opposite view of the center location: many parents like the accessibility of various town facilities; and for them, Lincoln is their neighborhood school.

Mrs. Arcari, who was on the task force subcommittee on building utilization, points out that Winchester Hospital has expressed an interest in leasing Washington as a support facility. As such, no zoning changes would be necessary, and the impact on the immediate area would probably be minimal.

Redistricting

Redistricting is another, if not the major issue in deciding between Washington and Lincoln.

If Lincoln closes, between 280-330 students from Lincoln will be transferred to Lynch and Muraco. In addition, 40 students will have to be redistricted from Muraco to Washington in order to balance enrollments.

A related consideration is that closing Lincoln creates a bussing pocket: the task force estimates that 164 students living below and to the east of Church street would have to be bussed to Lynch because they live beyond one mile of the school. (See map for 1980, Plan II.)

It is possible that the bussing pocket would adversely affect real estate values in the area; however, it is possible that the bussing would have more of an impact on those already living there. As one realtor pointed out, many families moving into town are used to having their children bussed; Winchester residents aren't.

If Washington is closed, the 220-250 students there will go to Muraco. However, in order to balance enrollments around town, an additional 229 students would have to be redistricted. Fifty-one would go from Ambrose to Lynch; 55 from Muraco to Lynch; 81 from Muraco to Lincoln; and 42 from Lincoln to Lynch.

A further consideration is capacities: Lincoln can hold 500 at the most, while Washington is suited for 250, according to school department figures.

Relative capacities relate to how flexible the system will be in the future and how well school facilities can react to possible increases in enrollment.

With Parkhurst, Noonan, and Washington closed, the task force estimates there will be 787 empty seats by 1980; if Lincoln is the third school to close, there would be 537 empty seats that year.

With numbers like that, it is not hard to understand why task force members like Frank Golden and McCall Principal Joseph Forte believe that the major question the town is facing is not really which schools to close, but rather, how many to keep open at all costs to maintain the quality of the school system.

Tasteful Gains

Culligan International, one of the largest makers, says sales of its water-treatment devices have nearly doubled in the past 12 months. North American Systems, which makes the Mr. Coffee coffee maker and began producing water filters last November, wouldn't disclose figures but says it's "very pleased" with sales so far. Spurring the increased use of home water devices is the use of more chlorine and other bad-tasting chemicals in city water supplies.

Culligan is one of the few firms making the more effective, more expensive systems that fit directly into a home's plumbing system. Its largest model sells for as much as $399, plus installation charges. Filters made by most of the other companies simply attach to a water faucet and sell for between $20 and $30.

Says Culligan of some of the faucet filters: "We think these products are deceiving. Our tests show they don't even take the chlorine compounds out from day one." North American declines comment on that.

Where is the Government's role in providing the Public with clean safe drinking water and protecting them from filtering devices that do not work?

It is not safe to drink unfiltered tap water while inexpensive filters do not do the job. In buying a Home Water Purifier, it pays to buy the best, mainly because it affects one's health. You do not have to spend $400.00 for a good Home Water Purifier when there is the Multi-Pure unit for less than half the price.

The Multi-Pure installed under the kitchen sink is the best system available and is made of stainless steel to last a lifetime. The Multi-Pure unit is very effective in removing toxic impurities in tap water while it is the most reasonably priced unit on the market.

Your family deserves the best in home water purification with the Multi-Pure drinking water system.

McCall musical reviewed:

'Oklahoma!' hits the mark

By KAREN WHITTLESEY-FIRST

You just can't lose, what with lyrics by Oscar Hammerstein II and music by Richard Rodgers, a love story not be topped, a tragedy, and a bunch of kids who put everything they had into the annual McCall production, "Oklahoma!"

You can't miss and these kids didn't.

From Laurey's sweet soprano to Ado Annie Carnes's boisterous good humor, from poor Jud's crazed life to Curley's optimistic outlook for the new state of Oklahoma, the music and lyrics of this musical touched again the hearts of parents and grandparents as perhaps the original production had done.

Of course these were junior high school young people. What they lacked in sophisticated voice and stage training, they made up for with enthusiasm and dedication.

Aunt Eller, gray-haired and spunky, was played very well indeed by Linda Barbuto, one of several Barbutos to have been seen in both Children's Theatre productions and school plays. She had a great deal of presence and a fine stage voice which could be heard even without benefit of microphone.

The opening set, with Aunt Eller to start things off, was a grand way to be introduced to the story of life and love in the Indian territories.

Nan Keller had the demanding role of Laurey and, in family tradition (her father was the dynamic and very funny lead in this year's Winton Club show, she carried it off with all the nuances and delicacy required by the role.

Nan's sweet soprano voice was one of the better ones in the performance. She was a delight to watch and to hear. The fear and struggles when Jud Fry was around alternated with the coy and loving young girl responding to Curly's affections. Nan did a fine job.

Curly was played by Brian Milauskas whose physical aspects seemed just right for the role. Unfortunately for the audience, it was sometimes difficutl to hear Brian, a loss indeed, as he had some of the best lines to speak and to sing.

Brian's acting was fine as he yearned for the hand of Laurey. Their duets were lovely and when he sang with the rest of the cast he was able to maintain his character.

Jud Fry, a most difficult role, was done very well and believably by Daniel Schutzberg. The audience could feel his crazed heart longing for Laurey and his confused mind bent on only that end.

Daniel did a very good job and should receive a lot of credit for pulling off what was probably the most difficult role of the musical.

The comic relief was ably provided by Nancy Cowen as Ado Annie Carnes, the boisterous and loveable girl who couldn't say no. Nancy showed presence, good voice, and a marvelous sense of humor and timing as he waivered between Ali Hakim and Will Parker.

A word about Ali and Will: Buddy Mazzarella showed just the right panic and ballyhoo as the itinerant salesman and Richard Rule was excellent as Willy Parker, in love with the impossible Ado Annie.

It is difficult to leave anyone out of a review. There were signs of hard work and love of the theatre in many of the other characters, including the dancers and singers.

There were a couple of exceptionally well done effects: the wedding coach made up of prancing dancers as horses, and the coach itself made up of interlocking arms of the young people; the sets; the dream sequence; the music; outstanding choreography.

The adult orchestra was under the baton of Lawrence Suvak, and they did a good job accompanying the young people. The lighting crew had some tricky time which they handled well. The costumes were appropriately western in flavor and the props were handled well.

This entire production, performed four times before audiences, was the effort not only of the young people, but of the director, Sally Murdock, and of the producer, Paul G. Davis. To them both goes the credit for putting together the dozens of young people, with their various voices and abilities, into a performance which was fun to watch, fun to listen to, and fun to remember.

structed and under-utilized. To be renovated to become an elementary school. To utilize the building in this capacity, must, lose one or more elementary schools as well as shift the School Administration to fill vacant space.

3. Muraco School—Built in the 60s next to the railroad. Caused the close of the old Lincoln Elementary School because it was built so close. Then the old McCall Jr. High was renovated to become an elementary school (new Lincoln) and a private residence was purchased next door to provide more play space.

Now, some feel that the Washington School is too close to Muraco and they suggest redistricting completely to Muraco. The Muraco, which has a maximum comfortable capacity of 350, would absorb 225 from Washington, and another 225 from Muraco would go to other schools.

4. Marycliff Academy- Was acquired in the vicinity of several other pre-existing elementary schools and forced the Wyman to close, and the Parkhurst is next. Became the Ambrose School and Sanborn House, now the Sanborn House is recognized as an extravagance by the town and is to be disposed of.

The school committee should recognize that a few years ago schools were acquired because of anticipated increase in population. Now there is just as much enthusiasm to close schools because of an apparent decrease in student population. When are we going to develop a sensible long-range school building plan? When will you stop building, buying and redistricting the elementary school children in this town?

The school committee should be aware that despite the efforts of the task force, the conclusions reached should be analyzed carefully. The school committee should consider using independent experts and private professional consultants to aid in the decision-making process.

For example, confusing presentation of the task force dealt with the extensive massaging of financial data which demonstrate that even if one school is much larger than the other, it makes little difference which is closed. A committee became so wrapped up in the preparation of budgets that they failed to show the town how much would be saved by closing the three elementary schools.

However, there are some studies available. For example, the elementary school budget for 1979 can be compared with the task force's projected budget for 1981. Using these reports after closing three elementary schools, there would be a savings to the town of $176,838:

1. There is a decrease in salaries of ($218,396)

2. There is an increase in non-salary expenses of $41,458.

3. The student enrollment is estimated to be down 401 elementary students between 1979 and 1981 or 20 percent.

4. $218,396 minus $41,458 equals $176,838.00 savings to town.

There will be a large savings in the payroll area, and the largest payroll item is teachers' salaries. Apparently, savings will come up reducing teachers as enrollments decline and this is also unfortunate as the non-tenured, newly-hired and very highly qualified teachers are the ones which have been released.

The other non-payroll expenses actually increased despite the elimination of three elementary schools. One of the reasons for this increase would be due to the increased cost of busing.

When a school is closed there will be some savings such as the salaries, fuel, utilities, etc. Savings, of course, will result only if persons are released. However, when the Wyman School was closed, this was not the case. Currently, the Washington and Noonan Schools share a principal, so savings would be limited. Against these savings you would have to offset the increased costs for busing which were only $28,000 for the 1979 budget but would be $73,000 under Plan II in 1981. Expensive renovations would also be necessary.

The total elementary school budget for 1979 is $2.5 million. It would appear the closing of an elementary school would change this amount by very small percentage.

There are many other factors to be considered before closing schools. There are psycological factors affecting both children and adults, as well as the effects of local elementary schools on immediate neighborhoods and property values. A complete discussion of these additional considerations is just too lengthy a subject for this letter.

Penaligan remembered

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

When Jim Penaligan retired in 1960, I submitted the following letter-to-theeditor which I would appreciate having printed again.

The announcement of Jim Penaligan's retirement as editor of The Star came as an unpleasant jolt to those of us who have known him and worked with him for many years. I suppose we are just never prepared for sudden changes and somehow, it seemed that Jim would always be a part of our town's newspaper.

An editor of a happily-run and well-received weekly paper can, I presume, oftentimes be little known to a town's newcomers. If he quietly and knowingly turns out his work each week, he may never even have occasion to meet many of his new readers. It is usually only when the public strongly objects to a statement or has corrections to make that Mr. Public might storm into an office and ask to "speak to the editor!" I don't believe Jim had many such encounters in his 38 years with The Star.

His reportorial work was unsigned and unassuming; accurate and unbiased. Its occasional dry humor had a typical, old-time New England flavor that was priceless. Jim's knowledge of Winchester's history and its well-known families of the past...the Symmes, Dwinnells, Elders, Richardsons, Russells, Beggs, Winns, Parkhursts, etc., formed the background for countless, colorful stories of fact, numerous enough to fill volumes of pure Americana.

The varied news assignements Jim covered, all with equal aplomb, included graduations, weddings, athletic events, art exhibits, politics, deaths and school activities. Town Meetings too, meant "Jim Penaligan," for although town clerks, moderators, town meeting members, selectmen and other town officials have come and gone, town meeting and Jim Penaligan went on forever. The first time he "didn't make a meeting" the session proceeded as usual, but I am sure that many of us who were accustomed to his presence at the press table, felt that the meeting was not quite the same.

Jim's type of journalism with its genuine concern and homey touch is almost outmoded today. Big papers ruthlessly go after big news, printing everything that might sell papers. The Winchester Star never resorted to this. Never stooping to sensationalism or name-calling to gain circulation, Jim edited and published the home town news in his own manner, hurting no one in the process. Many a family of a youngster in minor trouble was undoubtedly thankful for The Star's policy of withholding local names in certain of its news stories. A name printed is a name remembered while unfortunate small incidents left unprinted are soon forgotten. The Star's weekly interpretation of Winchester was, perhaps, one of the unnoticed factors which helped gain for Winchester the fine reputation it always enjoyed.

Those who have lived for some time in Winchester and know Jim for years have been aware of his constant and tireless efforts to keep Winchester's standards high. We want to thank him via his own media for his long service to Winchester.

Said nothing

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Never can I remember a letter to the editor as long, and so filled with non-sequitors as that of a Mr. Carl Schwartzman in The Star this week. Over a 1000 words no less, and utilizing a writing technique that is used by people who have nothing to say and substitute questions rather than bare-faced facts when criticizing some activity. Mr. Schwartzman hides behind this facade, secure in the fact that nobody will challenge him, for the simple reason that he has said nothing.

How can Mr. Schwartzman either prove or disprove the voting intelligence of the so-called 27.43363 he says were at the polls? Could it not be that that minority may possibly be highly intelligent and totally representative of the town voting population?

The huge corporations he listed (IBM, GM, etc.) as a matter of fact (and so do all of the Fortune magazine 500.) actually risk tens of millions of dollars in TV advertising on the programs that have the most favorable Neilson ratings. These ratings, I would remind Mr. Schwartzman, are based on the opinions of a 1,000 or two homes, who are far less than the 27.43363 minority that he says voted and elected our town committees and jobs. Does Mr. Schwartzman consider that, say, Procter & Gamble is as stupid as he says our town minority is? Or that General Motors may well put their money on a program like Charlie's Angels and depend solely on that TV program even if it has a rating in Schwartzman's language of 27.43363?

Or what can he think of all of our U.S. Senators and other members of Congress, who almost utterly depend on polls which may total only ½ of 1 percent of the voting public and are accurate?

Instead of creating a readership's fear that, say the school committee may be a bunch of stupid incompetents by the technique of asking questions, why does not Mr. Schwartzman take this committee's personnel plus other electees he does not trust, and one by one, print a 1,000 word letter to The Star exposing their incompetence, instead of using his generalized question technique, secure from retaliation by his very vagueness.

He says he will not sit back and await the "slings and arrows of righteous indignation" (a saying that he has misquoted, incidentally). I am surprised that The Star, who routinely ask writers to make their letters short and to the point, has not chopped Mr. Schwartzman's thousand word drivel to about one-tenth of the space.

Health insurance

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

There is a town in Illinois (Stickeny, Ill.) that has had National Health Insurance since the depression days. Everyone in the town gets it and the town is thriving. This was on TV on Saturday. Just think, if you needed an examination, it is free.

If you go to a doctor here, a full examination is $50. Who can afford this? I will have more on this as soon as I get a letter back from the selectmen in Stickney.

Brush fires blooming with warmer weather

It seems to be the season for brush fires, as 17 were reported by the fire department since Apr. 10. Fire Chief Robert McElhinney said he suspects many of these fires are being set.

On Apr. 10, seven brush fires were responded to on Hillcrest parkway, Swanton street, Russell Hill, High street, Grove street, and Pond street. A fire in the high school parking lot was also reported at 10:14 p.m.

A grass fire was reported on Cambridge street Apr. 12. at 5:26 p.m. Five minutes later, the department responded to a brush fire on Sheridan circle.

On Friday, several fires were extinguished by the department in the Fells. A small fire was also reported near the railroad tracks at Swanton and Main streets at 10:30 p.m.

Brush fires were reported Saturday on Cambridge street, Windemere drive, and Wickham road. The department also responded to seven requests for medical aid over the week.

Arson suspected in Dattilo fire

Arson is suspected in a two-alarm blaze at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dattilo, 9 Alben st., on Apr. 13.

The fire destroyed the two-car garage of the home. Interior smoke and water damage was found in the attic and second floor.

Fire Chief Robert McElhinney said the fire is under investigation by the fire and police departments. It is suspected that the fire was set with gasoline from a five-gallon container in Dattilo's garage.

Neighbors said two or three explosions occurred before firefighters arrived at 8:25 p.m. All Winchester fire apparatus responded to the call. Engines from Woburn and Stoneham were also on the scene.

No one was in the house at the time of the fire. The Dattilo family was attending the wake of Frank Dattilo's father, Antonio Dattilo.

The fire also caused damage to the garage and side of the house of Mr. and Mrs. Paul O'Leary of 5 Alben st.

A two-alarm fire at 9 Alban street Thursday caused extensive damage to the exterior and interior of the house. Fortunately no one was home. Units from Winchester and Stoneham were on the scene, fighting the blaze (above). A pile of charred wood and debris was all that was left of the garage the next day (below). Arson is suspected.

Appointment questioned

Selectmen hold back support for capital planning board

The wording of article 27, which calls for a permanent capital planning committee, will have to be ironed out before the selectmen give their support at town meeting.

The proposed article and its intentions were outlined by capital planning committee member James Lane at the selectmen's meeting Monday night. Two main areas of the article, the responsibilities and functions of the committee and the appointment of the committee, were discussed by the board.

The proposal calls for a seven member board, with appointees from the selectmen, school committee, planning board and finance committee.

Selectman Barbara Hankins disagreed with the method of appointment. She said, "I can validly question whether members of the finance committee and school committee should sit in on the initial stages of gathering material for capital planning, and then turn around and review that same material."

Other members of the board agreed this system could be improved.

Lane told the board he thought the committee's first responsibility was to see that a capital plan got to the town meeting. It's not spelled out anywhere else," he said. "All we're proposing here is a formalization of what has already been done."

"If you can buy the functions and responsibilties for the committee with five members at large, I think we could compromise to make it work."

In response, Hankins said, "What I'm reading and what I'm hearing are two different things. I think we should get together and work on this. I don't want people to think we're in oppposition to a capital planning committee.

Chairman Edward O'Connell agreed with Hankins adding,, "I think we're running on parallel tracks here. We desire capital planning and it's here to stay."

A possible rewording of the motion will be discussed with town counsel.

Lane saw the responsibilities of the committee as more than the simple gathering of material for a capital plan.

"If this were its sole function, the committee would be in grave danger of not working," Lane said. "I would be reluctant to see work done on a citizen's level and then have it die once it gets to the town manager."

Lane said the current arrangement with the committee and town manager has worked "extremely well." The proposed article would supplement the provisions already outlined in the town Charter, he said.

Town manager Thomas Groux questioned the his role under the proposed article. "It seems like I would be simply passing papers," he said.

Groux said a more appropriate proposal would call for key department heads and the capital planning committee submit reports and make suggestions for change in relation to capital planning. The town manager, as required by town Charter would then submit the capital report to town meeting.

After possible rewording and-or amendments the issue will be discussed and acted on at town meeting.

The current capital planning committee will be dissolved at the end of June. Because of this, the present committee has recommended the issue be taken up at the spring town meeting, rather than waiting until the fall when other bylaw revisions will be considered.

Licenses

The board approved four garage sale licenses and two common victualler-chuck wagon licenses and a parade permit at their Tuesday night meeting.

Licenses for garage sales were granted to Diane Gravelese, 366 Cambridge st., Apr. 22 and 23; Patricia Franke, 12 Stone ave., Apr. 22 and 23; Carol Tinkel, 31 Englewood rd., May 6; and Mrs. Ray Brown, 11 Wilson st., Apr. 29.

Common victuallers licenses were granted to the Muraco parents for May 25 and the Kiwanis Club fish derby at Elliot Park, June 10. The Kiwanis Club was also granted a parade permit for the event.

DPW Appointments

Town Manager Thomas Groux advised the board of three permanent appointments to the DPW effective May 1.

Anthony Falzano of 22 Cross st. was appointed mechanic welder; Edward Grant, 33 Tufts rd., was hired as a skilled laborer; and also hired as a skilled laborer, Sal Arria of 189 Forest st.

Mini-marathon

The recreation department's sixth annual mini-marathon was given the approval of the board. The marathon, which will be held May 21 at 1 p.m. will require closing the center of town for about one hour.

A communication from Donald Spinney, director of recreation, said the department will "try to adhere, as in the past, to all recommendations and suggestions by the fire chief and police chief."

Last year 230 runners raced on two, five, and seven-mile courses.

Ride-A-Bike

The board approved Ride-A-Bike for the mentally retarded, sponsored by the WEA, to be held May 7.

Roads will not need to be closed off for this annual event. The route starts on Main street near McCall Junior High, and runs from Madison avenue, to Highland avenue, to Kenwin road, to Cross street, back to Main street.

The bikers will ride in single file. Monitors will be placed at intersections. The plan has been approved by Police Chief John McHugh.

Rotondi favors commission to investigate corruption

Senator Samuel Rotondi voted to establish a special Blue Ribbon Commission to investigate allegations of corruption in the state's awarding of contracts. The Senate voted to pass this legislation on a roll call vote of 37 to 1, and the Governor has already signed it into law.

In debating this issue on the floor of the Senate, Senator Rotondi stressed the right of all the people in Massachusetts to receive a forthright and unbiased view as to the way in which state and county contracts have been awarded. "The people have lost faith in their government, and the only way to restore that faith is by showing them that we as public officials are not afraid to allow a creation of an independent commission to conduct an intensive investigation of how the peoples' money has been spent in the area of building contracts."

The commission has been given the authority to investigate and study the existence and extent of corrupt practices concerning contracts awarded during the last 10 years for the construction of any state or county buildings. This investigation shall include, but not be limited to, the so-called MBM contract relating to the management of construction of the buildings on the Boston campus of the University of Massachusetts.

The commission will consist of seven members, one member shall be a retired justice of the Supreme Judicial Court or the Superior Court, and one member shall be a lay-person, both of these members will be appointed by the Secretary of State; the Attorney General or a member of his department designated by him shall be a member. Also, the Governor will appoint one member who shall be either a dean of a law school located in the Commonwealth or a president of a private institution of higher learning located in the state, the president of the Massachusetts Bar Association or another member of that association designated by him shall also be a member. The other two members shall be appointed by the State Auditor, and one shall be a registered architect and the other shall be a registered engineer.

No person who has had any direct or indirect financial interest in the contract with the Commonwealth or any county related to building construction or any member of the immediate family of such person shall be eligible for appointment to or employment by the commission.

The commission may employ an executive director and other assistants as it may deem necessary. Also, the Blue Ribbon Commission will have the assistance of the Attorney General, the State Auditor, and the Commissioner of Public Safety.

The legislation imbues the body with full subpoena powers and allows them access to the granting of immunity.

Upon order of the commission, its counsels shall present to the grand jury for its action, or submit to the Attorney General and District Attorney or other law enforcement agencies, any evidence that the commission determines warrants such a submission of presentation for possible prosecution. The commission will have subpoena power and the ability to apply to the Supreme Judicial Court to grant immunity to witnesses.

The scope of the commission is to investigate and study the existence and extent of corruption practices concerning state and county construction contracts of buildings from Jan. 1, 1968 to the present.

Senator Rotondi further commented, "The scope of this commission may very well be unrealistically vast, but I prefer that its bredth be too wide than too narrow. Also, the cooperation of the state's law enforcement agencies as well as its court system will provide a substantial, supplemental work force."

"The Massachusetts State Senate has demonstrated that it can react swiftly, impartially, and with dignity when the public demands an accounting of their government. The painful process which lead to the expulsion of a member of the Senate, several months ago, should be adequate proof of that fact."

Sen. Sam Rotondi to announce for re-election 27th

The Committee to Re-elect Sam Rotondi to the Massachusetts State Senate plans a Campaign '78 Kickoff Dance on April 27 at Caruso's Diplomat in Saugus from 7:30 to 11:30 p.m.

Senator Rotondi will be seeking re-election to the Fourth Middlesex District, a seat which he won in 1976. The district consists of the towns of Arlington, Lexington, Winchester and the city of Woburn.

Rotondi has been a full-time Senator, and involved with such issues as court reform, the establishment of a senate code of ethics, the creation of the blue ribbon commission to investigate alleged corruption in the awarding of state building contracts, the increase in elderly abatements.

He has already begun a door-to-door campaign throughout the district. Rotondi will make an official announcement of his candidacy for re-election on the night of April 27, and invited friends and supporters to join with him and his family in this important event.

With all the walls knocked in, the Winchester Theater turned into an open air theater, but the only show was the trains rolling by outside. Building was torn down after 40 years to make way for a mini-shopping mall and bank complex. (Staff photo)

FinCom trims school budget

The finance committee has knocked $260,000 off their version of the school budget for next year.

"To ask us to cut another quarter million is unreasonable," said School Board Chairman Constance Papas of the cuts. "We have come in with a zero percent increase in our budget, exclusive of any teacher contract settlement, and that does include cost of living increases for things like equipment and supplies, plus negotiated increases for the other employee groups. We came in with a pretty tight budget."

The school board and the FinCom will meet tonight to try to iron out their differences before taking the budget to town meeting.

The FinCom cuts are in some measure a response to recent additions to the budget approved by the school committee. Among these are additions to the staffs at the Parkhurst school and the high school and reducing the pupil-teacher ratio in the primary grades to 22:1.

The FinCom has suggested $264,773 in cuts in the regular school budget, a reduction of $13,929 in athletics, $10,800 in cuts in the school lunch program, and a $1500 cut in the schools-community budget.

At the senior high school, $37,705 was cut, including 1.5 teachers, a clerical aide, one-fifth of a counselor, custodial overtime and other expenses.

From the central office account, the FinCom deleted $24,187, all but $4600 of that in office supplies and other expenses. The $4600 is for personal services.

While $33,418 was chopped from the McCall budget, including 2.5 teachers, only $1290 was cut from the Lynch Junior High budget.

At the elementary level, $65,000 was cut, including three teachers, one clerk-aide, one counselor, and equipment and other expenses. The special education account was reduced $15,580, most of it for personal services.

For other system services, $87,593 was deleted. The unallocated account was cut in half to about $25,000, and $59,013 was cut from the sabbatical account.

Most of the cut in the athletic budget is actually a request from the FinCom that the school committee apply more of the funds left over in that account, which normally has a cash balance at the end of the year. The only actual program cut amounts to $2400 — roughly the salary of an assistant coach.

Juggling, acting, mime and dance

The Winchester Community Theatre, Inc., Children's Theatre will present a demonstration of dance, mime, juggling and acting on Apr. 28 at 3:30 p.m. and on Apr. 30 at 2 p.m. at the Lincoln School.

This demonstration is the end result of a six-week long workshop held three times a week at Lincoln School to provide the children with a variety of theatre experiences.

Juggling has helped the children to learn body coordination and concentration. Mime has helped the children to use their imagination in expressing emotion through body action. And dance helps develop body coordination and discipline and is used as a tool of expression to music.

The acting will consist of short scenes from "Androcles & the Lion," "Alice in Wonderland" and "Many Moons." These short scenes enable the children to act out their parts, concentrating on improvision. The scenery and costumes will be minimal so that the children can concentrate on learning their craft without the trappings of a big production.

Children's Theatre has a wide range of talent this year on the staff. Mrs. Nancy Warnock, Peg Sawyer and Carlene Samoiloff will direct the acting segments of the presentation.

Melody Arteberry, who was with the Children's Theatre during their Wizard of Oz production in 1974, is back again and in charge of mime. She and her husband, Trent, are well known pantomimists in the area.

Celia Schneider is in her third season with Children's Theatre. Celia is working toward her degree in dance at New England Conservatory of Music.

Lana Reed is a newcomer to children's theatre, and her specialty is juggling. The kids have really enjoyed the exposure to juggling and will do some demonstrations for the audience.

In January the Winchester Education Association sponsored a Red Cross Bloodmobile visit at the High School. Forty volunteered to donate.

Now the students, led by two seniors, Marcia DeSanctis and John Waite, are sponsoring a bloodmobile visit that appeals to students, teachers, staff, and parents.

The date is Apr. 27, the hours, 9 a.m. - 3 p.m., the place, the high school gymnasium.

To be eligible to donate blood, one must be 17 years of age, but not over 65 (A 17-year-old must get parental permission). Form for parental permission may be secured at the Red Cross Chapter House on Church street.

Annual WHS parent-faculty meeting Wednesday

The High School Parent-Faculty Association will hold its annual meeting on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria. Officers for the coming year will be elected at this meeting. Refreshments will be served.

Anthony DeBiase, head of the guidance department, together with the entire high school guidance staff, will review the services they can provide for the students. The counselors will also point out the many different approaches that students can use to take advantage of the department's resources. A large portion of the program will be set aside for questions from the parents.

An interesting highlight of the evening will be a display of the works of students in the home economics and industrial arts departments. These creative projects are examples of how these departments help students develop their manual skills.

Tufts troupe to perform for Children's Own

The parent's committee of Children's Own School are presenting a play for children Apr. 29, performed by the Tufts Honor Drama Society.

The Tufts players will perform "Many Moons," by James Thurber. This is the second play for children that the players have done; the first production was performed last fall for several elementary schools.

The Tufts Drama group hope to make the children's shows a regular event, producing one each semester, as a way of reaching out to the surrounding communities.

The performance will take place at 1:30 p.m. in McCall Junior High auditorium, and as an added attraction, Steve Tauber, a Tufts student, will open the show with a short mime sequence.

Tickets are available from Cradock Apothecary, 22 Church st., or at the door on the day of the performance.

En Ka fair May 19, 20

En Ka Society's 44th annual Street Fair will take place in Manchester Field on May 19 and 20.

The theme "Story Book Fair" was chosen by Mrs. William H. Rhodes and Mrs. William L. Everett, chairmen of the fair.

Nancy Ann Bouchard

Mr. and Mrs. Leo C. Bouchard of Exeter, NH announce the engagement of their daughter, Nancy Ann, to Randall Warren Fincke, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Fincke, of Winchester.

Miss Bouchard received her bachelor of science degree from the University of New Hampshire in 1977, and she is pursuing a career in occupational therapy.

Mr. Fincke received a bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering from the University of New Hampshire in 1976, and he is completing a masters degree program in engineering design at Tufts University. He is currently employed by the bio-medical engineering department at Tufts New England Medical Center.

Historical society annual meeting Tuesday evening

The Winchester Historical Society will hold its annual meeting on Tuesday evening in the Symmes Room of the Unitarian Church.

This year's speaker will be Florence Archibald, who has recently appeared on several Channel 4 television shows. She will speak on "Folks of Fun and Fame." She will also display unusual antiques, such as a feather shadow box, a swooning couch, a portable bath and carpet bag.

Mystic parents plan open house, art fair on 27th

The Mystic School Parents Association is planning a combined open house and art fair to be held at the school Apr. 27 from 7 - 9 p.m.

At the open house in the classroom area, parents can meet with Principal Dr. Martha Grenzeback and the school staff for a discussion of the year's activities. Folders of the children's work will be displayed. And room mothers will be on duty in each class to point out directions or answer questions.

The art fair will be set up in the school corridors and in the auditorium by Mary Ellen Sexeny and her committee. With the help of art teacher Mrs. Sophia Mone, the children have been selecting from their year's efforts choice pieces including paintings, ceramics, decoupage and other art forms for the show. In addition, artistic projects by Mystic parents and friends will also be on display; the list of works - a secret until that evening - has in the past included crewel, quilting, stuffed toys, sewing, beadwork, floral arrangements, paintings, photography, and even taxidermy.

To raise funds for the Winchester Scholarship Foundation, snack vendors will be at work in the library. And there will be a contest for baseball, hockey, circus and theater tickets.

Ride-a-bike benefit May 7

The Winchester Edcuation Association's plans for the annual "Ride-a-Bike for the Mentally Retarded People" are well underway. The event will be held at 10 a.m. on May 7, at McCall Junior High School. The five-mile route circles from McCall up to Highland avenue, then down along Cross st. to Main street, and ends at McCall.

Winchester students have traditionally turned out in number to participate in the event. Sponsorship forms are being distributed in each of Winchester's schools, and students will be knocking on doors to request the support of neighbors, who pledge the cyclists a predetermined amount of money per mile. Checkpoints along the ride will be manned by Winchester's teachers, many of whom will be riding in the event as well.

The funds for the "Ride-a-Bike" go to the Massachusetts Association for Retarded People so that they can continue their many programs which provide the mentally retarded with opportunitys to live fully and usefully. The problem of mental retardation is one that seriously affects the lives of approximately 160,000 citizens in Massachusetts alone.

The WEA, by sponsoring the event, hopes, in addition to raising revenue for the retarded, to accelerate public awareness and concern for people who need all our help to learn, play, work and grow to their maximum potentials.

Bruce Stevens

Bruce Stevens named president of tennis group

By JAMES R. STEWART JR.

Bruce A. Stevens, 7 Robinson cir., was unanimously elected president of the Winchester Tennis Association at the organization's annual meeting last Wednesday evening at the Winchester Indoor Lawn Tennis Center.

A relative newcomer to the association, Stevens has been active as vice president in the 1977-78 season, and, with his wife, produced the 1975 and 1976 husband and wife tournaments that brought such delight to many Winchester tennis players.

Thirty-five members of the association attended the meeting and were treated to a well-rounded acceptance speech of the new president. Stevens emphasized the need for a concentrated effort by all members to bring about needed improvement in the Parker Tennis Courts' surfaces.

Citing the resurfaced four courts next to Lantern lane, he said "the remaining 11 courts must be worked on and soon, to provide adequate playing conditions for all tennis players in the town of Winchester. I know the WTA will support any legislation or town monies that are directed toward the goal of optimum usefulness for the benefit of all." He urged all interested tennis players, the town finance committee, the town manager and town meeting members to maintain adequate expenditures for the public courts on Forest street, and sufficient longer range plans for their maintenance.

Other officers and board members elected included Nancy G. Mills, vice president; Lawrence T. Smith, treasurer; Cynthia C. Daley, secreatary; and Wilbert H. Aldrich, Jane A. Hersee and Christopher J. Scanlon, governing board members.

Persons interested in participating may pick up schedules for the leagues at the Winchester Recreation Department down at Town Hall.

Lacrosse goes two-for-three

By GEORGE PARKER

It was an interesting week for the lacrosse team, as they blew out Newton South 15-1, and Lexington, 17-2, but suffered a close 4-3 defeat at the hands of Lincoln-Sudbury.

The first game of the week Apr. 11 was one to lift the spirits of any squad, as the Sachem offense bombarded the Newton South goalie with 43 shots, 15 of which went in. Bubba Sanford led the scoring with three goals (and three assists), while Chad Doe, Chuck Began, and Jim Oliver each added two more tallies. Scoring single goals were Bobby Coppins, Mark Carzo, Ed Quinn, Kevin Foley, Peter Stackpole, and David Downing.

The domination began almost immediately, as Kevin Foley started the Sachems with a goal only 24 seconds into the game. His goal was soon followed by five more in the next 12 minutes.

The second period was relatively low scoring - only two goals. The third saw five more successful scoring attempts, while in the last period, Sachems' efforts added two more goals.

In the meantime, Newton South only put in one goal, at 7:29 in the second quarter, to go against Winchester's 15.

Saturday's game, though, wasn't nearly as easy - in fact, it turned out to be a defeat for the Sachems as Lincoln-Sudbury edged Winchester 4-3.

As it turned out, the goalie's actions were the key to the Sachem defeat, for Jackie Driscoll committed a crucial tactical error, - and left the net open while Lincoln had the ball - instant goal. However, except for that error, his play was exemplary, as he stopped 17 shots, two of the remaining three that got by him were garbage goals that he didn't have a chance on).

The Sachem scores came from Kevin Foley in the first quarter, Bobby Coppins in the second, and Mark Carzo in the last quarter. All of these goals were assisted by Bubba Sanford.

For anyone who was at the game (there weren't many), Carzo's goal was by far the most exciting, for it brought Winchester even with Lincoln-Sudbury at three-all. Unfortunately, the gathering (it couldn't be called crowd) had to suffer the agony of a Lincoln-Sudbury goal three minutes later. Then, they were tortured by Winchester's desperate efforts to retie the game, and Lincoln-Sudbury's success in holding their attacks at bay.

The Sachems were able to take out their frustrations over that loss in their next game, as they destroyed a hapless and helpless Lexington team, 17-3. The margin could have been even larger, but coach Bouley put in the second team in the second half.

Before that, though, Winchester ran wild, scoring four goals in the first quarter and 10 in the second quarter. The remaining goals (3) came in the fourth quarter.

This scoring binge was led by Ed Quinn with three goals, followed by Chuck Began, Mark Carzo, Chad Doe, and Bobby Coppins, each with two goals. Single tallies were racked up by Kevin Foley (who scored the first goal of the game for the third game in a row,) Jim Oliver, Steve Barrett, and David Downing. Bubba Sanford again led the assists column, with five in this game, three of which aided Ed Quinn's goals, all of which came on fast breaks.

Lexington wasn't helped by the fact that they tried to cover their inexperience (this is their first year in league play) with a great deal of rough play, which resulted in 17 penalties totalling 15 and a half minute of shorthanded playing. By contrast, the Sachems were only nailed for five penalties.

Jackie Driscoll had a superb game, while he was in, holding the Minutemen to zero goals. His efforts were aided by a greatly improved Sachem defense, which had a field day with the weak attacks of the Minuteman stickmen.

The team's next games will be against Billerica tomorrow at 11 a.m. at Skillings Field, and Tuesday against Ipswich at 3:30.

Captains picked for tennis teams in suburban league

By JAMES R. STEWART JR.

Chrisopher J. Scanlon, 45 Spruce st., Winchester, coordinator for the five men's doubles teams that will compete in Suburban Tennis League, announced the team captains at the Winchester Tennis Association's annual meeting last Wednesday.

The association provides the financial sponsorship for this activity which schedules seven or eight matches during the months of May and June, hosting and playing visitors with many surrounding town teams.

The designation of the teams follows the alphabet in categorizing the level of play of each team, but, from experience two teams are necessary in the middle and lower grups.

The Winchester "A" team will be captained by T. Brooke Green, 17 Cox rd. "B-1" finds Vandy French, 24 Everett ave. at its helm. Bruce Stevens, 7 Robinson cir. will lead the "B-2" contingent. In the "C" level, Henry (Hank) C. Skehan, 22 Allen rd., will monitor the "C-1" squad and R. Terrance (Terry) Fuller, 114 Johnson rd. will head up the "C-2" sextet.

All captains urged prospective doubles teams to contact the above leaders to participate in playing competition to get rea for the first matches, which are expected to be scheduled the first week in May. The A group plays on Wednesday evenins, the B's on Tuesday evenings, and the C teams on Thursday evenings.

Sachems shut out Wakefield 3-0 in season opener

By TERRY COSTELLO

The Winchester High School baseball team opened up its season last week with a 3-0 victory over Wakefield and followed that with a 3-2 victory over Lexington. Although Winchester has been hitting well (the team is batting .250), it was the pitching staff that was most important in these low scoring games.

On Friday, the Sachems traveled to Wakefield for the first game of the season. Pitching for Winchester was senior Reilly Atkinson, a right-hander who totally dominated Wakefield, allowing only four hits, striking out nine and giving up no walks. The only trouble Atkinson seemed to have was when a Wakefield player did reach first, he would invariably steal second, and sometimes third. Wakefield, as a team, had eight stolen bases. Using a combination of curve and fastballs, Atkinson gave up only four hits, all of them to Wakefield's Tecce brothers.

Offensively, Winchester also looked good against Wakefield, picking up eight hits and two earned runs. The Sachems were led by Don Allard with three hits and Gary Tedesco with two hits. They had a little more trouble in the field though, committing three errors and being unable to find the double play combination.

Wakefield also had a good pitcher in southpaw Rick Rollins, and the game remained scoreless through five innings. In the top of the sixth, catcher Randy Pearl led off with a single to left center, was sacrificed to second by George Casey, and scored on a double by Don Allard. Allard then stole third base and scored on a sacrifice hit by third baseman Paul Medwar. In the seventh, Atkinson reached first on a walk, and then scored off two errors.

On Monday, against Lexington, the Sachems lost something in their hitting but picked up a little defensively. Ed Pratt, pitching the home opener for Winchester, went six and a third innings, giving up only three hits and striking out nine. Depite this fine performance the win was credited to Reilly Atkinson, who came in late in the seventh inning and shut down the Minutemen. In the field, although Winchester committed three errors again, catcher Randy Pearl held Lexington to only one stolen base and nabbed a runner at second late in the eighth inning.

The Sachems had only four hits against Lexington's Dean Botien, two of which, a two-run homer and a triple belonged to Don Allard. Picking up the other hits were centerfielder George Casey and first baseman Skiff Sizemore.

Lexington scored first on two errors in the top of the fourth. Winchester answered that quickly as Casey led off the bottom of the fourth with a single to left. Don Allard then came back in the fifth as the lead off man. Shortstop Sullivan, tagged Pratt for a homerun through right center. The score remained 2-2 through the seventh. In the bottom of the eighth Allard led off with a long triple to center, and scored on Paul Medwas's sacrifice fly.

The Sachems have gotten off to a good start this year and look tough in most departments. Although their infield has shown some holes, the pitching and hitting is strong. The Sachems next game is on Friday at 2 p.m. at Stoneham.

91.5 - 53.5 victory

Tracksters run over Melrose

By GEORGE PARKER

Coach Marshall must be slightly pleased with this victory. His athletes took 12 out of 17 possible first places on their way to a resounding 91.5-53.5 win over Melrose's Red Raiders at Skillings road field Saturday.

This domination started early, as the Sachems took 36.5 out of a possible 50 points in the dash events, including all of the first places in those events.

In the 100, Scott Farrar (10.6 sec.) easily took first place, while his teammates Richard Doron and Tom Wilsack tied for third, with times of 11.9 sec. All of the times for the dash events must be discounted slightly, for they were all run into a strong headwind.

In the 220, Mark O'Neil (25.8 sec.) came in first, and Tom Wilsack again came in third, with a time of 27.0 sec. The quarter-mile, if possible was even better, as Charlie Larkin and Ken Kirk placed one-two. Larkin turned in an excellent time--50.8 sec. considering the wind factor.

In the hurdles, Tim Morgan easily took the 100 low hurdles, and Terry Cordova almost staggered across in first in the 330 high hurdles. Winchester also took third place in the high hurdles, and tied for third in the lows.

The Sachems were victorious in the 4 x 110 relay, as they cruised in more than three seconds ahead of the Melrose team, in a time of 46.2 sec.

However, in the field events, the Sachems barely came out in front, taking 38 out of 63 possible points.

Brian O'Connor led the Sachems in this area, as he took first place in both the shot put and the discus, with tosses of 48 ft., 5 inches, and 142 ft., 4 inches, respectively. Brian scored the only points for the Sachems in these events. In the other tossing event, there was a minor surprise, as Dave O'Neill took first place, outdistancing the field with his toss of 152 ft., 4½ inches. Artie Montori added another point with his third place toss of 138 ft., 10½ inches.

Unfortunately, in the jumping events, the Sachems were only able to take one out of four first places, though they took all four second places. In the high jump, Tim Morgan tied for second with a jump of 5 ft., 8 inches. In the long jump, Don MacMillan hurled himself 17 ft., 10¾ inches for his second place, while Terry Cordova placed third with a leap of 17 ft., 5½ inches. Terry also took third in the triple jump, six inches behind Tom Gerard's 36 ft., 7½ inch leap.

The pole vault, of course, was the most successful, despite an early halt due to high winds. Pat and Andy MacDonald lifted themselves 11 feet, 10 inches, and 10 ft., 6 inches, respectively, for a one-two finish.

In the remaining events--the 880, mile, two-mile, and mile relay, Winchester lost only one race, as Ed Kirkpatrick (2:07.0) was beaten by four seconds. In the mile, Andy Wilsack cruised to victory with a time of 4:53.9, and Mark Costello pulled in third place, with a time of 5:18.6.

In the two-mile, though, Melrose ran away with first. The Sachems took second and third, thanks to the efforts of Jim Wilbur (10:48.1) and Joe Flynn (11:18.4).

In the last event, the 4 x 440 relay, Winchester easily beat the Red Raiders, largely as a result of sparkling laps by Ken Kirk and Charlie Larkin.

The tracksters' next meet will be held tomorrow, at Burlington, at 10 a.m.

By GEORGE PARKER

In their first meet ever Saturday, the girls' track team came up with an all-important victory, defeating the Melrose girls 61-57.

Most of these points came from the Sachemettes' domination of the sprint events. In the 100, Jane Terry led a sweep with her time of 12.2 seconds, followed by Bonnie Price and Eileen Curry, with times of 12.3 and 13.4 sec..

In the 220, the Sachemettes almost swept again, but had to be satisfied with a Judy McPhee's (30.0 sec.) first place and Bonnie Price's (31.5 sec.) second place finishes. Thus, by the time the 4 x 110 relay came around, the result was a foregone conclusion — Winchester finshed 5.8 seconds ahead of Melrose with their time of 55.3 seconds.

However, in the hurdles, Winchester only took second and third, as Laurie Vincent (18.4 sec.) and Mary Kennedy (18.5 sec.) were outstripped by Melrose's hurdler, who came in with a time of 17 sec.

Unfortunately, in the middle distances, the Sachemettes were dominated by the Raiderettes, as they racked up 12 points, leaving Winchester only six. These points were brought in by Susan Weylman's second, in the 880, and Barbara Myers's second in the quarter mile.

Melrose's domination continued through the field events, where the Raiderettes took 30 out of a possible 45 points. In the long jump, Winchester's points came from Jane Terry (15 feet) and Ann Bird (14 feet, one inch), who placed one-three in that event. In the discus, the Sachemettes' only points came from Lynn Foden, who came in third with a toss of 73 feet, 10 inches.

In the high jump the Sachemettes were swept, and in the shot, they only took a second, from Lynn Foden's 27-foot, seven-inch toss In the javelin, Terry Barlow totally outdistanced her competitors with her heave of 86 feet, 10 inches.

At this point, then, Melrose was leading the meet by one point. Fortunately, it didn't last, despite the Raiderette's victory in the 4 x 440 relay.

In the mile, Sara Fotsch ran away from the field with her 5:51.4 time. Sara was followed by Michelle DeMars, who had a time of 6:09.8. Winchester's supremacy continued in the two-mile, where Jan Oehm lapped all of her competitors, coming in third overall in the combined girls and boys two-mile with her time of 10:51.8.

The meet ended 61-57, the girls' first victory in their first season — something of which they should be very proud.

Sachemettes split first two with Burlington, Stoneham

By KATHY DAY

Burlington

It was a case of the opening game jitters for the Winchester High School girl's softball team as they came up on the short end of a 12-3 bout against a quick Burlington team last Friday.

Although the game was primarily played with wild throws and wild pitches by both teams, Winchester exhibited poise and promise. The Sachemettes seem to have a solid defense with the infield consisting of Maura McGeoghean at first base, sophomore Barbara Jacobs at seonod base, Holly Stevenson playing shortstop, and Bitser Dexter covering third.

This year's outfield yields Gail Pasquale, co-captain Kelly Gately, and Lisa Willard. Although not many balls were hit to the outfield, they did a good job handling the few that did. The infield played a strong defense with some nice throws to first base by Holly Stevenson and Bitser Dexter.

Senior co-captain Barbara Redmond was the designated hitter for this game and did her job well, getting a base hit when Winchester needed one. The pitcher in this game was Kathleen Driscoll, who was superb, giving up only three walks. Both she and returning catcher Dianne Cullen work together well and should be valuable throughout the season.

Stoneham

Winchester went on the field Monday with a 0-1 record, but came off with a 1-1 record, beating Stoneham by a score of 7-4.

Hitting seemed to be the name of the game, as after the first inning the score was 3-0 in favor of Winchester. In the second inning, however, they were not quite as fortunate, giving up four runs on five walks.

The third inning saw a glimmer of light as it started off with Diane Cullen walloping a beautiful line drive triple down the right field line. A sacrifice fly by Barbara Jacobs brought Danne home. Barbara Redmond hit a nice ball over the head of the second baseman, but was caught stealing second on the next play. Winchester came out of that inning with the lead and never fell behind again.

Kathleen Driscoll settled down after the second inning and pitched an excellent game. Some fine hitting by Lisa Willard, Kelly Gately, and Bitser Dexter gave Winchester three more runs in the fifth. Great fielding by Holly Stevenson and Maura McGeoghean held the score of 7-4 to the end.

Although relief pitcher Mary-Claire McCarthy did not see much action these past two games, we are looking forward to seeing her in the future games.

By a total team effort, the Sachemettes pulled off their first win of the season, but hopefully not the last.

Girls' team stronger

By GLENN HERLIHY

Coming off a highly successful season, the boys' tennis team has been preparing for the upcoming season with the hope of repeating as Massachusetts State Champions. During preseason matches, there has been a great degree of positive speculation voiced by both the players and Coach Paul Mulloy. Mulloy feels that the talent is certainly there, and that it's just a matter of playing up to potential.

Ever since last year's loss to Weston in the New England finals, many of the players have been particularly anxious to reobtain the distinguished title which the Sachems captured two years ago. Whether or not the team can repeat their previous performance remains to be seen, but after analyzing the talent there seems to be no question of potential. The encouraging play of the team in preseason matches has helped stimulate confidence in the players for the coming season.

Mulloy stressed the importance of not losing the strive to win, since most teams seem to get psyched when playing (top ranked) Winchester. With all aspects considered, he feels that the team has as much, if not more talent than any team in serious contention.

He said Weston shouldn't prove to be as nearly a factor since their two best players (Rick Pease and John Leach) have departed to play professionally in Florida. Mulloy anticipates that Newton North and Framingham South will probably present the most competition for Winchester in the strive for a successive State Championship.

Since much of last year's nucleus has remained, it's evident that Winchester should be able to continue their dominance for yet another year.

Rhys Thomas, who is currently ranked No. 2 in New England, will play first singles. He is accompanied by Jim Willing, a junior who Mulloy feels, "Could either blossom this year or next year into one of the best players in the state. " Hampered by injury, Willing is however expected to play second singles in the first match.

Presently playing third singles is Dipak Khaund, who is also among the top 20 ranked in New England and who partnered with Nick Julian to win the state doubles championship a year ago. Julian is expected to play first doubles.

Other players include: P. Simmons, R. Horne, K. Carlson, D. Houlihan, Barry McQuillan, G. Herlihy, T. Chambers, Brian McQuillan, D. Raucci, G. Albers, B. Cowen, M. Cincotta, J. Keyes, and Bob Boyle.

All spectators are cordially invited to attend the boys matches, which will commence with an Apr. 24 encounter with a powerful Watertown team. All matches will be played at the Packer Courts and will begin at 3:30 p.m. In the event that circumstances forbid the use of the Peker Courts, matches will be played on the highschool courts.

On the other side of the coin, the girls are also hopeful for a successful season. After the 1976 State Championship, Coach Marge Harvey and her players seem anxious to rebuild in the hopes of once again rising as a dominant factor in the Middlesex League.

Last year's squad finished in fourth place, but with the acquisition of some young talent and with more expected in the near future, the team should gradually rise and become an influential factor in tennis during the next few years. The team does, however appear extremely confident and is looking forward to improving on last year's 8-5 record.

Mrs. Harvey speculated that the league will be balanced and that any number of teams have the potential to emerge victorious. Her preseason favorites include Lexington, Belmont, and Wakefield.

As it stands presently, Co-captain Beth Nobel will handle first singles. Nobel, who is the only returning varsity player, is expected to compete sucessfully and should become one of the outstanding players in the league.

Currently two sophomores fill the remaining singles spots: Christine Anderson is playing second singles, while Marissa Gulino has been playing third singles.

Linda Lavey and Minday Melzar have been playing first doubles on varsity, while Sally Houlihan and her sophomore sister Linda have been slated as the second doubles combination. Co-captain Libby White should prove to be instrumental as soon as she fully recovers from a knee injury. Mrs. Harvey also stressed that the positions are in no way formalized, and that through the ladder system is is possible for players to advance up to their maximum capabilities.

Other players include: S. Patrick, D. Hudson, C. Taber, I. Wilder, K. Cahill, M. Fitzgerald, L. McDonald, Z. Taspinar, R. Skeenan, B. Covino, D. Piantedosi, V. Karpand, E. Gibson.

The girls' matches will also be played at the Packer Courts, and games will commence at 3:30 p.m. To avoid a conflict in schedules, while the boys are hosting opponents, the girls will be away and vice versa. The girls' home opener will be Apr. 28, against a highly competitive Lexington team.

Cosmos trounce Medford 9-2 in youth scoccer

Winchester Cosmos, the under-19 entry in the Middlesex League of the nationally affiliated Massachusetts Youth Soccer Association, played in Medford Apr. 16. The Cosmos took the initiative from the beginning and brought their attacking game to their opponents field, however, the tightly organized Medford defense stood up to the Cosmos and the first half closed with the Cosmos leading 1-0 on a well executed George Casey goal.

Early in the second half the Cosmos went up 2-0 on a quick Jack Driscoll goal, and for a few minutes things looked easy for the Winchester side. An extraordinary effort by the host team caught the Cosmos defense in a relaxed mood, and within five minutes the game was tied 2-2.

With less than one half hour to go, the Cosmos pulled together. Shifting their attack from the crowded middle to the wings, their rapid and short passes started paying off, when the team, sparked by John Barcus scored seven goals in just over 20 minutes. The final score: 9-2 and the scorers, Jack Driscoll (3), George Casey (2), Pat Fortin, Willie Strazzulo, Gary Martin and John Barcus. Paul Casey played an excellent game in defense and the whole team performed very well, especially during the last one hour of the game. The Cosmos will play in Wayland next week, returning home to play Chelmsford Apr. 30.

The under-16 team played in Billerica against one of their roughest opponents and were able to turn their superiority into a 2-1 victory. During the first 15 minutes Ned Fortin and David Parker created many opportunities by fast breaks on the wings, and Ned scored the first goal. Billerica came back strong and equalized on a fast break of their own. John Duffy made many saves, some of them on shots that looked unstoppable.

The whole team played well, with the midfield trio of Vittorio Bares, Tom Fiorillo and Brian Donnellan working extra hard. Next week Winchester will play at home against Bedford at 2:30.

TAX TIPS WHEN YOU BUY REAL ESTATE

When you buy real estate, your tax benefits start immediately. For example, property taxes paid at the settlement are deductible. Usually, these taxes are pro-rated between the buyer and seller so that each pays his respective share. In some localities where the property taxes are paid during the following calendar year, the buyer's deduction is taken during the year the taxes are actually paid.

The other settlement expenses generally are not deductible, however, most of them can be added to the cost of the real estate when you sell it. The effect will be to reduce the profit subject to income tax. Among these are: lawyers' fees, property surveys, title search and title insurance, transfer taxes and "points".

It should be noted that, what the IRS calls "basis" is quite important to establish. It is the purchase price of the real estate which includes your down payment, mortgages, and those non-deductible settlement costs. The basis determines what your profit or loss will be when you sell.

In all your real estate needs—buying—selling—rentals—appraisals—consultation—please phone or drop in at ANN BLACKHAM & CO., 11 THOMPSON ST., WINCHESTER. PHONE 729-1663. We're here to help!

Sale sponsored by church women

The annual sale for the blind to be held Monday from 10 a.m.--4:30 p.m. at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church presents an unusual opportunity to help the blind help themselves and at the same time find quality articles at bargain prices.

Winchester is the only suburban community where such assistance to the blind is being given. Church Women United is coordinating the participation of volunteer workers from all the churches in Winchester as well as from the Winchester Wellesley Club, League of Women Voters, Florence Crittenton League, Grange, Friends of the Winchester Hospital, En Ka Society, Young Women's Club, Winchester Estates Garden Club, Jayceettes, Home and Garden Club, Smith Club, Winton Club, Fortnightly, Sons of Italy, and College Club.

There will be 13 sale tables presenting a variety of items. A special feature this year is a display model of a handmade wooden cradle for which orders may be taken. There will be sturdy handmade toys, all tested for safety, and a variety of bird feeders, in addition to all the other items for which this sale is well known.

The snack bar will serve a light lunch featuring homemade breads, and will be managed by volunteers from St. Mary's Church. The bake table will be the responsibility of the First Congregational Church. Donations of homemade baked goods are welcomed.

All proceeds from the bake table and snack bar go to provide a camp scholarship for a blind child to attend Camp Allen in Bedford, N.H. a special camp for the blind. Linda Cresse of Blind Handicrafts, who coordinates the Sale, noted that she had benefitted from such a campership and felt that it was a tremendous experience for a blind child to have this opportunity.

Proceeds from all articles sold go either directly to blind workers or to the Blind Handicraft Shop, which is the chief outlet for sale of items made by the blind.

Backlash feared by board

Black parents seek strong policy on racial discrimination in schools

School board members Heinrich Holland and Catherine Alexander say they fear a backlash against black parents in town if the parents push too hard for an end to racial discrimination in Winchester.

A group of the black parents met with the school committee Monday to discuss school department policy and a report from the US Department of Justice citing Winchester's "lack of sensitivity" to racial problems here in town.

The justice department stepped in soon after Charlene Clinton, the only black teacher at Winchester High School, resigned in February. Mrs. Clinton cited racial slurs and discipline problems as reasons for leaving.

The justice department report cites Winchester for a lack of sensitivity to racial problems. It says the problems in Winchester "will persist unless some conscious and deliberate effort is made by the educational and community leadership to change it." The report found a "lack of a strong policy statement supporting an institutionalized programmatic approach to deal with racial insensitivity" and a "lack of an effective accountability mechanism for dealing with racial insensitivity."

The black parents said that a draft of a policy on equal opportunity discussed by the committee at Monday's meeting was "unacceptable" because it did not lay out in enough detail what the school committee and administration intended to do to implement that policy.

"We will not settle for anything less than total compliance with the law, a mechanism for compliance, and leadership from the school committee in this issue," stated parent T.J. Anderson.

The parents have been meeting with school board members Catherine Alexander and Heinrich Holland in past weeks to discuss problems of discrimination in the schools.

Holland said he was disappointed that the black parents had not accepted the school committee's draft policy as a first step. However, he said he would work with the parents to come up with a policy more agreeable to them.

"I'm certainly willing to listen to the kinds of suggestions they will have to offer," said Mrs. Alexander, who added, "Hopefully they understand that our intentions are to write the best policy for the town." Mrs. Alexander said she felt the policy was "the least important aspect of the program" and that implementation would be more critical.

Both board members said they felt the school committee was sympathetic to the parents' demands. But they seemed to feel that outright rejection of the policy statement by the black parents and further haggling over the wording might lead to adverse reactions on the part of other residents.

The board members said they planned to meet with the black parents to go over the policy statement and rewrite it.

There are an estimated 30 black parents in town and two black teachers in the elementary schools. The parents wrote the school administration after Mrs. Clinton resigned and confirmed that the problems she had been encountering were not unique.

Holland contacted the parents and set up a meeting with Mrs. Alexander, and as a result of these and further talks, the parents sub-

Fire dept. EMTs make a surprise delivery Monday

Mrs. Jean Pacheco, 29, of 14 James st., and her new son, Michael Anthony (7 pounds, 7½ ounces) were doing well at Winchester Hospital, Monday, thanks to the efforts of firemen John Nash Jr., 23, of 39 Ledyard rd., and George Moran, 31, of 41 Water st.

The baby was due Saturday, and Mrs. Pacheco had planned to have him at Waltham Hospital. But on her way out the door at 5 o'clock Sunday morning, she realized she wasn't going to make it to the hospital. Nash and Moran answered the call from the anxious father, Robert Pacheco.

"I was not at all apprehensive," Mrs. Pacheco said Monday. "I was so relieved, the moment I knew they (Nash and Moran) were coming. They were absolutely fantastic, so calm and cool, I thought they'd been through it many times before."

But Nash, a bachelor, and Moran, father of three, had never delivered a baby before. The only preparation they'd had was what they'd learned in their emergency medical training.

"There wasn't enough time to be nervous," Nash said. The two made Mrs. Pacheco comfortable while they readied the special equipment they'd brought along for tying and cutting the umbilical cord. Less than 10 minutes after they arrived, Mrs. Pacheco delivered. She and the baby were then taken to Winchester Hospital.

"I would do it again," Nash said Monday, "it's nice when it's that easy. The EMT had trained us for abnormalities, and we were ready for all sorts of things. Actually, I was kind of disappointed."

Robert Pacheco is administrative clerk at Cambridge District Court. The Pachecos have two other children, Michelle, 5, and Mark, 18 months, who slept through the eventful morning.

Recommendations For Increasing Racial Sensitivity In The Winchester Public Schools

OVERVIEW

We would like to commend you for your cooperation in working with us and for the quality of leadership exercised by you during our efforts to make an assessment of the incident involving the resignation of the Black Spanish Teacher at Winchester High School. This partnership is consistent with the community relations service (CRS) Congressional Mandate under Title X of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, which directs CRS to assist states, municipalities, and community groups in the joint resolution of conflicts emanating from racial and-or ethnic tension.

The following report is based on conversations with school officials, teachers, parents, students, and the man on the street. The general theme seems to be a lack of awareness of the black and minority experience as an integral part of American education. The educational leadership has the moral and legal responsibility to institutionalize the minority experience into its policy, its processes for implementing policy, and its programs, holding all staff accountable for same.

The international, national, and local accounts of the Charlene Clinton incident, although perhaps overplayed, nevertheless challenge the image of Winchester, and other communities like it with a high socio-economic and educational status. The stated reasons by Ms. Clinton for her resignation, students' racial taunts and misbehavior, point out that no community, regardless of its level of education and standard of living, is necessarily free of racial insensitivity. This is further borne out by a conversation with a school official who stated that the school is a reflection of the community, and that it is hard to understand that such a highly educated community could be so insensitive.

Most people with whom CRS talked concurred that there is strong racial prejudice in Winchester, citing the METCO referenda as an example. Others mentioned the traumatic experiences other ethnic minority groups have had in finding housing in Winchester. Others accept this exclusion of outsiders as part of the New England tradition and natural class differences, with racial differences tacitly being accepted as a normal and legitimate reason for exclusion. Despite these kinds of awareness, the unanimity of opinion, when questioned about the Charlene Clinton experience, was one of surprise and shock that such a thing was going on in the school in such an open and blatant manner. If the school is a reflection of the community, then it should be obvious that these kinds of problems exist within the school, and will persist unless some conscious and deliberate effort is made by the educational community and leadership to change it.

Time changed for hearing on school closings

The school committee has moved the time of its public hearing tonight on long range school plans to 8:15 p.m. at Ambrose School.

The hearing time was changed due to a conflict with a meeting to be held earlier in the evening for town meeting members over at the senior center.

The school board's hearing is to hear public input and reaction to the report of the task force on long range plans, which is proposing closing three elementary schools and changing the secondary school structure over the next three years.

Long range school plans:

Effects of busing pocket disputed

The long range task force on school planning has recommended closing three elementary schools by 1980, including Parkhurst, Noonan, and either Lincoln or Washington.

Much of the attention, especially on the part of the parents in the areas immediately affected, has been focused on the choice of a third school. And one of the key issues in that choice involves busing: If the Lincoln School is closed, most of those students will be redistricted to Lynch, and more than 160 of them would have to be bused, creating a "busing pocket" in the center of town. (See map, page 5.)

Reactions from residents range from a shrug of the shoulder to the feeling that creation of such a busing pocket would destroy the neighborhood school concept in Winchester. And there are other questions involved.

"The whole issue is really the perfect example of why the school closing question is a town-wide issue," says School Committee Chairman Constance Papas, who has children at the Vinson-Owen School on the west side.

"I personally have no objection to having my kids on a bus; but it's one thing to talk about busing in the abstract and altogether another thing to leave one whole area to be bused when others have neighborhood schools," Mrs. Papas said.

Mrs. Papas also referred to the potential impact of the busing pocket on efforts to revitalize the downtown area, on disposition of closed buildings, and on real estate values.

Busing is certainly not new to Winchester. School department policy is to bus any elementary school child living more than a mile from his or her school, and 143 children are riding every day to Parkhurst, Vinson-Owen, Muraco, Washington and Lincoln. Another 113 ride to St. Mary's, 491 to the secondary schools, and 35 for special education.

For this year, the cost per school is: high school, $39,528; Lynch Junior High, $33,742; McCall Junior High, $5673; Lincoln, $2920; Washington, $281; Muraco, $2081; Parkhurst, $13,981; Vinson-Owen, $7522, according to school department figures. (This does not include the cost at St. Mary's, for special ed., for field trips, for taxis, and for safety drills.)

The estimated cost for the 1978-79 school year totals $142,375.

By 1980 there will be fewer students to bus, but the closing of Washington or Lincoln would call for additional transporting of students.

If Washington were closed, the task force report projects that between 69-75 students will have to be bused to Muraco, Lynch and V-O at a cost of $29,280.

If Lincoln were closed, the report projects between 175-195 children would be bused to V-O and Lynch at a cost of $58,560. Between 147 167 children would be going on buses to Lynch.

"I think it's a very bad idea," commented school board member Heinrich Holland on the busing. Although Holland, like other board members, hesitated to say he had made up his mind on the issue, he did feel the busing pocket was not in keeping with the neighborhood school concept. "If you take 100 more kids under one plan and bus them, and that's the only way to do it, that has to be a major consideration."

Board member Catherine Alexander took another view. "I don't think the busing is a major issue in deciding between the two schools," she said. "The committee has got to address first and foremost the educational decisions. We've got to concentrate on how these decisions will affect our children's education," she continued. "I'm much more interested in paying for the kind of education one received in a small, neighborhood school than in saving a few bucks by avoiding busing a few kids."

Mrs. Alexander also stressed that she had not made up her mind, "because we have not heard from the public." (A hearing on the plans is scheduled for tonight at 8:15 at the Ambrose School.)

'Intolerable burden'

Rep. Saltmarsh calls for full state funding of court system

In a hard-hitting speech delivered recently before the House, Rep. Sherman W. Saltmarsh Jr. called upon his colleagues to vote for an amendment providing full state funding for the county court systems so that taxpayers can receive immediate, permanent relief.

"Let's make no mistake about it," Saltmarsh said, "the cry for property tax relief is ringing throughout this state and it is incumbent upon us now to seize this opportunity to lift, to some degree, an intolerable financial burden from the backs of property owners." Although the House adjourned shortly after the conclusinon of his speech, it took action on Monday, April 3, passing the amendment by a 124 to 90 vote.

Opponents of the amendment sought its defeat on the basis of the costs involved, claiming it was more important to provide funds for a new state aid to education formula which is weighted heavily in favor of the poorer cities.

Rep. Saltmarsh said, "I know many of you, here, represent cities plagued by unemployment and serious financial problems and you are naturally looking for ways to increase monies for your cities. But let me remind you that the formula that the Special Commission on Unequal Educational Opportunities is proposing has not yet been brought before us for discussion.

"Furthermore, we are told it can be funded by $150 million in new monies. But what are these so-called new monies? $50 million is supposed to come from the federal government as a result of court action. This money has yet to be appropriated and since the state fiscal year begins on July 1 and the federal fiscal year begins on October 1, how can we appropriate money that the state will not have available at the beginning of the fiscal year? Saltmarsh asked.

"Even if it were appropriated," he continued, "since it is strictly a one-time allocation, are we going to be satisfied with granting only a one-year tax relief program which, after election, disappears with the wind?

Now, in addition to this yet-to-be-appropriated federal $50 million we discover that $30 million in distributions from the lottery receipts is now to be taken from the local aid account and applied to school aid.

"I know many of you, as I did, garnered thousands of signatures from citizens to have those receipts distributed to the cities and towns instead of seeing them go to the state treasury where they would be utilized for general purposes. I, personally, stood down at the town dump and gathered hundreds of signatures for a battle we fought hard to win. But now, we find, it was only a battle we won, not the war, for this year those receipts are again being diverted from the cities and towns. How can anyone here really characterize them as new monies? Saltmarsh asked.

"So, of the $150 million, we see that $80 million is certainly not new monies that can be sustained to grant permanent tax relief. And what does this mean? It probably means the state will continue to do business as usual when it comes to aid for education.

"Several years ago, the state was reimbursing about 34 percent of school costs through chapters 70 and 74. Today, with the costs of 766 added, the state is meeting about

TMMs to attend meeting tonight

A meeting of town meeting members has been called for tonight at 7:15 p.m. at the Jenks Senior Center to hold district meetings and discuss parliamentary procedure.

The following business will be transacted at the district meetings:

—Swear in newly elected TMMs;

—Elect TMMs in districts where vacancies exist;

—Elect or re-elect a chairman of the district;

—Elect or re-elect a clerk of the district;

—Elect a rules committee member from the districts where a vacancy exists;

—Exchange ideas and take any other action district members desire.

At 8 p.m. a session on parliamentary procedure as it pertains to the Winchester Town Meeting will be conducted by former moderator Harrison Chadwick. Current Moderator John Sullivan will present an explanation of budget procedures.

Saltmarsh calls for funding

24 percent of its commitment to the cities and towns. Who picks up the giant share of the tab? The property owners, of course. Do we really think that there is any reason to believe the picture will change under the new formula if the state runs short of money? The raid will, once again, be on school aid.

Saltmarsh said that budget juggling on the part of the administration concerned him. "In 1977, the legislature appropriated and expended approximately $49 million for the transportation of pupils," he said. "But in fiscal '78, at the Governor's request, the legislature appropriated only $33 million. It stands to reason the actual costs will run well over $50 million. Yet for fiscal '79, again the administration has recommended only $33 million although the department of education has requested $64 million. The huge discrepancy between the governor's recommendation and the department's request can only be resolved through the deficiency budget which has not been presented to us yet. And when we get it, as usual, the property owner will have to come up with the necessary funds which were not allocated."

"But, if we vote for full funding of the courts, we are voting for permanent tax relief. It is a commitment the state will have to honor," he pointed out.

"I am extremely sensitive to the plight of the hard-pressed cities who would stand to gain more than the towns from the new school aid formula," Saltmarsh said. "But I am more sensitive to the plight of the residents of Winchester who paid in full for their homes and now find themselves on fixed incomes which make it impossible for them to pay the ever escalating property taxes on those homes. Where are they expected to turn? he asked. "There is insufficient public housing for persons who find themselves in this dilemmma. Is it fair, that after they have managed to pay for their property, they are expected to pay again and again, an amount in property taxes far in excess of the original purchase price?'

Rep. Saltmarsh disputed the arguments that full court funding would lead to disorder because of insufficient time to provide proper centralized administration. "In 1977 we appropriated $8 million toward a gradual state take-over of the court system," he said. "This year we are appropriating $26 million. These monies will be distributed to the cities and towns to be applied toward the county assessments for the courts.

"There is no reason we can't distribute the entire amount necessary to operate the courts to the communities while an orderly, systematic administrative procedure is gradually introduced," he maintained.

"A reform of our court system is long overdue. The backlog of criminal and civil cases is absolutely staggering. The real victim of the court logjam is not the perpetrator of crime, but the average, long-suffering, tax payer who has civil business in our courts.

"By voting for full court funding, we can grant him property tax relief and we can take the first step toward the reform of county government. How often does a legislator have such an opportunity? he asked.

Saltmarsh said that since the state had experienced a $150 million windfall in surplus funds, the major share could, and should, be applied to the funding of the courts."

Draws protest

Moderator seeks to postpone non-fiscal warrant articles

Seven articles on the warrant will be recommended for indefinate postponement by the committee on rules at town meeting because they are not fiscal in nature.

John Sullivan, representing the committee, told selectmen Monday night that the "spirit of the charter" called for articles at spring town meeting to deal with fiscal matters. The rules committee will recommend postponement, he said, during the committee reports.

Among the articles cited as "out of order" by the committee were the licensing of dancing schools, the zoning bylaws, Cambridge street zoning changes, the establishment of a DPW board, changes in the school committee membership, the human services committee establishment, and the capital planning committee establishement.

Planning board chairman Stephen Anderson said failure to discuss the zoning bylaw amendments at town meeting would be "most unfortunate." The zoning bylaw amendments were submitted to have the town's bylaws comply with the state requirements outlined in Chapter 808.

Chapter 808 will go into effect July 1. A postponement of the bylaw discussion would make Winchester's zoning bylaws unclear.

"It would put our zoning bylaws into chaos," Anderson said. "It would make it almost impossible to use them."

Clara Hewis, a member of the rules committee said she didn't feel the committee had the authority to limit the discussion of articles to fiscal matters.

Hewis, who was not at the committee's meeting when the postponement proposal was made, said that state general laws require selectmen to accept all articles that have been properly filed by citizens for town meeting discussion.

"If the selectmen have no discretion in the matter," she said, "then the rules ommittee doesn't have the authority to limit articles either."

"I don't t hink it's fair that the rules committee give misleading and deceptive information to inexperienced town meeting members by saying that some of the articles are out of order. I don't think they are out of order," she said.

Hewis added that "the spirit of the Charter" was not to limit the spring town meeting to fiscal matters. Hewis was a member of the Charter commission.

School budget issues go to town meeting

The school and finance committees failed to resolve their differences over next year's school budget at a joint meeting last Thursday, effectively sending the issues involved to the floor of town meeting.

While the school board has come up with what they feel is a zero percent increase budget for next year, the FinCom wants them to chop an additional $264,000 out of that budget. The figures released this week in the FinCom's version amounts to an 8.39 percent increase in per pupil costs over the current year.

The school budget (excluding special accounts for athletics, school lunch program, and community use of schools) totaled $8,615,000 at last count, and recent cuts should bring that total down another $30-40,000, according to Jack Fallon, assistant superintendent for administration. Last year's school budget amounted to $8,616,755.

Some of the differences between the two boards stem from different methods of calculating staffing and confusion over enrollment figures and costs. However, there are also some basic differences of philosophy.

The school committee has repeatedly said over the past six months that they would like to apply some of the savings from declining enrollments toward program improvements. After much pressure from the FinCom, however, they chopped off their new ideas until they were left with one: reducing primary grade pupil-teacher ratios to 22:1.

On the other hand, the FinCom approach is that, because the school budget takes up such a large proportion (more than 50 percent) of the town's overall budget, expenses should reflect enrollment declines and increase only in relation to the inflation rate. As a result of this further pressure, the school board abandoned the lower ratios as well at a meeting Apr. 19.

Even though the school budget is already lower than last year's, FinCom Chairman Alice Mirak points to a higher per pupil cost and contends that the FinCom version more accuraely reflects enrollment declines. FinCom calculations show the school board's budget would mean a 19.45 percent increase per pupil cost over the past two years; the FinCom version adds up to an 11.4 percent increase over the same period.

"We listened to their rationale and we know that we have some tough decisions to make," said School Committee Chairman Constance Papas of the meeting Thursday. "I sincerely doubt that we won't go into town meeting with some substantial differences."

She added: "They seem pretty solid in their position. There are some philosophical differences we've had for a number of years; in some of these things we're not going to change their minds and they're not going to change ours."

"The budget we have recommended still has the per pupil cost going up," commented Mrs. Mirak, "but it's more of a reflection of uncontrollable inflationary pressures; it also reflects the decline in enrollment more accurately."

Most of the differences between the two versions of the school budget are in personal services. Some of the differences result from the two boards using different figures.

For example, when the school board voted last Wednesday not to lower primary ratios to 22:1, they cut the salaries for two teachers from their budget; the FinCom cut three. When the school board originally voted the policy, they anticipated three teachers would be necessary to implement it. The number dropped to two when the board applied revised enrollment projections to their budget in February. But the FinCom is not convinced the right numbers were properly applied.

Mrs. Papas also criticized cuts in the high school staff and the unallocated expenses account.

The FinCom cut the unallocated account to $25,000. The school board says it needs more, because $60,000 was cut from the budget earlier in the year in anticipation of a turnover of about 30 teachers — the turnover usually means newer teachers coming in at lower salary scales. However, revised estimates show the turnover might be more on the order of 15-20 teachers, and the board says it needs more money in unallocated to cover the difference.

In special education, the FinCom cites a drop of 30-40 students this year and a comparable drop projected for next year as reasons for chopping $15,000 from that budget. But Asst. Supt. Fallon says this will result in a cutback in services.

Regarding the bulk of the FinCom cuts, Fallon said, "I don't think the $264,000 can come out of the budget, no matter what — there are services and expenses that require that financial support."

The school board was to meet yesterday with the administration to hear their final word on the FinCom cuts. Fallon said there are some areas where the administration is monitoring current year expenses and might be able to suggest further cuts, but he concluded that "those revisions are quite small" and that "the administration feels that the budget is fundamentally correct."

Teenagers arrested for drinking

Seven teenagers were arrested over the weekend on the common, Main street, and in the municipal parking lot for violation of the public drinking law.

Two windshields were broken on cars parked on Marshall road and Mytic Valley parkway, early on Sunday morning, and the rear window of a van was smashed while it was parked at the Wedgemere depot.

Some dogs were let free from the dog pound, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings, when the pound was entered illegally. Police are changing the lock system.

The highway department foreman reported three hydraulic jacks, valued at $500 apiece, stolen from the garage sometime Tuesday or Wednesday night, the 18th or 19th.

A hearing is pending in juvenile court for two youths arrested for destroying the press box at Knowlton stadium Wednesday night, the 19th.

Two end tables and two brass lamps were stolen from the basement storage area of the Parkview apartments during the weekend, and there were several other houses broken into. On Wainwright road, a radar-range and portable television were taken Thursday, the 20th, from a house under construction. Some jewelry and some silverware were stolen from a home on Greeley rd. on the 20th, and $20 in coins were in a piggy bank stolen from a residence on Emerson road on the 19th.

Residents of a home on Stratford road arrived home at 9 p.m. on the 20th, found their home had been entered, and called the police. Police found most of the missing goods in the backyard of the house. They have leads in the case and are investigating.

On Saturday, a lawn mower was stolen from the front lawn of a house on Crouse street, and two 10-speed bicycles were taken from a lawn on Thornberry road.

Officer Nash accompanied a Winchester resident to Hanover, NH on Saturday the 15th. Two years ago, the resident was robbed of $14,000 in jewelry. Police thought some of the goods might be found in a shop in Hanover, but the resident was not able to identify any stolen property. Police are still investigating.

Warning from fire chief: stay out of Middlesex Fells

Fire Chief McElhinney, citing the large number of brush fires this spring, warned that anyone found trespassing in the Middlesex Fells area "will definitely be prosecuted," and he encourages residents near there to report trespassers particularly youngsters between the ages of 12 and 18.

McElhinney estimates that there have been as many as 45 brush fires in that area and he suspects youngsters have set them, although as yet he has not been able to prove it.

"These fires have been costly," McElhinney said, "not only in damage to the property, but also in time, manpower and injuries." He said that firemen have suffered from twisted ankles and from branches hitting them in the eyes.

The area is patrolled by the town until 5 p.m., but many of the fires are set at dusk and some of them are not discovered until darkness, when it becomes especially difficult to fight them.

There were eight fires on Sunday alone, involving large areas of brush. Firemen spent three hours fighting five of them and some time was spent recovering Engine No. 1, which became bogged down in the mud.

McElhinney asks parents to make their children aware of the dangers involved in these fires, not only to the reservoir, but also to the houses on Hillcrest parkway, S. Border road, and Wolcott terrace. For their own protection, residents there should stay alert, the chief said.

'Pajama Game' warming up

On May 3-6, Lynch Jr. High School will present the musical comedy "The Pajama Game" in the Lynch cafetorium. Performances are at 8 p.m. the 4th, 5th and 6th and at 7 p.m. on the 3rd.

"The Pajama Game," after its widely acclaimed run in theatres across the country, was made into a movie, and starred Doris Day in the role of Katherine "Babe" Williams.

Walton Gagel, a Lynch science teacher, is directing the show. He has directed all of the past Lynch productions, "Oliver!," "Guys and Dolls," and "Get Witch Quick."

"The Pajama Game" has quite a few intricate dance routines, which called for an experienced and talented choregrapher:

Mrs. Beverly Cronan, an English teacher who has choreographed the former Lynch productions, took on the job.

Mark Jacobs is once again the musical director. In addition to coaching the leads and chorus, Jacobs is conducting the orchestra, which is almost completely Lynch and Winchester High School students.

Richard Conway is working with the student stage and set design crews, and it looks as if the stage will look as good as the performers.

Tickets are at the present time almost completely sold out. However, there are a few tickets left for the Wednesday night performance. Gagel is requesting that all students be accompanied by an adult.

Retardation board planning for dinner in Lexington for May 3

The Mystic Valley Mental Health and Retardation Area Board will hold its first annual dinner Wednesday at the Lexington Sheraton Motor Inn.

Cocktails will be served at 6 p.m. and dinner at 7 p.m. Call Mr. George Rugg, 648-9358 or Mrs. Katrin Cooper, 729-3803 for further information about the dinner.

Senator Samuel Rotondi, a member of the human services committee of the Massachusetts Legislature, will be the speaker of the evening.

Frank Donnelly, president of the board, will be retiring after many years of dedicated and energetic service on the board.

The area board, made up of citizens from each of the six communities in the Mystic Valley Area, includes Arlington, Burlington, Lexington, Wilmington, Winchester and Woburn, and is charged with the responsibility for management and oversight of mental health and mental retardation services provided in the area. The board has recently established the Mystic Valley Mental Health and Retardation Area Board Trust Fund. The account was opened with a $50 anonymous gift, received at the April meeting.

The Senate

Death penalty (H820) — Senate refused to reconsider 20-13, its earlier passage of a bill restoring the death penalty in eleven specific cases of first degree murder. The categories included killing while committing rape; killing a policeman, fireman, or corrections officer; killing during armed robbery, kidnapping, airplane or schoolbus hijacking; killing for hire; killers already convicted of first degree murders; and killers who torture their victims.

Supporters of the bill argued the bill meets the guidelines of the Supreme Judicial Court. They also noted the bill would punish murderers and protect the general public.

Opponents argued any kind of death penalty is still "murder," and still discriminates against the poor and other minorities. Others claimed the bill was unconstitutional

Senator Rotondi voted for reconsidering.

Liquor licenses (S 346) — Senate refused to table (defeat) 31-4, a bill modifying the alcoholic beverage control laws. The bill clarifies a present law and allows licensing authorities in cities and towns to grant five package store and five restaurant beer and wine licenses in addition to an existing law which allows licenses based on population.

Supporters of the bill argued the bill was necessary because a recent Supreme Judicial Court decision stated the present law, designed to allow ten licenses, was unclear, and only allowed a total of five licenses for restaurants and package stores combined. They also noted the bill does not mandate an increased number of licenses in a community, but only clarifies a law and still gives the licensing authorities the power to refuse to issue any additional icenses.

Opponents argued the bill exempts some liquor licenses from existing quotas, and claimed it would actually increase the number of licneses a community can issue.

Rotondi voted for the bill.

The House

Mandatory seatbelts (H 4922) — House refused to reconsider 197-22, its earlier defeat of a bill requiring the driver and front seat passengers in automobiles to wear seatbelts, and claimed 16,000 lives a year could be saved if everyone used them.

Opponents argued the government should not mandate seatbelt use, and claimed this is a "self-safety" decision that should be left up to the individual. Others claimed the $25 fine was unfair, noting if a mother took children for a ride they could, unknown to her, release their seatbelts and cost the mother $25.

Representative Saltmarsh voted against mandatory seatblet use.

Soil erosion-wetlands (H 4760) — House rejected 130-91, a bill allowing the selectmen of a town or mayor of a city to take any action necessary to prevent soil erosion or otherwise necessary to protect the lives and safety of the public.

Supporters argued the bill would allow mayors and selectmen to order emergency work done without going through the conservation commission. They noted there are emergency situations where extreme damage might occur if a town has to wait to get approval for emergency action from the Conservation Commission.

Opponents argued the bill was poorly drafted and too broad. They noted it gives the selectmen or mayors too much power in too many cases which supersedes the Conservation Commission.

Rep. Saltmarsh voted for the bill.

Unearned income tax (H 4157) — House approved 180-40, a bill reducing the tax on unearned income from ten to five percent.

Supporters argued the ten percent tax was unreasonable and punishes people who have earned and then saved their money. They also noted the tax affects mostly senior citizens and said many are moving and taking their capital out of the state, to avoid the tax.

Opponents argued this brings in some $105 million which the state cannot afford to lose at this point. They pointed out that 75 percent of those paying the ten percent tax on unearned income are making $35,000 or more annually.

Rep. Saltmarsh voted for reducing the tax to five percent.

Bottle bill reimbursement (H 5541) — House approved 116-112, an amendement to the "bottle bill." The amendment eliminates a provision that would have provided state reimbursement of up to 75 percent to any industry which suffers a financial loss as a result of passage of the bill.

Supporters of eliminating the reimbursement provision argued the amendment is unclear and unworkable, and claimed that any industry could claim they have been affected directly or indirectly by the bill. They noted that this amendment was different than direct job loss which many noted the state should attempt to help through retraining and other programs.

Supporters of state reimbursement argued the bill will hurt industry and claimed it was the obligation of the state to assume the cost. They noted hundreds of jobs will be lost and said the legislature should be concerned with this important adverse effect of the bill.

Bottle bill (H 5541) — House gave final approval 119-109, to the controversial "bottle bill" requiring a five-cent deposit on bottles and cans with less than 32 ounces and ten cents for bottles with 32 ounces or more.

Other provisions include state assumption of the cost of retraining and paying up to 36-month unemployment benefits for any worker who loses his job becuase of the new law; requirement that all rules and regulations concerning the bill be ratified by the legislature's Energy Committee before they take effect; and an effective date of October 1, 1979 instead of the original July 1, 1979 date.

The familiar arguments for and against the bill surfaced in debate with supporters arguing it would reduce roadside litter, save fuel, and not cuase any net job loss because new jobs would be created as a result of it.

Opponents again argued as many as 1,000 workers could lose their jobs under the bill, and also noted it would hurt the bottling industry financially.

Contraceptives (H 4040) — House defeated 118-100, a bill permitting the dispensing of contraceptives to unmarried people.

Supporters argued the bill was necessary to conform with a Supreme Court decision which noted the state was denying equal protection to single persons under the law which only allows married people to get contraceptives.

Opponents argued the bill would allow any person of any age to buy contraceptives anywhere, and said they did not want to see eight-year old children buying contraceptives. Many noted there should be an amendment in the bill with an age provision.

Special discipline commission (H 382) — House approved 122-94, a bill creating a special eleven-member commission to study the disciplinary problems in the Massachusetts public school system. The Commission would consist of three senators, five represenatives and three gubenatorial appointments.

Supporters argued there are incidents of rising crime and increased use of alcohol and drugs in public schools. They claimed the commission could be useful in establishing the degree of the problem and perhaps possible solutions.

Opponents argued the discipline problem is one that is better handled on the local level, by administrations and school committees involved in local cities and towns. Others claimed another special commission was not the answer to the problem.

Saltmarsh voted for the special commission.

Liquor laws (H 5499) — House refused to reconsider 130-93, its earlier passage of a bill regulating the sale of alcoholic beverages by wholesalers and importers. The bill basically requires that wholesalers must buy their liquor from the primary source of supply, the distiller's agent, in Massachusetts.

It also places liquor wholesalers and retailers under the "Unfair Sales Act," which governs sales of most goods in Massachusetts and is designed to prohibit discriminatory practices and unfair pricing.

Supporters argued the bill is designed to stop wholesalers from buying large quantities of liquor from out of state, which hurts the agents and their workes in Massachusetts and has actually led to some unemployment in the industry. They also noted it would help the consumer and small package store owner.

Opponents argued the bill creates a monopoly for agents in Massachusetts. They claimed it would hurt the consumer and noted more competition and a free marketplace is better for the consumer.

Slatmarsh voted for the bill.

Cardinals

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Getting back to that pair of Cardinals I spoke about in my last letter, it seemed to me then that it was about time for them to get busy building a nest if they really meant business, and were not just fooling around.

Well, Lo and behold, the female the very next day did start, in a desultory way, to pick up straws, but he proved to be totally inept at the task. I am afraid that she will prove to be a very dull, inefficient helpmate to that bright young fellow. She may be two young, but I suspect that she is too flighty and light headed and hates work! Certainly she is not very bright.

For instance, she first picked up one little straw in her bill. Then she walked around, looking this way and that, like any woman shopping a super market. Finally she found something that seemed to appeal to her and she stooped to pick it up. But as she opened her mouth to pick up the second she dropped the first,-and so it went while I watched.

Finally she gave up and flew away, with only one straw in her bill. But do you think she flew up into the opening in my spruce hedge that they have been using for so long"

Oh, No! She flew around the end of the hedge and out of my sight. I suspect that she went down into one of Mary Witham's nice clean spruce trees after messing around with mine all winter.

Now, there is gratitude for You! I feed this ungrateful pair of loafers all winter long — and it was a rough winter, too — and how do they repay me? They fly away and leave me, now that the weather has improved, that's how!

Of course, they will still come around to get their meals never doubt that for a moment, but I guess that they prefer to live in a place with a nice clean lawn, instead of my lawn, which is inches deep in the husks of opened sunflower seeds, and who ate these sunflower seeds, I ask? How is that for gratitutde, I ask again?

Why hurry?

Our recent town election re-established my faith in a representative form of government.

Apparently the majority of the people who voted felt that although Bob Frank was a dedicated public servant, his support of school issues as a member of the school committee did not represent their views about many of these same issues. Some did not like his votes on hockey. I did not like his vote against school directories, which would have given the parents a means of communication and which the law allows with permission of the parents which he made no effort to gain.

Many people disapproved of the proposed school closings. While other towns, some of which have many more elementary schools than Winchester, are still considering closing one or two of their schools, our school committee is considering closing more than ONE THIRD of our elementary schools. What is the reason for having to make a decision this spring so we can "Hurry up and wait"?

How the schools that may be closed are to be disposed of could still be investigated while the school committee takes more time to see just how the projections really seem to be going. On Amberwood drive alone, Bob Johnson is proposing to build 30 to 40 new homes. I would hate to see Vinson-Owen overcrowded.

Why can't we go slowly as other towns seem to be doing? I realize there are budget considerations, but the arguement that we are educating less pupils for the same cost is not a valid economic point. We are all buying less food for the same cost and bying less clothing for the same cost. Likewise we are educating fewer pupils for the same cost. It is called inflation and none of us like it, but it is no reason to lower the quality of our educational system. At a time when there is finally room for a science lab or a music room, school closings and wall-to-wall children seems to be the only proposed solution.

Perhaps the majority of people who pay our high taxes and elect town officials do not support that solution. Clearly the recent vote would indicate that voters want new faces on the school committee and new ideas. Many residents no longer speak because in the past their voices fell on deaf ears. I hope the school committee remains open-minded.

Parents opinions should be actively solicited. Survey sheets should be sent home. Members of the committee should realize that in a town that by referendum voted not to close a school that the school committe went right ahead and closed anyway, people feel, "What's the use of speaking out?"

I implo4e the school committee to go slowly Don't sit back and watch people move to Weston and Lincoln. Offer language labs and wood shops like Brookline and other towns. I will not vote to return to office anyone who votes to close schools at this time. I believe we can afford to wait a year before making any decision. Perhaps others elected these new school committee members because they feel the same way!

Please attend the public hearing at Ambrose Apr. 27. Questions will also be taken from the floor if you did not submit one as requested.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Right on, Mrs. Twomey. An Art Buchwald I am not! But then, my intent was to play devil's advocate; not satirist. The fire and brimstone of unpleasant truths, a smattering of provocative questions, and deliberate shafts at hallowed institutions. All to no avail. The indifference that is Winchester prevails.

And Mrs. Crosby, why would you want your fellow townspeople to be your judge and jury? We don't bestir ourselves to become involved, involved in town affairs, involved in schools and taxes, or to vote. We don't even bestir ourselves to write in defense of democracy or to castigate one who openly mocks it. Perhaps we are too apathetic to even read this paper. Should such people sit on any jury?

The founding fathers would no doubt have ridden me out of town on a rail; Winchesterites do their riding to the shopping malls, tennis courts, and to drive healthy kids to school.

My real enjoyment came from the concept that government by some 27 percent of the voters is akin to selection by Neilson ratings. Now that is a devilish idea; having our candidates select issues and be elected by those with tme mentality of 12-year-olds. What's good for Proctor & Gamble's marketing is just dandy for Winchester. WOW! I fear that they may well be exactly what we are getting.

My true feelings are that what was good government in 1776 isn't ideal today. Two hundred years of over abundant legislation, population growth, and demands for public services requires a more efficient form of government. The town budget is now big business. I would gladly surrender some democratic privileges for managers empowered to make decisions —and implement them. Not everyone would be happy, but ask the Wyman parents if they are happy with school committee democracy. Town democracy for the sake of democracy alone is archaic and wasteful. Rather, give me

Clean up along the Aberjona

By The Observer

Thanks to the efforts of the Boy Scouts, Troop 507 in particular, the river will be combed for debris and neatened up considerably.

The troop is planning its ninth annual clean up of the Aberjona for all day Saturday and will involve more than 250 Scouts and adults.

In the praise and complaint compartment, TMM Michael Saraco had a few words, as is his wont, regarding town reports. First the good news:

Saraco gave the finance committee's report high marks, calling it "one of the best finance committee reports they've had yet." The reports went out at the end of last week and include some good, readable summaries of the FinCom's positions on the various town budgets.

As for the town report for 1977, Saraco complained that, whereas the report used to come out by the first week in March, now "it seems they're printing them later and later every year."

Saraco complained that town meeting members haven't had much of a chance in recent years to read the report before town meeting. The long-standing TMM quoted from the town report last year in a successful bid to have $400,000 applied against the tax rate for this year.

Considering the mandate of the Charter that TMMs come to town meeting informed on the issues, he's got a point.

Parade Chairman John Horn said the elementary school band will not play in the parade as they have in past years. Horn said he was "very disappointed" when he received a letter from band director John Beyrent which said the band would not perform.

Beyrent said the band has lost practices because of snow days this winter. The lack of practice has caused the band to also cancel their performance at the En Ka parade.

The annual Rotary Club Auction is set for this weekend, 10 a.m. Saturday at Town Hall, and there should be plenty of bargains to make it worth your while. Besides, it's just as much fun watching who buys what and wondering what they're going to do with it...

Funny how logic can reverse itself.

Take an example from the DPW:

After a long battle over whether or not the town was reponsible for putting in wheelchair ramps at various locations around town where sidewalk work had been done, the town finally acceded to pressure from the state attorney general's office this winter and agreed to put in the cuts.

With the warmer weather and an Apr. 30 deadline from the state, the DPW has gone to work and already put in some of the cuts on Chardon road, Washington and Skillings road, and Elmwood avenue.

But there may a be a slight delay in the installation of a cut in front of McCormack's Pharmacy, where the town did some work a couple of years ago. When the town was first approached about installing the cuts, their response was that the law only required installing the cuts when curbstones are disturbed, and the work at McCormack's did not involve curbstones.

However, after some coaching from the state's architectural barriers board, the group which writes the regulations for wheelchair ramps and other installations for the handicapped, and after some pressure from the attorney general's office, the town officials involved were convinced that the cuts had to be made.

Then came the gas leak under the street in front of McCormack's this winter, when the Boston Gas Company had to come in and dig a few holes. Now DPW Director Walter Tonaszuck says he might be asking the gas company to make the cuts, because, after all, they dug up the sidewalk, and, after all, when you dig up the sidewalk, you're supposed to put in curb cuts, even if you don't move the curbing.

Something tells us the job won't be done by Sunday.

Earle Williams, a graduate student at MIT in Cambridge, is involved in a study of thunderstorm electrification and he needs a volunteer in the Winchester area to help him record thunderstorm activity during the summer.

Volunteers are requested to observe and time (thunder travels about one mile in five seconds) lightning events. Observation times should be mailed to MIT, 54-621, Cambridge, 02139, and Williams would contact the more enthusiastic observers.

For more information call Williams at 253-3781.

Time for a reminder: Daylight Savings Time starts this weekend, so turn your clocks an hour ahead before you hit the hay Saturday so you won't be caught up short Sunday morning. Seems a shame to lose an hour, just when the weather's getting so nice.

Compiled by Henry Simonds

And one could hardly blame "Allie" too much for being just a bit suspicious of the man who at 2:15 Sunday morning stepped in front of his car on Main street near Symmes Corner and signalled for him to stop. The man was clad in the conventional highwayman's long coat and while signalling with one hand kept his other in his jacket pocket as if clutching an automatic.

"Allie" otherwise Arthur A. Mullen of Bridge street, felt that it was no time to temporize and anyone at all addicted to reading the flaming headlines very likely will concur with his judgement. The hour was late, or rather, early and there were few about to lend a helping hand in case the stranger proved no gentleman.

Mr. Mullen served in France with the A.E.F. during the late war and consequently had been trained to think quickly and to "Obey that impulse." In this instance we'll say he did and how!

Heading his trusty motor directly at the would be highwayman "Allie" allowed his foot to descend firmly upon the accellarator. In other words, he "stepped on it" with good, if a bit startling results.

The man in the road made a good attempt to get out of the way, but was not fast enough afoot, and was knocked rather more than less horizontal by Mr. Mullen's machine. The former picked himself up and made off while "Allie" returned to Symmes Corner where he was delighted to see Patrolman Archie O'Connell of the police. Together they returned to the scene of the hold-up but were unable to find any casuals.

There had been one, however. About 2:40 a.m. an individual, pretty much the worse for wear, staggered into police headquarters to report a dire misfortune which had befallen him. He had been struck by two automobiles while attempting to get a ride to Medford from the vicinity of Symmes Corner.

The casual gave his name as Anthony Nelson and said he was a boarder in a home on Nelson street. Dr. Sheehy was summoned and treated the injured man who was rather badly bruised and shak3n up.

Meanshile Lieut. John Harrold had put this well known twos together and had made four as nicely as any adding machine. In response to questioning Mr. Nelson admitted that he very likely had been the man whom "Allie" had hit at Symmes Corner. After some fatherly advice as to the propriety of attempting to stop ex-servicemen in motor cars at 2:15 in the morning Mr. Nelson was allowed to go. We understand the price of arnica in Winchester has risen considerably since last Sunday.

We'll all admit it, but a certain good size specimen of this useful if somehwat slovenly animal had plenty of honorary degrees added to his prosaic moncher by three irate members of the police department who early Monday morning worked up an exceptionally good appetite for breakfast while chasing, tieing and returning to captivity a porker who in some way had escaped from a wagon in which he with others of his bristly brotherhood was being transported from East Woburn through Winchester. The break was made on Washington street near the home of Supt. "Alex" MacDonald of the park department.

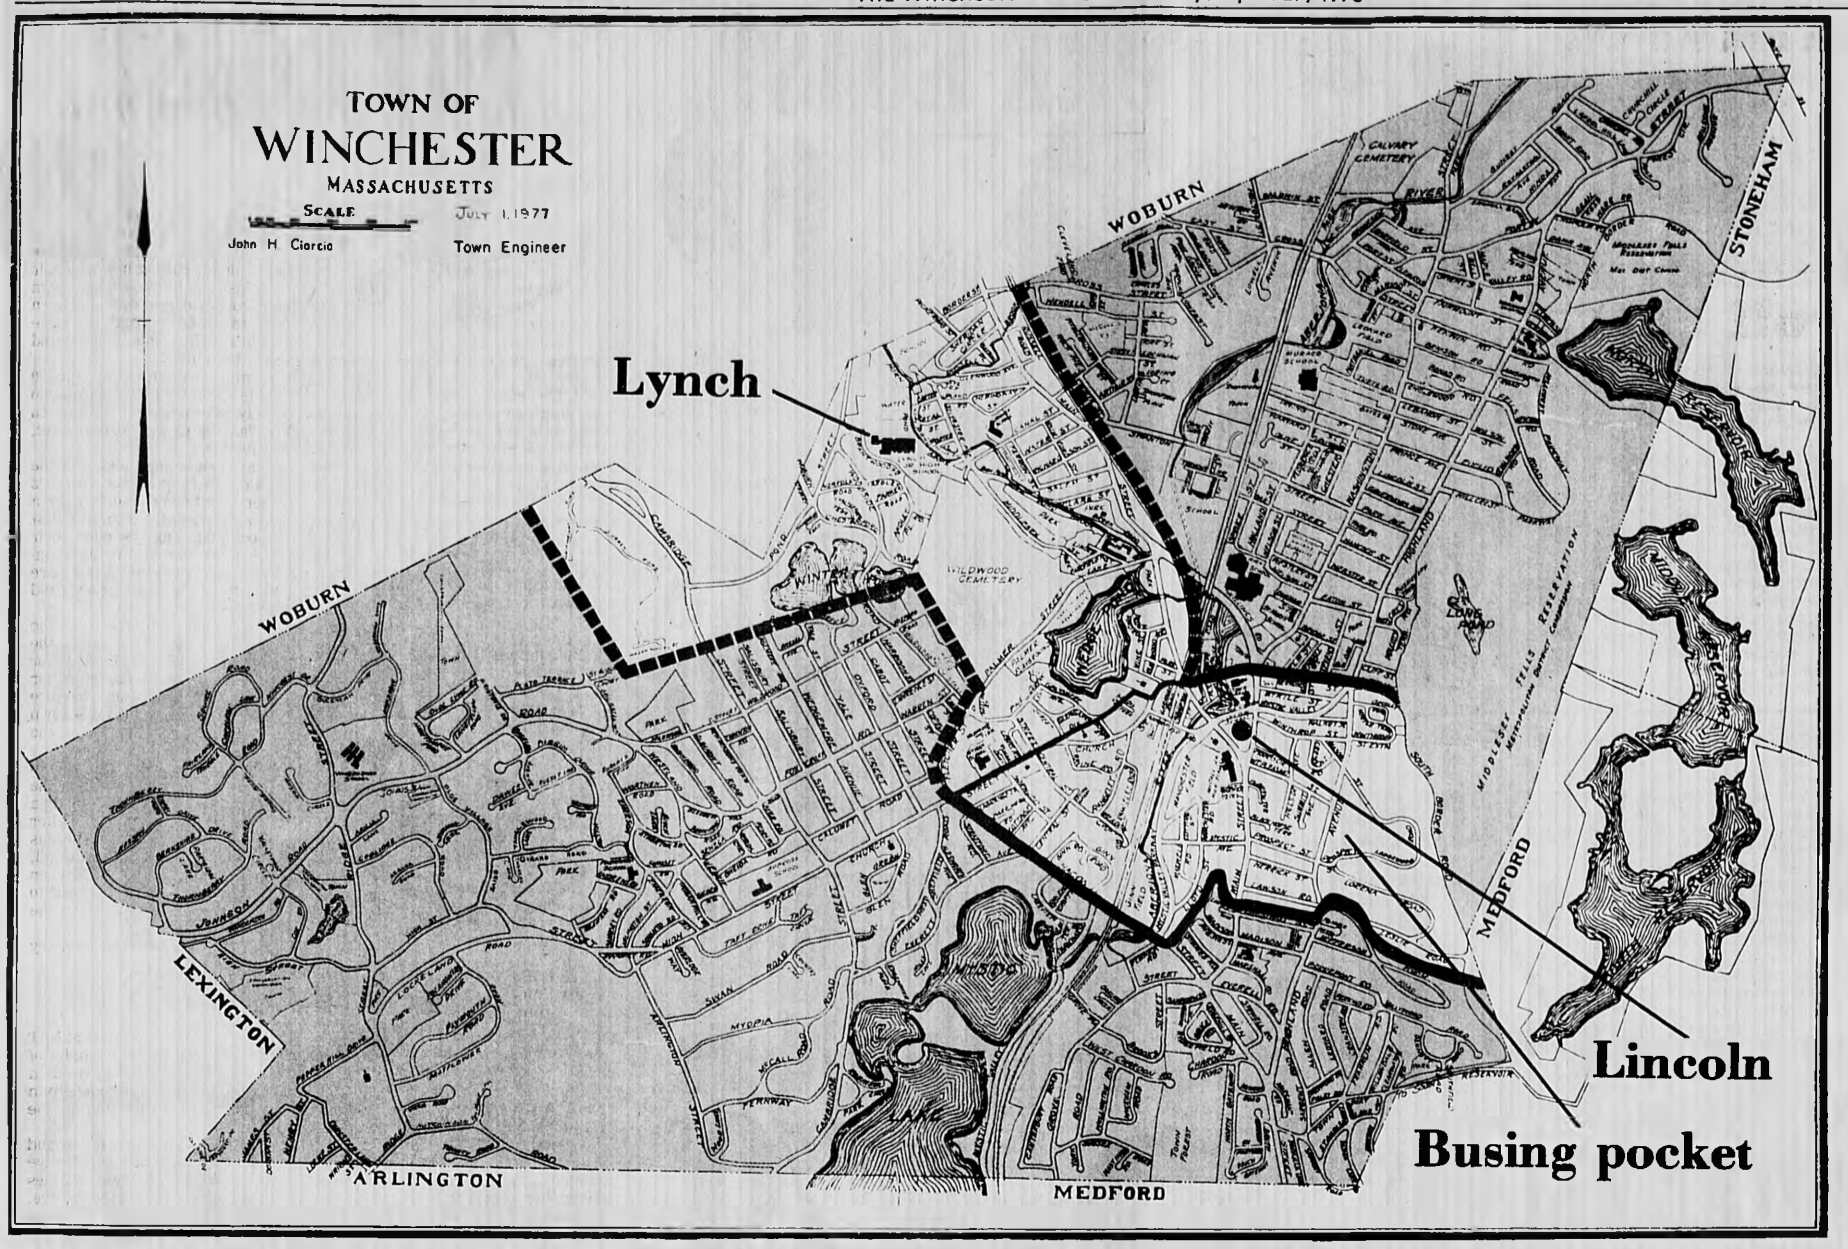
"Alex" heard the racket occasioned by the pig's escape and naturally went out to investigate. Arriving upon the scene he met Officer James Donaghey of the police who during the recent enforcement of the "dog law" acquired rather more than a passing reputation as a catcher of quadrupeds. Officer Donaghey admitted that pigs were a bit out of his line but was willing to do his best.

Meanwhile reinforcements in the persons of Officers Robert White and Mark Kelley had arrived upon the battleground and the three patrolmen advanced in skirmish formation upon the 350-pound pig, who was viewing the blue coats very much askance.

The resulting action was neither too brief nor too bloody but it was interesting with the vocal efforts of the thoroughly frightened porker by no means the least among the features of the fray.

Just who actually tossed the pig for the well known goal is not known. Each of the policemen contributed certain elemental parts which led to the successful whole. Sergt William Rogers arrived and immediately went into action. So also, according to report, did Robert Fay, well known member of Box 53 Association and vice-president of the Exchange Trust Company of Boston. It goes without saying that "Alex did his bit, but "Bill" Nicholson, recently recovered from a severe illness, felt it the part of prudence to remain on the sidelines, offering, however, valuable advice from a world of experience gathered during the years he was sailing "out o' Gloucester."

We will draw the curtain upon the details Suffice to say that the pig was finally captured and firmly hogtied to await the return of his owner. The animal was finally removed and the police returned to less arduous pursuits in the round of their daily duty.



BUSING POCKET—The white area above shows the Lynch school district in 1980 under Plan II, with the Lincoln School closed and Lynch converted from a junior high to an elementary school. Area enclosed in solid line (below Church and Dix streets) is the busing pocket which task force report says would be created under this plan. An estimated 164 students would have to be bused from here to Lynch. Dotted line surrounds rest of Lynch district in 1980.

It seems clear that the effort to maintain neighborhood schools is foremost in most residents' minds. What is unclear is what effect the busing pocket would have on that concept. And central to that question is another: is Lincoln a neighborhood school?

Some residents feel the school is too large and too centrally located to be considered a neighborhood school. They point to the fact that Lincoln was designed as a secondary school and seem to feel the downtown area is not really a neighborhood.

Parents at the Lincoln School feel quite differently. They comment on the central location as providing access to town facilities, and, of course, their children can walk to school and become familiar with the neighborhood they live in.

"I don't like it (the busing plan), we've got a neighborhood school, I don't see any need for the busing," says Barbara Potter, a Lincoln parent whose children were transferred from the smaller Wyman School when that school was closed last year.

Mrs. Potter is not opposed to busing per se, but she is opposed to converting Lynch Junior High to an elementary school. "If there was a need, I wouldn't object, but I don't see a need... My main objection is that I don't want to lose a neighborhood school. She is also concerned that a "verbal commitment" was made to Wyman parents that their children would not be moved again.

Another ex-Wyman parent at Lincoln, Susan Guild, says she is "extremely happy" at Lincoln. "It's obviously ridiculous when you have a central school to take children across town to school." Mrs. Guild said she didn't particularly like busing and noted that some parents move around to avoid having to bus their children to school.

"We need simple long range planning and some plain common sense," she concluded.

A much different view is expressed by Washington parent Mary Ann O'Callaghan. She is a realtor; also, her children are already bused to school.

"I don't think it (the busing pocket) can be taken into consideration when closing a school," she said, pointing to other issues as more important in the long run.

Mrs. O'Callaghan feels more wieght should be given to population movements and trends and housing data. According to her the potential for development in the Washington district is much greater than the Lincoln district. She feels population trends might very well eliminate the busing pocket, or move it somewhere else in the long run. "If the house lots in the Washington area are developed you're going to have a big problem at Muraco," (where Washington students would go if their school is closed she adds.

She too favors neighborhood schools and doesn't seem to feel Lincoln fits that category, nor does she feel that creating a busing pocket does much damage to the concept.

"We should leave the schools in the periphery of town open, so there's some pattern, some semblance of a direction. If you leave a school open just to meet the present needs, then you're not making a long range plan," she said.

As for real estate values, Mrs. O'Callaghan said she is "rarely asked by customers if the children will be bused, but I am asked if we have neighborhood schools."

Frank Golden, another Washington parent who, along with Mrs. O'Callaghan was on the long range task force, admits the busing pocket is the major weakness in the plan to close Lincoln.

(The Washington parents first suggested this possibility last fall after the middle schoool study committee came up with various proposals for closing schools.)

But Golden feels the effect of busing on real estate values "may be a wash" when set against the effect of school closings in general on the town. And he notes that in terms of how many children will have to be redistrictred overall, the plan to close Washington calls for less disruption.

(Besides the busing, if Lincoln were closed, about 40 children would have to be redistrictred. If Washington is closed, between 178-229 children would have to be moved around, not including the students in those two schools.)

"I'm not wild about a plan that in the long run would mean you'd have a busing pocket," commented school board member Sandra Rodgers, "but there are a lot of other things we're going to have to take into consideration." She stated the issue this way: "Are we going to adhere to a neighborhood school concept or go with the most cost efficient system? I feel the town leans toward the neighborhood concept."

School committee notes

High school rules

Students at the high school who choose to misbehave during the last part of the spring term will be missing out on some of the traditional spring festivities.

The school board Monday night approved a memo from Principal Vincent Larocco asking that students be barred from class night, the prom, and graduation ceremonies instead of being suspended for misbehavior.

The rule, which the school committee insisted be strictly enforced, reads:

"If any suspension is deemed necessary for any disciplinary action at the end of the school year, and that suspension would require that the student miss part or all of his exams, the suspension from school rule would be replaced waived and would be replaced by suspension from all closing activities including class night, the prom, and the graduation ceremonies.

"Behavior at an approved senior activity — class night or the prom — which would normally require suspension as a disciplinary action would instead result in the student not participating in any remaining school activities, including the graduation ceremonies."

Personnel

Ambrose Principal Robert Forest will be taking a sabbatical next year to pursue a doctoral program at Boston University in reading and language arts.

The sabbatical request was approved unanimously by the school board Monday night. One of the requirements of the BU program, according to the administration, is that Forest be in residence at BU for a year.

Forest had originally planned to take the leave in 1979. However, because of the potential changes caused by school closings starting in 1979, Forest decided to ask for the sabbatical this coming year, when the situation at Ambrose is stable, according to the school board.

COPPER POISONING

The latest threat to health is copper poisoning caused from the copper pipes in the home. The soft water from the Winchester water supply and the M.D.C. system is very corrosive to pipes and plumbing. Adding chlorine and fluoride to the water greatly increases the release of this copper sulfate poison.

The following is part of a letter from a Medical Laboratory to a 27 year old patient:

I spoke to Dr. Jones about your copper level. He said that 147 is definitely high. Your physician may be accustomed to seeing copper levels that high, because people drinking Boston water tend to accumulate high levels of copper. I feel you should be concerned about the fact that your copper level has gone up despite adequate supplements. It seems reasonable that your tap water is the culprit.

Many people have copper poisoning but are not aware of it. The symptoms are fatigue, nervous tension, depression and hypertension. Drinking water from public buildings and school fountains contain a much higher amount of copper poison than most other places.

Mr. Robeck from the EPA said, "If they don't have people getting sick or, as we jokingly say, dropping dead on the sidewalk, we have difficulty getting complete support for the suggestions that we have. And it's unfortunate, but a lot of people tie into an epidemic sort of attitude, and if their people aren't getting typhoid or cholera or something like this, all these subtle things that come from chemicals, the carcinogens, that show up 20 or 30 years later are very difficult to convince people." The copper poisoning from copper pipes is also the result of long term buildups.

The new EPA regulations from the Clean Water Act is to purify the water supply at the Reservoir with carbon filtration while most of the problems are in the distribution system. The chemical carcinogens may be reduced but the heavy metals from pipe corrosion, copper poisoning and drinking chlorinated water will continue to be health hazards with this system.

Only purifying the water with carbon at the kitchen sink can remove all of the toxic chemicals and pipe corrosion from the entire water works system including the chlorine. Home Water Purification will some day be given a tax break because it does the job completely and is the most effective way of purifying tap water. The government can save a lot of time, effort and our money in Home Water Purification devices rather than expensive and ineffective Municipal Water Filtration Systems.

The water problems are real and serious so why gamble with health from toxic impurities in water that will eventually have its ill effects. The prevention makes much more sense than finding expensive cures.

Drinking lots of clean water keeps the body clean, which is the secret of good health. This makes the Multi-Pure drinking water system a definite health unit as it thoroughly cleans tap drinking water. Good health for better family living is our goal. Handling Home Water Purifiers to filter out harmful impurities and chemicals in tap water is a positive way of reaching this goal.

Your family deserves the best in home water purification with the Multi-Pure drinking water system at $179.95 with free installation, a small price to pay for better health.

Lincoln Garden Club flower show

The Lincoln Garden Club, as part of their 50th anniversary year celebration, will have a show of Period Flower Arrangements at the historic Codman House, Codman road, Lincoln, May 17 and 18.

This 18th century mansion lends itself to the project. The Codman House, preserved as it was received by the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities, has a collection of family furnishings of various periods and styles showing changes in tastes through successive generations of the Codman family.

There also will be an opportunity to visit the restored Italian garden and the extensive grounds under shade trees. The newly planted herb garden, this year's Lincoln Garden Club project and gift to the Codman House, will also be shown.

A preview will be on May 17 from noon to 4 o'clock. A box lunch will be served at noon. Admission to this event is by advanced reservation only until May 8. Tickets are $6.50 each.

There will be general admission on May 18, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Refreshments will be served through the day. Tickets at the door will be $3 and by advanced reservation, $2.50. For all reservations send checks and self addressed stamped envelopes to Box 191, Lincoln, 01773.

Proceeds to benefit Codman House and Garden.

New England family history seminars set

For the third consecutive year, the New England Hisotric Genealogical Society (NEHGS) will co-sponsor with Brandeis Univesity a summer program on New England family history. The seminar will be held July 9-21 at Brandeis University, Waltham, Massachusetts.

The two-week course will introduce participants to important research topics and acquaint them with key ways to study New England local and family history. During the seminar, the period 1620-1900 will be under special scrutiny.

While pursuing a particular family line, the participants will avail themselves of various Boston resources, including the NEHGS library and other research archives. Seminar leaders will advise students who live outside of the New England area on ways to continue their research in their home towns and cities.

There will be lectures covering the gamut of gnealogical sources; Peter Drummey will discuss problems in using manuscript materials and Ralph Van Wood will show how to effectively use vital, census court, church, and other official records. In an evening lecture, Peter Benes, an authority on seventeenth and eighteenth century gravestones, will speak on "Graven Images."

One highlight of the seminar will be a day trip to Plimoth Plantation, the reconstructed settlement at Plymouth, Massachusetts. After a day of touring with special guides, the group will unwind with an authentic New England clambake.

For further information or to register, write the Office of Continuing Studies, Brandeis Univesity, Waltham, Mass. 0 154. Enrollment is limited and early applicatrion is encouraged.

It makes sense to shop Mahoney's first! And it'll save you dollars too.

LOOKING? KEEP A RECORD

Buying a home is a big investment and involves major decisions. So, it's understandable why so much time and care is taken when looking for a home that's right for you. No one knows this better than your local Realtor.

Once the Realtor takes on the assignment of finding you a home, he'll probably show you several. Therefore, it's important to take notes on what you have seen or you may forget which home is where, how big it is, what shape it's in, and how much it costs.

Your Realtor can provide you with a checklist to make this important task easier. This way, you can rate each home as you see it and instantly recall the location, price, construction, number of rooms, heat, fuel, taxes, and financial requirements. If you have a Polaroid picture of the house to go with the notes — so much the better when describing it to your other half.

In all your real estate needs—buying—selling—rentals—appraisals—consultation—please phone or drop in at ANN BLACKHAM & CO., 11 THOMPSON ST., WINCHESTER. PHONE 729-1663. We're here to help!

Is it true that the community really did not know what was going on? CRS conversations indicated that the minority community has long been aware of the racial insensitivity, but somehow there was no vehicle to communicate their concerns in a manner to give it a high enough priority so that something would be done about it. But this latest incident, in their opinion, makes it an undeniable fact that racism permeates the school system and is going unchecked.

The next question is whether the problems were ignored, rationalized, or whether there was a lack of expertise, knowledge, and wisdom to deal with them? Numerous people said if they had known sooner, they could have done something about it. The question is what would they have done, and why isn't there some kind of barometer within the school system to measure the amount of potential or actual racial insensitivity.

Were there barometer readings to indicate the level of racial insensitivity that could have been utilized by the educational leadership? Our conversations indicate several incidents, if analyzed, would have demonstrated racial insensitivity. These include the following:

1. The metco referenda
2. An alleged media report of a conflict between a black and white, which gave specifics about the black and almost no information about the white.
3. Alleged incidents of harrassment that took place in the school parking lot
4. The recent Charlene Clinton incident.

These incidents seem to be isolated, but they are related. These problems have antecedents and roots which are a part of a cancerous condition called racism, according to the black parents who indicated that they also have experienced racial insensitivity in Winchester.

Problems

CRS conversations indicate some of the problems that should be given serious consideration in developing corrective action to deal with racial insensitivity are the following:

1. Lack of a strong policy statement supporting an institutionalized programmatic approach to deal with racial insensitivity.
3. Lack of a system of monitoring racial tension within and outside the educational community.
4. Lack of awareness of the significance of the problems in the non-educational community as they relate to the educational community.
5. Lack of fellow teacher awareness of the problems the black teacher was having.
6. Incidents of name calling, of throwing food around the cafeteria, without proper supervision and-or corrective discipline.
7. Some of the minority students indicate that the "leather jackets" concept persists, in spite of the fact that many of the group members have graduated from the school. The behavior is described as the kind that is looking for and precipitates conflicts between blacks and whites.
8. Some of the minorities indicate that, as guys, they have no trouble socializing with the white girls, but with the white boys, there seems to be a problem.
9. Some of the minorities indicate that they have problems with white students leaving school, pulling up in their cars, and yelling out racial epithets.
10. Some of the minorities complain that many of the white students know nothing about their culture, and that they have to provide an experiental education for some of them; they feel it should be the school's responsibility to reinforce this through policies and programs that help institutionalize the minority experience so that the burden is not all on them.
11. Some of the ABC students indicate that they feel like outsiders to the resident blacks and some of the whites. They indicated that they feel the unspoken message from the blacks is "I'm not going to help you. See if you can make it without my help."

CRS asked several from the school staff what they felt had been learned from the incident and its aftermath:

1. The indication was that racial prejudice is alive and well and exists without a doubt.
2. For a long time they have been lulled into a sense of security about this whole thing, but it is more serious and endemic than they realize.
3. There is a lack of discipline within the school that helps to create the climate that allows the expression of racial insensitivity.
4. The need for the administration to support discipline and corrective action, rather than avoid them.
5. A need for an exchange program for teachers and students: they suggested white teachers and white students need to go live, work, and study in minority communities to gain experience to provide them with the wisdom to help them apply their knowledge with a sense of moral responsibility. Furthermore, they raised the question whether they are only educating students to live and work with people just like themselves, or are they educating students to deal with the national and international realities which are vital to the national interest.

Recommendations

CRS assessment and recommendations are primarily focused on supporting those positive elements in the community who recognize the need for change and who are asking for policies, methods, and expertise to assist them in bringing about increased racial sensitivity for the Winchester community. This is predicated on the notion that some people have stated that they are willing to do something, but they need help and support.

Recommendations are the following:

1. Policy Statement—There needs to be a strong policy statement from the school committee, with a mechanism established to increase accountability to the school committee, for maintaining a healthy racial climate. The policy statement would institutionalize the fact that healthy race relations are part of the educational responsibility of all school staff. Part of this rationale is that they must be able to respond appropriately to international, national, and local inquiries about the racial climate in the school system, which affects the image of the total Winchester community.
2. The Superintendent should take the policy statement and develop a mechanism that requires increased racial accountability from the principals of their respective schools, in order to assist him in reporting the racial state of affairs within the school system to the school committee.
3. Each principal should be required to utilize the mechanism developed by the superintendent in his own school, in order to get greater accountability from his supervisors, teachers, custodians, cafeteria personnel as to the state of race relations within the school. This will be to avoid the position of not knowing what is going on before it reaches crisis proportions.
4. Affirmative Action—To recruit minority personnel at all levels and to provide orientation and training for non-minority personnel to support their entry into the system, and to further sustain them.
5. Human Relations—To develop a human relations committee composed of non-school and school representatives, to provide a mechanism for dealing with human relations problems within the school, as well as to develop a support system outside the school, to deal with the notion that the school is a reflection of the community. This group could make recommendations to the superintendent to assist in enhancing and bringing about a positive racial climate in the school and the larger community. As a follow-up to the recommendations of the human relations committee, it is suggested that at least a monthly meeting take place with representation from:
   a. The Superintendent
   b. Principals
   c. Supervisors
   d. Teachers
   e. Students
   f. Custodians
   g. Cafeteria Workers

This would essentially be an implementation, or an action, group, to see that the policies and programs are carried out. The major point here is that everybody has to be involved.

6. Curriculum—Curriculum should be inclusive of the minority experience, rather than a separate entity; i.e., minority literature, etc., because, as indicated by some students, they feel that many white students who need this experience do not sign up for such programs. In some cases these offerings may be dropped if there are not enough students.
7. Discipline—There needs to be an evaluation of discipline as it relates to supporting the educational climate and strengthening a positive racial climate.
8. The Inter-Relationship of the non-educational community and the educational community—To deal with this relationship, once the human relations committee is set up, members should be directed to go out and talk to civil groups (Kiwanis, Lions Club, League of Women Voters, Church Social Responsibility Groups, Parents' Groups, etc.) to gain support and interpret the school's policy and programs aimed at enhancing positive race relations.

How To Implement
The Recommendations

The thesis is that there needs to be some kind of barometer to assess the ongoing climate to be used as a basis for determining the areas that need additional support or corrective action.

1. There should be a school-system-wide assessment of the racial climate.
2. There needs to be a directive requiring all school personnel to report incidents, whether they think they are racial or not. This should be done in each school, so that the principal can have an over-all view of what is going on, rather than seeing some of these things as isolated incidents.
3. Each principal should be required to report incidents on a regular basis within his school to the superintendent, so that the superintendent can have an over-all view of what is going on, rather than seeing incidents as being isolated.
4. The identification and reporting of incidents would help to provide a frame of reference for corrective action, prior to a crisis situation.
5. The superintendent would then be able to give a comprehensive report to the school committee on how the policy is being carried out, what the problems are, and what has been done to correct them, thus assuring further accountability for improving or creating a positive racial climate.

To assist superintendents, administrators, and other school personnel to carry out the policy and increase accountability, the school committee should authorize training in:

1. Affirmative Action
2. Human Relations
3. Incorporation of minority experience into curriculum.
4. How to deal with discipline problems.

mitted a list of requests to the school administration, including:

— Formation of a strong policy against discrimination and all forms of racism in the school system;

— That the administration actively recruit minority candidates for the system, and that an exchange program be initiated to bring minority teachers and speakers into the community;

— And that a human relations program be set up for students, staff, and parents.

Speaking for the parents Monday night, Dr. Harris Gibson said it was "unfortunate" that the school board had not taken the lead in setting policy before the resignation of Mrs. Clinton at the high school. "Perhaps you didn't know the magnitude of the problem," he said.

The draft policy says the board endorses a policy of equal opportunity and seeks to comply with state and federal affirmative action laws regarding employment practices, educational programs, and the activities of the school system. It further notes a policy of non-discrimination in hiring and concludes:

"The committee recognizes that the major functions of the Winchester Public Schools are to provide the best possible education for all of the children in Winchester and to guide them toward becoming responsible citizens in a pluralistic society. To these ends the choice and use of instructional materials within the schools shall be guided by the needs of members of both sexes and the aspirations of each racial, religious, and cultural group within the Winchester community; finally, no one within the school system shall be denied access for reasons of race, color, sex, religion or national origin to any educational programs and activities, or to the opportunities and advantages they provide."

The policy was accompanied by a regulation laying out a grievance procedure

The parents' major objections were that the policy statement does not go far enough in laying out what the administration plans to do to implement the policy.

Dr. Gibson urged that "even cultures not in Winchester should be explored" and said that to ignore the problems of other communities "is tantamount to the ostrich phenomenon."

Another parent, Lois Anderson, pointed out that the policy does not spell out who is to implement it, how it will be implemented, and what procedures there will be for accountability. Sarah Ward, who said she had taken her children out of the public schools because of the "misrepresentation of the culture in the curriculum," complained that the grievance procedure put black parents on the defensive.

"I don't want to have to come in later on and have to fight you, embarrass my children, and take the grief for what you won't do in the first place," she told the committee.

Added T.J. Anderson, "It is the responsibility of this committee to set a racial climate, to show that there will be no tolerance of racism. Leadership has to start at the top, not the bottom."

The attitude of the black parents was supported at the meeting by comments from several white parents in the audience. One said he was "astounded" that the committee had waited so long to implement any affirmative action policy.

Said another, Allegra Atkinson, "I share their feelings. I think the white community will benefit from the kinds of things our black neighbors have asked us to do."

Committee Chairman Constance Papas defended the policy draft, noting "there is a difference between a policy statement and the implementation of that statement." She said the policy was a "first step" to be followed by more concrete action on the part of the administration.

Wall, roof leaks disputed

Funds sought for high school suit

A $20,000 appropriation at town meeting to defray litigation expenses in investigating the high school construction could bring the total amount spent for litigation by the town since July 1976 to $62,500. The figure is expected to rise, as Town Counsel Douglas Randall indicated the case may take years to settle.

Randall explained that an original suit was filed by the White Construction Company, contractors of the high school, suing the town to recover $136,000 in construction fees.

At that time Randall filed a counter suit in excess of $1 million for faulty construction of the building against the firm.

Presently the high school's architects, Brown, Fisher, and Nickerson, are also named in the suit. The law firm of Hill and Barlow in Boston has taken charge of the case because, Randall said, the litigation is too time consuming to include with town counsel's other duties.

White Construction Company could not be contacted for comment.

Town Comptroller A. J. Faggiano said expenses for the services of Hill and Barlow have totaled $20,626.72 to date.

Other expenses include $13,851.57 to the engineering firm Simpson, Gumpertz, and Hegger to investigate the faulty construction claims. Faggiano said there are bills pending that will absorb the remaining $5525.71 in the litigation account.

Town Manager Thomas Groux has asked for an additional $2500 in funds to cover this year's expenses.

These expenses, along with the $20,000 article appropriation would bring the total figure to $62,500.

Randall called the window leakage "an extremely complex problem," adding that several windows had been replaced to try to stop the leakage with no success.

The design of the window structure itself is in question, since all mechanical methods of solving the problem have been explored by the contractor to no avail, Randall said.

Other problems with waterproofing have shown up since the opening of the school in 1973.

Bob Frank, outgoing member of the secondary school building committee, said it appears the waterproofing of the roof has been improperly installed. The tar paper on the roof is shrinking, indicating the potenial for further leaks.

Tied in with the leakage problems, Randall said a faulty ventlation system was causing moisture to seep into the building. This problem appears to have been solved, he said, by reducing pressure in the basement of the building.

Simpson, Gumpertz, and Hegger, was appointed to investigate the alleged construction problems. Randall said the firm has already completed the "discovery stages" of investigation, and is now ready to submit their findings in a master's hearing.

Randall said the content of the report is not public at this time.

The master's hearing, a procedure often used when a case contains a great deal of technical information, is scheduled to be held on or before July 5.

If the case is not settled out of court, the master's hearing could last one year.

The question of when to repair the building is being considered by the permanent building committee.

Chairman Ron Milauskas said the committee has not taken a formal vote to do repairs. "It's a constant source of discussion," he said. "We have to identify all the contributors of to the problem. We also want to observe test repair areas under storm conditions."

Milauskas said if settlement of the suit is delayed, the committee might ask the town for funds necessary for repairs.

"We could ask for a special town meeting as soon as we are convinced that the technical problems are solved," he said.

Milauskas said he has been instructed by counsel to not disclose a dollar figure for the repairs.

Randall said the amount of repairs to be done will be a judgmental question.

"Has the educational process at the school been impeded? No." Randall said. "I think it's against public interest to cast a black pall against the building."

Having exceeded The Star's preferred 250 word length letter— a limit I would gladly observe if there were as many no-cost letters to the editor as there are columns of paid advertisements—let me advance the mere outline of a tantalizing idea: Have a referendum on the question, "In favor of limiting the rise in town taxes, vote Yes."

Having overwhelimingly approved this resolution, reduce the school committee and other boards to an advisory capacity and elect the school superintendent and town manager for a term of three-five years by open popular election. Mandate these officials to devise and implement all steps necessary to minimize the tax burden. Empower them to close schools, limit services, negotiate wage contracts, fire inefficient employees, etc. Offer them a pay incentive based on actual cost reduction. And if you then feel they are too merciless, vote them out of office when their term expires. Proctor & Gamble, G.M., IBM, etc. don't use a Neilson popularity poll internally to achieve their performance, they use a system very much like this proposal. Try it, you may like it.

Inaccurate

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

In order to evaluate the charges made against the legal system of Israel, more information is required than appeared in Ms. Terzaghi's letter Apr. 6. I would like to present some facts on this matter which were obtained from the Embassy of Israel and are up to date as of Mar. 27.

Ms. Terre Fleener was arrested on Oct. 25, 1977 upon arrival in Israel on charges of espionage. Warrants for her detention were legally obtained on Oct. 27 and renewed until her indictment on Nov. 22. The US Consulate was informed of her arrest on Oct. 27 and she was visited by a US Consular representative on Oct. 28. She rejected the list of legal counsel offered by the representative and selected her own legal representative. Israeli law does not permit release on bail of persons accused of espionage.

Ms. Fleener was accused of passing information to the enemy knowing that this information would be helpful to the enemy and aiding an enemy organization. It must be remembered that Israel is in a state of war and subject to frequent loss of life as a result of hostile activities by such enemy organizations. Ms. Fleener pleaded guilty to the charges in court. Although Ms. Fleener's trial was not open to the public, two representatives of the United States Embassy were present throughout the trial. Maximum penalty for the charges total 25 years. Ms. Fleener was sentenced to five years in prison. It should be noted that Ms. Fleener has the right to appeal the sentence to the Israeli High Court.

Mr. Sami Esmail is an American citizen who was indicated in Israel for membership in an illegal organization (an offense under Section 85 of the Defense Regulations) and for contact with an enemy agent — an offense of the Criminal Law (Security of the State).

Specifically, Mr. Esmail is accused of membership in the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, an organization based in the Middle East. This terrorist organization, which aims to fight "world imperialism, Zionism and the State of Isael," also believes in pursuing its ends through violent acts against civilians. This organization is responsile for the highjacking of the Air France airbus to Entebbe, the massacre of Puerto Rican pilgrims at Lod Airport, the midair destruction of a Swissair plane, killing 47 people, and many other acts of terrorism against Israel.

Following the Sadat initiative, the "Front," in rejection of it announced on Dec. 4, 1977 that terrorists would "pour across the borders (of Israel)...they will strike in Jerusalem and Haifa."

Mr. Esmail is accused of having undergone sabotage and weapons training on behalf of this organization in Libya. The US State Department has confirmed that 200-300 US students from the US took part in terror training camps in the summer of 1976. In Israel, it is a crime to belong to such an organization and Israel believes that it has the right to hold and investigate all suspected members of such an organization who attempt to cross its borders.

Ms. Terzaghi's statements imply that Mr. Esmail has been denied due process of law. The following is the actual record of events. Mr. Esmail was arrested on Dec. 21, 1977 on arrival at Ben-Gurion Air Port. He did not request to be visited by a US Consular official and the first such visit on Dec. 25 took place at the initiative of the police. Since then he has been visited regularly by US officials. During questioning by police he admitted the following facts:

1) In 1976 he was recruited in the US to the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine and provided with a false name.

2) In August, 1976 he was sent, at the expense of the "Front," to an intensive training camp in Libya. He was trained by Libyan instructors in the use of explosives, arms, and hand grenades, and in the preparation of explosives for purposes of sabotage and terror.

He wrote his own confession and also signed a confession in Hebrew which was fully translated.

Mr. Esmail was offered both legal assistance in accordance with his own choice. Although Mr. Esmail later claimed that he was forced into a confession, a "trial within a trial' on Mar. 14-15 concluded that there had been no force used, psychological or otherwise. In any case, in the criminal justice system of Israel, a confession is not in itself sufficient evidence for conviction. Further, under Israeli law, the onus of proof is on the prosecution; the defendant is presumed innocent until proven guilty.

In response to allegations of ill-treatment, the US Embassy in Tel Aviv requested an investigation of them. The investigation showed that no physical force or offensive behaviour was used during questioning and that his arrest, detention and questioning were in full compliance with police ad judicial regulations. Further, a US State Department official is quoted as saying that "his (Esmail's) interpretation of his treatment is that it is not bad." Esmail has been visited regularly by US Consular officials.

This year's state department "Report of Human Rights in Israel" states the following:

"Israel is a full-fledged parliamentary democracy, and the criterion applied in preparing the following report is the same as those applied to an assessment of human rights in the US..."

The report stated that:

"The use of torture in Israel is prohibited by law and is virtually unknown...Cruel, inhuman, or degrading punishment is not practiced."

It is indeed unfortunate that these two people are in prison, one convicted, the other on trial. However, US citizenship does not protect them if they violate laws of other lands. The accepted principle of international law is that a country has criminal jurisdiction over all persons, of whatever nationality, within its borders. Given that Israel is surrounded by hostile nations and outnumbered 300 to 1, precautions against terrorism and espionage are understandable.

The situation in the Middle East is tragic for all parties. Would that civilization had progressed further. Fact, reason and problem solving are the only promising strategies for peace. Presenting inaccurate information to the public is not helpful to the cause of peace, nor is it consistent with our American values.

Doberman returned

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Last Saturday morning, my Doberman Pincher decided to do a little exploring. Last report about 12:30, I was told dog was headed for Stoneham. Apparently this Doberman fearful of being caught by Officer Dom Molea in Winchester, decided Stoneham was safer territory.

It was only last February this Doberman explored Winchester - was lost for several days, but due to efforts of Officer Dom Molea, a Sherlock Holmes type, finally located this dog and returned him to my son Chuck. We were in Florida and had no knowledge of his escapade. Chuck realizing my deep attachment for this dog, and fearing my reprimand if Doberman was not found, called our Winchester dog officer who responded with recovery of this Doberman.

Episode of last Saturday was a heartbreaking one for me, due to my negligence I hurriedly left Saturday morning to estimate three large projects in Stoneham - thus not being certain of correctly tying dog to 40 foot chain. On my return he was gone. I called Winchester Police Officer Parson who placed it on the blotter and notified Mr. Molea. I called Stoneham police. They told me I would have to call dog officer. I did and received a recording message, that I would be called back. I was never called back.

I recall at this moment a dog called Laddie - my dog of 15-years-ago - a mongrel - who was intelligent and obedient. His greatest passion was hatred of rats. At that time we had a steer, grain always in the barn for feed, naturally rats followed. This Laddie must of killed 15 of them. It proves that dogs services to man are unlimited. They say a dog is mans' best friend - this fact accepted by many but to dog haters - no - a dog is like a human being, self preservation is a priority - striking a dog or a human being will provoke attack.

Completing my story - Monday evening about 7:30 p.m. - I received a call from a Mr. Lewis in regard a Doberman Pincher. It proved to be mine. I asked him how did you find out who the possible owner was? He stated he called police departments, first was Stoneham, they replied we do not know of a missing dog. If they had placed it on their blotter and conveyed same message to dog officer, they would know. However, when he called Winchester he was told of my dog's escape. I was called, and got my pet safely back - of course tired and bewildered. So thank Heavens for Officer Dom Molea and officers of our police force, the best in the state.

For those who lose their pets - remember with all this gas pollution, especially when a dog is on the wrong side of Interstate 93, finding home is difficult.

Call to vets

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

If ever there was a time when all veterans and dependents should act in unison to protec the VA medical system from sweeping insensitive budget slashes that time is now!

If we don't take immediate action, every single one of us, we can be assured that the administration and its office of management and budget will further encroach on the scope and quality of VA health care we have earned the right to expect.

Right now a VA budget is being considered by the congressional appropriations committees that would carve into the very muscle of the VA health care system with severe and damaging consequences.

Of acute concern to us are cutbacks that would include trimming 3132 operating beds from the VA hospital system, a move that would result in a monetary loss of $32.3 million and the loss of 1500 full-time jobs; elimination of medical, prosthetic, and rehabilitative research activities at 64 VA medical facilities, reprsenting a monetary loss of $18.3 million, loss of 245 full-time jobs, and indirect creation of some rather grim problems in physician recruiting and other areas crucial to providing quality health care: and a $236.5 million shortfall in programs for hospital construction and improvements of nursing care, outpatient, and domiciliary facilities.

These are serious problems. Each one of us must write to our Congressmen and Senators, protesting these cutbacks in the strongest terms.

Your action as an individual member will be required, if we are to win this critical battle. So write your Congressman and Senators today. Don't put it off. It's urgent that you act immediately. Under this cutback, the VA hospital in Bedford stands to lose 34 beds.

Let me give you a quote as to our national commander's thoughts on this drastic measure:

"I'm alarmed that such massive reductions could be seriously considered at a time when veterans of World War II are approaching retirement age in large numbers. Needless to say, the medical needs of this group of veterans are escalating rapidly, as in the ties suffered by 1.3 million World War II veternas. I fail to see how the VA can possibly meet the mushrooming demands the future will surely place on its medical system if one administration after another insists on shrinking the system's size and capability.

"I find the VA's arguments that these bed closings are necessary to eliminate overcrowding, improve patient privacy, and correct fire and safety hazards completely unconvincing. In a limited number of cases, this may be true. But overall, I see these excuses as a smoke screen designed to disguise an attempt to weaken the VA medical system, making it an easy mark for predators in other Federal agencies."

I appeal to all veterans of all organizations to act now. If there are any veterans in Winchester and Woburn who are eligible for membership in the Disabled American Veterans and would like to join, please contact me by mail or phone and I will see to it that you become a member. I am sure that there are a good many of you who are eligible and could belong, but don't take the time to do so. You leave it up to others to do the work for you.

They say that in numbers there is strength. We need to band together, more than ever now. If we don't, everything we have fought for and won, will be taken away from us, slowly but surely. This goes for all veterans, not only the disabled. Join some organization, I don't care which one, as long as its one of them.

Workshop commended

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

My husband and I want to publicly commend Dick Noonan of the Music Workshop on Shore road and his associates, Tom and Paul Orsillo for the work they have contributed to several young men in helping them grow from novice musicians into a confident competent rock group calling themselves "Clear Darkness." Were more of us as generous with our time to youngsters as these men, Winchester would be the better for it.

Last year our son, Mark, began taking weekly lessons with Dick on the guitar. In the fall, he announced that several friends were joining him for additional group lessons which often ran two-three hours at the Music Workshop. To our surprise, we learned that Dick was not charging for these lessons as he was using this group to test the idea of starting lessons for musical groups. Dozens of hours over the past eight months have been contributed by Dick, Tom and Paul to this end.

At the cast party following the McCall Junior High production of "Oklahoma," Clear Darkness made its debut with Dick and some of us proud, but apprehensive, parents observing. Dick had bought each member of the group a neat Music Workshop tee shirt and lent them his expensive amplifier system for the occasion. What we witnessed was the transformation of these neophyte musicians into a self-assured accomplished group.

As parents of one of the group, we are most impressed with the kind of men that Dick and his associates are and heartily recommend them.

Ban the blade

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Every time I pick up the newspaper these days, somebody or some group is trying to ban something. Today it's guns again! (tomorrow probably saying the Pledge of Allegiance in school).

Don't these groups ever get the message? The gun bill was defeated 2-to-1 by the voters in Massachusetts and would probably have had larger defeats elsewhere within this country.

Now James (Jesse or Earl) Carter (who is our President — 1 percent of Massachusetts voters don't recognize his name — recent WBZ-TV poll result) wants to propose putting coded numbers on guns through Congressional legislation. I guess he doesn't realize that all guns sold in this country are required already to have numbers engraved on them by federal law.

Yes, guns can be dangerous (and fatal) when misused or used in self-protection, but there are so many other means of committing violence and death that banning guns would be a wasted effort. I say, Ban the Blade!

Remember when everybody was afraid to carry a jacknife in his pocket? Everyone feared getting caught with a knife! (Everyone feared getting stabbed, too). The other day though, I spotted a hitchhiker with a Bowie knife attached to his hip. Yes, I propose a ban! That's right, you heard me.

I want a ban on the private ownership of any knife or blade over 1" in length (you know, the type that killed Andy Populo-Boston and slashed my own brother to near death seven years ago). This ban would not affect meat-cutters and continental chefs when properly licensed (for a fee) by the state and local police. Ability to use the knife safely would have to be proven.

Now that I'm at it, let's ban bricks and rocks, clubs, bats, broken bottles, bows and arrows, and all the groups that want things banned. How about banning politicians who have put most of middle class America into brain-death by taxes and extravagent government spending sprees! WOW! I could even get the League of Women Voters to sponsor the first Ban the Blade meeting...No, on second thought, I was going to ban them too!

Displaying quilt for the En Ka Street Fair, scheduled for May 19-20, are Maxine Kajander and Jean Heileman.

Quilt is ready for En Ka fair

Every stitch in place, the handmade quilt for this year's En Ka Street Fair is completed.

The work began in November with Mrs. Webster Brockelman designing 12 squares for applique embroidery based on the fair theme "The Story Book."

There are 12 squares depicting classic stories. Each square took approximately 30 hours to complete. They are, as worked by: The Prince and the Pauper — Mrs. Harold E. Crawford; Tom Sawyer — Mrs. Warren E. Carley and Mrs. Robert Hughes; Alice in Wonderland — Mrs. Charles D. Stebbins; Androcles and the Lion — Mrs. Richard S. Gorman; Hans Brinker — Mrs. William H. Rhodes; Peter Pan — Mrs. William Zettler; Rip Van Winkle — Mrs. James E. Grassi; The Fox and the Grapes — Mrs. Martin J. O'Donnell; Moby Dick — Mrs. Marshall C. Bassford; Heidi — Mrs. Robert D. Heileman; The Hare and the Tortoise — Mrs. William L. Everett; and Winnie-the-Pooh — Mrs. Albert A. Kazander, the quilt chairman.

Mrs. Kajander framed each square with a border of dark brown pima cotton. She and the ladies backed the quilt in a rich gold colored, perma-press pima cotton, hand-tied and hemmed the quilt.

Recycle your aluminum May 24

The Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Company will pay 17 cents a pound for used aluminum beverage cans and other aluminum items when its mobile unit comes to the Burlington Mall, on May 24, from 2 to 3 p.m.

Recyclable aluminum items include all-aluminum beverage cans as well as clean household aluminum such as foil, frozen food trays and dip, pudding and meat containers. Scrap aluminum items, such as siding, gutters, storm door and window frames, and lawn furniture tubing, are worth 17 cents a pound if all nonaluminum parts (except paint) are removed and the aluminum is cut into lengths not exceeding three feet. Scrap should not be mixed with cans.

The most reliable way to identify aluminum cans is with a magnet. A magnet will not stick to any part of an all-aluminum can. Reynolds recycles only aluminum.

To locate the recycling collection point nearest you, call toll-free 1-800-243-6000.

4-3 record

Lacrosse team splits pair

By GEORGE PARKER

Coach Bouley's stickmen seem to be starting a pattern — they suffer a loss every week, while handily winning all their other games. This week's defeat was a rather disappointing one, for the Sachems never seemed to be playing on a par with Billerica, the 12-8 victors Friday. However, there was a bright spot, as the Sachems cruised over Framingham North Apr. 19 by 9-4, despite playing a horrendously sloppy game.

In the Framingham North game, the Sachems never settled down to playing a good solid game. Instead, the good plays came in spots. Thus, teamwork and setting-up of plays assumed a secondary position, and the individual talents emerged. Not that there is a lack of talent on the team; its just that they play a much more effective brand of lacrosse when the players function as a unit.

Fortunately, their opponent was of a lesser caliber, so they got away with it, but neither team had true domination of the game until the second half. Until then, though the Sachems held the lead, one couldn't be sure as to who was to be the victor, though the Winchester defense allowed no goals in that time.

In the first half, the goals came from Chad Doe (assisted by Coppins), Bobby Coppins (assisted by Doe), and Mark Carzo, who was assisted by Bubba Sanford.

The seonc half, though, turned into a veritable scoring-fest, as a total of ten goals were scored. Fortunately, six of them came from Winchester sticks, as Chad Doe poured in three more, and Mark Carzo racked up two, and Ed Quinn put in another. Quinn's goal was assisted, by, of all people, the goalie, Jack Driscoll, whose forays past the half finally bore fuit, despite a couple of other occasions where he actually got a shot on net.

In their next game, however, the stickmen came up against a totally different opponent. In Billerica, they found a tough, fast, and hard-hitting team, complete with a pair of brilliant attackmen. Faced with this onslaught, which started as the first whistle blew, Winchester never really got enough momentum to keep a sustained scoring drive.

The afore-mentioned attackmen combined for six of the twelve goals scored by Billerica, and threatened on many other occasions. Fortunately, goalie Jackie Driscoll thwarted many of those attempts, but had no chance on many of the others. On the Sachem side, the bright spots was a much-improved team play, as seven players participated in successful scoring plays. Among these seven, the names of Bubba Sanford, Chad Doe, and Ed Quinn stand out. Bubba had five assists, and a goal, while Quinn and Doe each contributed two goals. Kevin Foley and Steve Barrett each had a goad and an assist, and Mark Carzo put in the remaining goal.

Thus, the Sachem stickmens' record now stands at 4-3, and should steadily improve from this point on, as their opponents from now on don't have the potential to soundly beat the Sachems. However, they shouldn't dismiss the rest of the teams, or they'll be shot down so quickly when they play a competitive team, they won't even realize what went wrong.

Both Winchester entries in the Middlesex league of the Massachusetts Youth Soccer Association continue to do well. Three games into the season both have tied one game and won the other two and are leading in the highest division. The under-16 team played last Sunday at home and they completely dominated their opponents, a young Bedford team.

The score was opened by the attacking fullbacks, when a perfect freekick by Jim Kohr was headed in by John Fallon. Minutes later, his brother Jim got the second goal and Winchester kept attacking. Roupen Merjanian saw a hard shot come back from the crossbar and Charlie Bemis and Billy Budd came close to scoring as well.

In the second half Winchester scored two quick goals. A freekick by Neil Frink was headed in by Vittorio Bares and John Fallon got the last foot on the ball in a "shooting gallery" situation.

In the remaining 30 minutes everyone tried to score and Steve Kenney, David Parker, and Brian Donnellan came close to a goal, but the score remained 4-0.

This Sunday the team plays away against Lexington, probably their strongest opponent.

Winchester Cosmos, the under-19 boys entry played in Wayland. The Cosmos, missing two of their finest players, got off to a slow start. A combination of a relaxed mood, due to their heavy victories in the previous two games and a well prepared Wayland defense that closed the middle with seven players, prevented the Cosmos from scoring until the 36th minute, when Pat Fortin scored.

The Cosmos dominated the second half, but their insistence on working through the middle prevented them from scoring another goal. Midway through the half Wayland gained a penalty, which they converted to even the score.

The Cosmos came back and pressed their opponents goal in wave after wave of attacks, but the Wayland goalkeeper played an excellent game and no more goals were scored.

The final score of 1-1 means the loss of a point for the Cosmos and leaves the league in a tight struggle.

The Cosmos play at home this Sunday against Chelmsford at 5:30.

Boats examined by Coast Guard

The United States Coast Guard Auxiliary is authorized to examine your trailer boat in your own back yard. USCGAUX conducts yearly courtesy exams of boats to help owners learn if the vessel meets Federal, State and Auxiliary safety requirements.

In Winchester, a courtesy exam will be scheduled if you leave your name and phone number at: Card Marine, 632 Main street, or Sherman R. Josephson, Realtor, 824 Main street, 729-2601.

Boats must be fully equipped, ready to go to sea. Copies of present federal requirements can be picked up when you request an appointment. In addition, Massachusetts requires that you carry a flashlight on board. Auxiliary has additional safety requirements such as carrying a sound device on all boats, even when federal regulations do not require it.

The courtesy examiner inspects a boat only with the owner's permission and with the owner present. The report is given only to the owner. If the USCGAUX Decal is awarded, only the decal number is forwarded to the United States Coast Guard. If the decal is not awarded, only the owner is told what has to be done to meet safety requirements. An unidentified report is made to USCG, to help the Coast Guard analyze common problems.

USCGAUX is the civilian arm of the United States Coast Guard. Members conduct safe boating courses and courtesy Marine Exams; patrol recreational boating areas and regattas; and they stand ready to help any boater in need.

The courtesy examiner has passed the seven basic examinations for full membership as an auxiliarist, including basic seamanship, piloting, engines, communications, as well as a special CME test and courtesy exams under supervision, together with an annual update seminar.

A local examiner, Anita L. Martin, is past commander of Flotilla 511 and a staff officer of Division V. She is qualified as CME and Instructor, and has advanced ratings in seamanship and weather. She is also authorized to conduct the USCGAUX Sail Course.

Beat Melrose, Wakefield

Softball nine go three in a row

By KATHY DAY

Melrose

After coming off their first win of the season, the Winchester Sachemettes marched on to yet another one making it two in a row. Coach Joan Rosazza's ballplayers beat a one-man (woman) Melrose team by a score of 7-6 Wednesday morning April 19.

T. e line-up in this game was different in that Mary-Caire McCarthy was the starting pitcher, and Barbara Redmond covered third base in the absence of Bitser Dexter. Mary-Claire pitched a nice first inning without giving up any runs, however, she ran into some trouble in the second inning and was replaced by Kathleen Driscoll. Kathleen went in with the bases loaded and two outs. She got the last out, but unfortunately, one run came in making the score at the end of the second inning 1-0 in favor of Melrose.

Also during this inning, Winchester lost their center fielder, Kelly Gately, for the remainder of the game when her ankle, which she injured during basketball, began bothering her. She was replaced in center field by starting pitcher Mary-Claire McCarthy.

In the third inning, Winchester chalked up three runs on some fine base stealing and hitting. Gail Pasquale started off with a walk to first base and getting to second on a nice steal. Mary-Claire layed down a bunt moving Gail to third base while she was safe on first.

After a steal by Mary-Claire, Holly Stevenson hit one over the head of the short-stop bringing in Gail and moving Mary-Claire to third. Dianne Cullen also had a good hit which brought in McCarthy. Barbara Jacobs was the next batter and she brought in Holly but was left on base. The score after three innings was 3-1 Winchester.

Melrose brought Mary-Lou Bates in as a relief pitcher in the fifth. Bates plays softball almost as well as she plays basketball (She was a member of this year's Middlesex League All-Star Team in basketball) as she seemed to be Melrose's entire team. She was an excellent pitcher who threw good fast balls with which she struck out three batters in the sixth.

But Winchester also brought in a relief pitcher in the sixth. Barbara Jacobs pitched the last two innings and Kathleen was moved to cover second base. Jacobs went in to pitch with one out and the bases loaded. She pitched well, however, two runs did score.

Barbara happened to be the first batter in the bottom of the seventh with the score tied 6-6. She was walked to first base. On a hit by Barbara Redmond, Jacobs made it to third and on an overthrow, she ran home to make the score 7-6 and give Winchester their second win.

Wakefield

It was not the type of a day meant for a softball game, but Winchester played anyway and are probably glad they did. This Winchester vs. Wakefield game might prove to be the most exciting game of the season.

On Apr. 21, the Sachemettes traveled to Wakefield on a cold, windy day only to arrive at a field which was still wet and muddy from rain the night before, but the girls played just as good as ever. The game didn't start off too well though: at the end of the third inning, Wakefield had a 6-0 lead.

Winchestger got its first two runs in the fifth inning off of some good hitting by Kathleen Driscoll, Maura McGeoghean, and Holly Stevenson. The Sachemettes held Wakefield with great fielding plays by Kelly Gately who handled anything that came her way.

Everything began to work in the sixth inning after some nice base running by Barbara Jacobs and Lisa Willard. They both scored giving Winchester two more runs.

This inning saw beautiful playing by the whole team, but especially Kathleen Driscoll as she struck out two batters and Holly Stevenson when she made a great back-hand diving catch into the dirt, saving two runs.

It was 7-4 Wakefield when Winchester came up to bat for the last time. It started off with the first batter and went trough the entire batting order plus three more before Wakefield could stop them.

Driscoll started off with a little hit over the first baseman and a steal put her on second. Gately came trough for a hit up the middle and she also stole second base. Holly was hit by a pitch which moved her to first and loaded the bases. Wakefield really fell apart then.

Dianne Cullen came up and hit a ball back at the pitcher bringing in Kathleen. Barbara Jacobs then hit up through the shortstop hole sending Kelly in for another run. Redmond gave up a sacrifice fly to left field bringing Holly home and making the score 7-7, but Winchester didn't stop there. Bitser Dexter hit safely to third base, Lisa Willard popped up to third giving them two outs. McGeoghean was walked and Dianne walked home. Another walk for Driscoll and a hit by Gately brought in two more runs making the score after the top of the seventh 10-7 in Winchester's favor.

The bottom of the seventh was the crucial half. Wakefield had to be held to under three runs. After a base hit, a steal and another base hit by Wakefield putting players on first and third, the Sachemettes pulled together.

A pop up to Holly made one out. This was followed by a long fly ball to left field wich looked dangerous, but was put away by a catch on the tip of Lisa Willard's glove. One run came in on that play, but there was only one out to go. The next batter hit a ball back at Kat hleen Driscoll and after what seemed like ages, the throw was made to Maura at first base giving Winchester the third out and the game.

The Sachemettes once again showed their poise and ability led by pitcher Kathleen Driscoll who struck out three batters and walked only three behind excellent change-up pitches, which brought her compliments from Wakefield's coach. But this was truly a team effort to come back as they did.

Thanks to this 10-8 win over Wakefield, the Winchester girls increased their winning streak to three games and now have a record of 3-1.

JV Notes: Pam Rufo's JV team won their first game of the season against Melrose by a score of 16-15 behind the excellent pitching of Madeline Powers. Madeline had an amazing 10 strike outs against Melorse. The team's record after three games is 1-2.

Boys' track suffers first loss

By GEORGE PARKER

Hamstrung by the loss of a key competitior, the Sachem track team was defeated by their Watertown opponents, 76-69, in a meet that was decided by the final event.

The meet started off and remained close. In the spring events, the 36 points were split right down the middle.

In the 100, Scott Farrar easily took first, as usual, in a time of 10.3 sec., followed by Don MacMillan, who took, third with his time of 10.6 sec. In the 220, Mark O'Neil was just edged out by his Watertown opponent, taking second, though each had the same time — 24.1 sec.

The high hurdles saw Lucas Natsis take first by half a second. Unfortunately, no one else scored. The low hurdles, though, were the exact opposite — the Sachems took only second and third, by Don MacMillan (42.5 sec.) and Terry Cordova (43.3 sec.).

In the middle distances, the Sachems' weakness continued to plague them — easy first places, but no one else to back them up

In the 440, Charlie Larkin cruised to a 50.5 sec. victory, as teammate Ken Kirk brought up the rear in 54.5 sec. for third place. Ed Kirkpatrick followed his winning ways in the half-mile, taking it with 2:05.8. His were the only points in that event.

The tight race continued into the field events, where the possible points were again evenly divided, despite a Watertown sweep of the high jump.

The other jumping events were also dominated by Watertown, except for the pole vault, where the MacDonnell brothers placed one-two. In the triple and long jump, Don MacMillan and Terry Cordova took seconds, respectively, with leaps of 17'10" and 37'6¼." Lucas Natsis took third in both events, with jumps of 17'7" and 33'11".

In the muscle events, Brian O'Connor again hauled in 10 points, as he won both the shot put and the discus, with tosses of 49'6" and 141'11." The only other Sachem points in those events came in the form of a third place in the shot. In the javelin, Chip Norton and Arthur Montori went two-three, with heaves of 143'8" and 131'1½," respectively.

The distance events saw a significant loss in points for the Sachems, as Andy Wilsack was just edged out of first, in spite of his blistering 4:31.1 time. In the two-mile, Jim Wilbur was soundly beaten by two Watertown harriers, coming in third with a time of 10:40.5.

The 4 x 110 relay, which is run rather early in the meet, was easily won by Winchester, with a combined time of 47.1 sec. The 4 x 440 relay, though is the last event of the meet, and when it was run, the team which took the relay, took the meet. Watertown took, the lead in the first lap, and retained it throughout the race, despite a heroic leg by Charlie Larkin, which fell just short of overtaking his opponent.

Sachems swamp Burlington

By KEVIN GOSSELIN

The WHS boys' track team decisively defeated Burlington High School last Friday by the score of 95-50. Though lacking senior sprinter Charlie Larkin, and senior hurdler and high jumper Tim Morgan, the Sachems were able to maintain a strong lead at all times.

The first two events of the day saw Winchester victorious in both. In the 330 yard low hurdles, junior Terry Cordova and sophomore Don MacMillan went one-two, respectively, to put Winchester on the scoreboard with eight big points. The next event, the 4x100 relay, the squad of the Scott Farrar, Tom Wilsack, Peter MacDonnell, and Mark O'Neill, pulled ahead from their Burlington rivals to win in 47.2 seconds.

In the field events, Winchester placed in all but the javelin throw. Senior shotput and discus specialist Brian O'Connor, won both of his specialized events. O'Connor threw the shot 49 feet 9 inches to win, and then whipped the discus 138 feet to out-distance all his opponents. Fellow discus thrower John Haggerty came in second with his fine performance.

As expected in pole-vaulting, the Macdonnell brothers placed first and second, to continue their unbeaten streak. Peter missed setting a new school record as he failed to clear the 12 feet 6 inches height. His jump of 12 feet was good enough though to insure the win. Brother Andy came through with the second place finish. The person who stole the show for the day, however, was sophomore John Igo. For the better part of an hour he kept the Burlington jumpers from placing. He finally bowed out at 9 feet. Coach Manny Marshall proclaimned him "star of the meet" for his hard work and diligence.

Sophomores Ken Kirk and Richard Doran came through for the Sachems as they placed second and third in the high jump. In the long jump, Winchester again only placed second and third. Junior Terry Cordova and sophomore Don "Cookie" MacMillan jumped for the Winchester scores. Cordova missed first place by two inches, as his 18 feet 6 inches jump just fell short. As Cookie said after the meet, "We have the talent, but we till need a little work on our takeoffs. We fo?l too much, and most of our best jumps are lost that way." Other jumps for the Sachems include Mark O'Neil, Tom Girard, Lukas Natsis, and Kevin Gosselin.

In the individual running events, Winchester showed its strength as they captured five of a possible six first places. Scott Farrar easily won over his Burlington adversaries, with his 10.2 clocking in the 100 yard dash. Cookie MacMillan placed third in 11.1 seconds.

In the high hurdles, sophomore Lukas Natsis placed second as he was out-stepped by a Burlington hurdler. Junior Steve Reich, running the event for the firt time, was nipped at the wire, and had to settle for a fourth place finish.

Mark O'Neil grabbed a hard-fought first place in the 220 yard dash as he did so in 24.3 seconds. Phil Mulvaney took third with his 26.0 clocking. In the 440 yard run, sophomore Ken Kirk placed second in 55 seconds, as he succumbed to a strong Burlington opponent.

Winchester dominated in the half-mile, as junior Ed Kilpatrick won with a strong 2:06.6 effort. Senior Kevin Gosselin was right behind in 2:08.3 to take the second. As Kilpatrik beamed after the race, "Today is the start of Winchester's one-two dynasty of the half-mile!"

In the mile, Andy Wilsack won with ease over his Burlington rivals. His time of 4:44.4 was well off his average, but as Andy put it, "I wanted to save myself for the mile relay. I saw that I had the race won, so I decided to preserve the win, and still have something left for the relay."

Winchester, with only one Burlington runner for opposition, completely blew the doors off the Red Devils in the two-mile event. The Sachems went one-two-three to pick up nine important points for the team. Junior Jim Wilbur, after lapping his Burlington opponent, came through to win in 10:55.7 seconds. Sophomores Joe Flynn and Tom Doocey placed second and third, respectively.

By JAMES R. STEWART JR.

Nancy G. Mills, Winchester Tennis Association tournament chairman revealed that the first Winchester tennis competition will take place at the William S. Packer Courts on Palmer st., starting May 27.

This annual tournament is a draw doubles event in which each entry is paired with another at the option of the tournament committee. Pairings are made with the idea of equalizing talent in all matches so that each doubles team has a shot at the championship.

Four events are usually scheduled for that week-end - men's doubles, women's doubles, mixed doubles and the family doubles. The latter competition brings togehter any combination of sexes and is entered as a team rather than as an individual.

Mills indicated that she would be announcing the chairman of the tournament shortly. She anticipated that entry blanks would be available approximately two weeks prior to starting the championship.

Girls beat Burlington

Track team ups record to 2-1

By KEVIN GOSSELIN

The Winchester High School girls'track team, under the direction of coach Joseph Cantillon, defeated Burlington High last Friday by the score of 78-40. In doing so, the girl's upped their record to 2-1. The girl's showed their power throughout the meet, as they grabbed 12 of a possible 15 first places.

Winchester quickly went ahead in the scoring, as junior Mary Ellen Kennedy and senior Laurie Vincent combined for a first and second place finish in the 100 yard hurdles, respectively. Going one-two again for Winchester in the 100 yard dash, were junior Jane Terry and sophomore Eileen Curry, as they both outpaced their Burlington opponents. Winning time was 12.1 seconds.

The best that the Sachemettes could do in the 220 yard dash was a first. Doing so was sophomore Judy McPhee, who exploded off the blocks to win in 29.4 seconds. In the 440 yard run, the sophomore combination of Barbara Meyers and Mary Grassi, went one-two, as Meyers outran all her competition to win in 66.6 seconds. We should see more fine finishes from these two in future meets.

In the half mile, Beth Clower finished in third place behind two strong Burlington runners. The mile saw Jan Oehm win over her Burlington rivals, as she lapped two of the Red Devils.

In the two mile, Kathy Welch and Kathy Cullen finished second and third, respectively.

In the field events, the Sachemettes truly showed their power, winning all of the events except the shot put. Sophomore Judy McPhee jumped four feet four inches to win the high jump Coming in third was Elizabeth Kerman, as she picked up another point for the Winchester cause.

The Winchester girls completely dominated their Burlington adversaries in the long jump, as they swept all three scoring positions in that event. Junior Jane Terry won with an impressive 14 feet 7 inches effort. She was followed by sophomores Ann-Louise Casey and Barbara Meyers, who both put forth excellent performances.

The Winchester Sachemettes again showed their strength in sweeping the discus. Lisa Wright's throw of 66 feet 9 inches won easily over all her opponents. Margie Roll came in second, with Linnea Carlson a close third.

The Burlington girls swept the shot put, but making up for the sachemettes in the javelin was Laura McGovern, as she won with her 75 feet 6 inch throw.

In the 4x100 yard relay, the squad of Jane Terry, Laurie Vincent, Eileen Curry and Judy McPhee won with the time of 56 seconds. The mile relay was almost a repetition of what had occurred for the girls all day in each event. With the relay team of senior Jan Oehm, Lisa Griecci, Barbara Meyers, and Mary Grassi, Winchester went on to win in 4:51.5 seconds over their Burlington opponents.

Of the 78 points score by Winchester in this meet, sophomores figured in on 54 of them or 6 percent. It will be these girls which will make Winchester a girl track power in future years. Tonight, at the Penn Relays at the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia, senior all-American Jan Oehm will be running the 3000 meter race. The best of luck is wished to her, as she competes against some of the best runners in the world.

In the Squirt Division, Scott Falzano's excellent goaltending repeatedly stopped many of his teammates scoring bids. The final winner was Brian Griffin, whose wrist shots enabled him to edge several of his teammates in close competition.

The goaltending battle of the day came in the Pee Wee Division as David Boyle bested Pat Falla by the slimmest of margins — one goal. Boyle and Falla turned in excellent saves as both were tested on some difficult shots. Scott Binding held the hot hand as his three straight goals earned him the Pee Wee "shooting star."

Bantam competition saw excellent goaltending turned in by Goerge Ward and Bobby Giarizzo, with Giarizzo edging Ward in a close contenst. The shooting champion was Tommy Sullivan, whose clever moves around the net enabled him to win by a considerable margin over some excellent shooters.

Sachemettes outdistanced by Watertown track squad

By GEORGE PARKER

The girls' track team, coached by Joe Cantillon, was handed their first loss last Tuesday, as an almost equal Watertown team edged the Sachemettes, 67-51.

Winchester almost started out in very good shape, as Laurie Vincent (18.0) and MaryEllen Kennedy (18.5) came in one-three in the hurdles, as Jane Terry (11.8 sec.) and Eileen Curry (12.5 sec.) also took one-three, in the 100, and Judy Mcphee easily took first in the 220 with a time of 28.4 sec. Then came the crusher--the 4 x 110 relay winning easily, but disqualified for handing off outside the passing zone. Not a decisive loss, but disheartening.

In the middle distances, Beth Clower and Jane Langley came in two-three in the 880, with times of 2:50.4 and 2:53.5, respectively. In the 440, Barbara Meyers came in second with her time of 65.4 sec.

The distance events, though, were more successful, as Michelle DeMars (5:58.8) took first in the mile, and Jan Oehm (10:56.3) and Kathy Welch (13:43) went one-two in the two-mile.

In the field events, unfortunately, Winchester could only manage 14 out of 45 points. Ten of these came from Judy McPhee and Jane Terry, who both took first in their events--the high jump and the long jump, respectively. In the muscle events, the Sachemettes were swept in the javelin, but took a second in the shot put (Lynn Foden), and a third in the discus (Margie Roll).

Then, to top it off, Watertown roared past the Winchester 4 x 440 relay team, and beat them by 15 seconds.

Scouts to help send kids to camp

Winchester Girl Scouts will participate in the Mistick Side Council Annual Walk-A-Girl To Camp May 7. Scouts from 14 communities will join in the walk, which will take place in Winchester, Medford, and Stoneham.

The money raised from the event will be used for camperships and camp development. Both scouts and non-scouts attend the two Mistick Side summer camps, Camp Menotomy in Meredith, NH and Camp Rice-Moody in Reading. The council also maintains five sites for troop camping, including Camp Joy in Winchester.

Winchester scouts will be contacting their friends and neighbors to act as sponsors. Pledges may be made for the number of miles walked or for participation in the walk which will follow a seven mile route.

All 31 Winchester Brownie, Junior, and Cadette troops will be taking part in this worthwhile activity. Families are also encouraged to join. First aid stations and check points will be manned by local Girl Scout adults. Mrs. David Beaber is the local coordinator and Mrs. Albert Vanderbilt and Mrs. Stephan Moore have assisted with arrangements.

Free soccer movies

Winchester soccer players, fans, coaches, and parents are invited to a free screening of new soccer films, May 2, from 7 to 9 p.m.

Mickey Meurling basketball tourney to run May 22-25

The Winchester Recreation Department, in cooperation with the Winchester Women's Basketball Team, is planning the first annual Women's Basketball Invitational to be held during the week of May 22-25.

Representatives from both agencies unanimously voted the tournament should be named for Alfred R. "Mickey" Meurling, former teacher and assistant vice principal of McCall junior High School.

Meurling retired from the teaching profession in 1972 after 41 years of dedicated service to children. His patience and understanding of young people povided him with the special ability to instill a strong sense of sportsmenship and fair play with all his students. Meurling took his own time to initiate many after school programs for students. One such program was the after school roller skating in the McCall gym, which is still going on.

Mr. and Mrs. Meurling have lived most of their lives in Winchester, where Meurling has contributed strongly to the development of many successful athletes.

Tournament Commissioner, Ellie Spinney and Winchester Team Representative, Nancy DiZio invite all former students and friends to attend the opening game ceremony to honor Mickey Meurling on May 22 at 6 p.m.

WEA committee working on plans for ride-a-bike

The Winchester Education Association Steering Committee for the "Ride-a-Bike" event to benefit mentally retarded people has been at work to plan a safe, well organized day for the many Winchester students expected to participate.

Deborah Stewart from the high school is serving as chairperson for the event. Richard Eliot of McCall has co-ordinated with Safety Officer McKinely in planning the route and checkpoints along the way. Eliot has chaired or worked on the event every year.

Joanne Martignetti of Mystic will be in charge of posting and removing route markers, and James Perry of Muraco is in charge of staffing checkpoints. Checkpoint people validate riders' mileage forms, watch riders for fatigue, and monitor safety requirements.

Mrs. Susan Bokil of Muraco is in charge of refreshments. Canned drinks will be available, courtesy of the WEA, at several checkpoints. Mr. Denis Ryan of WHS will serve as treasurer, so that, days after the ride-a-bike itself is over, the revenues earned by pedalers and their sponsors are totaled and sent to the Massachusetts Association for Retarded People.

In addition to those on the steering committee, each school has a chairperson who is in charge of seeing that information and sponsorship forms are available to each student who wishes to participate. They are; Wayne Hough of Ambrose, Mary Brooks of Noonan, Louise Barker of Mystic, Caroline Gi$maettei of Parkhurst, Barbara Eason of Vinson-Owen, Helen Clark of Washington, Anne Marshall of Muraco, Robert Lynch of Lincoln, James McConochie and Ralph Taylor of McCall, Richard Conway of Lynch, and Margaret Sullivan, Anna Maria Mancini, Milburn Dixon, Lawrence Rinaldi, and Margaret Harvey of WHS.

Diane R. Porter

Diane R. Porter, a Lexington woman, has announced her candidacy for the Republican nomination for State Senate in the 4th Middlesex District. The new district includes the entire towns of Arlington, Lexington, Winchester, and the city of Woburn.

"There is a definite imbalance in the State Senate today — you can't dispute that — 34 Democrats and only six Republicans. When it comes to partisan issues, it's one team against the other, and who is going to listen to 6 Republican Senators, even when their programs are best? Individually these Senators can represent the people in their district very well, but collectively, they can't even force a roll call vote or override a veto. What ever happened to our system of checks and balances?

"The Republican Party is called 'the loyal opposition', not because we oppose everything, but because there are two sides to every issue, and right now we're only hearing one side of the issue.

"It is imperative for us to have a viable two-party system of government if we ever hope to stop the spending spree that the legislature has been on for 20-odd years. We have finally lost all of our illusions as to where the Democrat-sponsored spending programs are leading us.

"We never used to be in financial trouble like we are now. I remember when John Volpe ran this state in 1966 on a total budget of 700 Million dollars. This year, our budget is 4.7 BILLION dollars, and maybe more. The rate of inflation has doubled during those 12 years, but the cost of state government is seven times what it was. We're at a point where we can't afford big government any more.

"The people are being hoodwinked into thinking that the state can solve all of their problems, when in reality, the government is one of our biggest problems. Government has its hands in our pockets, in our business, in our grocery stores, in our schools, and even in our dumps. Its duplicity and mismanagement are costing us millions every year. If government were a business, it would have been out of business long ago.

"We're going to have to begin unplugging ourselves from our growing dependency on big government and begin to stand up for our rights as individuals once again.

"Since my children were old enough to allow it, I have been back in the business world. I have a terrific husband who makes a good salary, and even with two paychecks, it is becoming increasingly difficult to make ends meet. With two teenagers and a pre-teen who all grow right out of the regrigerator, I'm at the point where I dread going grocery shopping every week. Even with our back yard vegetable garden and with me sewing a lot of my daughter's and my clothes, there's nothing left at the end of the month to save for college.. or anything. I often wonder how people with less money and more children, or people on fixed incomes, manage to survive. And does the legislature think of us when they pass these horrendous spending programs? No! The people who work all of their lives, and worship together, and vote in every election, and are active in youth groups and local government — they're the ones that get to carry the burden of the tax increases year after year.

"They say that voters have a short memory. Do you? Do you remember that over three years ago we were hit with a shopping tax increase of over 400 million dollars? For several weeks you could hear protests and even threats of a taxpayers revolt. We asked ourselves how our elected officials could do this to us again? Did they think we had an unlimited source of supply? A money tree in every back yard? This was all we were going to take — we yelled — our patience had run out and so had our money! And we waited for someone to lead us. Now, after three years of lip service and scandal, we've had enough. We're finally mad, and we're getting organized, and we aren't going to take it any more!

"I think that Massachusetts is the greatest state in the nation. Our schools are renowned, our business community leads the country in resourcesfulness, our hospitals are famous all over the world, our sports teams are out of sight. Yet, with all this going for us, people are leaving the state in droves, and no new business is coming here. Why? Because people don't want to put up with the excessive demands that our state puts on them.

"Massachusetts has a 5 percent sales tax, an auto excise tax of $66 per thousand, a 6 percent meals tax, a liquor tax, a cigarette tax, a gasoline tax, a corporate tax, and a personal income tax with a sur-tax. And if that isn't enough, we have the highest property tax in the nation. We sure are number one.

"For years, an easy way for one to get elected was to point to the property tax and state that 'something' had to be done to help reduce it. And every election, the people keep sending the Democrats back to solve the problem. That's using the wrong team! The fact of the matter is that the Democrat-controlled legislature has been struggling to reduce the property tax for years, and the only time you hear of any progress is during an election year. The whole basic philosophy of the people in government has to be changed from bigger to better before significant change can be seen.

"Are you ready for some straight talk about property taxes? Two of the things which directly affect your property tax rate are the Local Aid Fund (colorfully referred to as the Cherry Sheets) and the state mandated (forced) unfunded programs.

"Every year a percentage of the total state budget is given back to the cities and towns to help defray the property tax. This is called 'Local aid.' Of course, the money came from us originally, but that's another story. When Michael Dukakis became Governor three and one-half years ago, we were receiving 37 percent of the budget back in local aid. Every year that percentage has been decreased, and now we're down to 25 percent. Why? Where has it gone? Who said they could take it?

"Because we're receiving less money from the state, our local officials have to raise the taxes in order to make up the difference. They still have to pay for the fixed expenses, i.e. plowing of streets, school budgets, police and fire protection and municipal employees. I would work diligently for an amendment to the constitution that would prevent the legislature from dipping any further into the Local Aid Fund.

"State mandated, unfunded programs are programs which the legislators decide we should have. So they pass a bill. But, perhaps your local government has not set aside any extra money to pay for such a program (because they never dreamed they would need such a program)? Then what happens? You get another raise in your property taxes. As a friend of mine once said — 'That's like me doing my grocery shopping and sending you the bill.' Now, I'm not saying that these programs are good or bad, I'm saying that the legislators who vote these programs into being should also take the responsibility of funding them at the state level. If you've had the feeling that your hands have been tied, you're right...they have been. Every time a special interest group on the hill pushes special legislation through the Senate, some one down the hill gets the bill. Sooner or later a lesson has to be learned, and the sooner we learn it, the better off we will be. And it's this...THERE IS NO FREE LUNCH! Things have been going sour in Massachusetts for a long time, and now is the time to do something about it. Ths time send the right team in to do the job. The Republican Team. I'm not saying that the Republican party can change things over night — you can't correct over night a condition that took over 20 years to create — but we can surely help to put the brakes on and slow down this spending."

Diane Porter is married and the mother of three children, Stephen (16), Susan (13), and Douglas (10). Her husband is Clifford Porter, who is with Brewer and Lord in Boston. Diane works in the marketing division of D.C. Heath and Company, (division of Raytheon), an educational book publishing house. Active in Republican politics for 18 years, Diane has been a member of the Watertown Republican Town Committee, and Woman's Republican Club; and is now a member of the Lexington Republican Town Committee and Lexington Republican Club. Diane and her husband, Cliff, have coordinated many campaigns over the years. They both will be delegates to the Republican convention in Springfield in May.

Born and brought up in Brookline, Massachusetts, Diane Porter was educated in the Brookline Public Schools, Bridgewater State Teacher's College and Hickox School.

A pianist, Diane has taught children in the Lexington area. She is a member of Chapter 183, Order of the Eastern Star, a member of Rainbow Girls Mother's Club, and Demolay Boys Mother's Club. Diane is a former Cub Scout Leader and Camp Fire Girls Leader. Also, she is a past vice president of the Bridge School PTA.

Diane founded and ran the Bridge School Mothers' Bowling League, and last year she coached a baseball team for the Lexington Baseball Association. (The team wound up in second place.)

"Have you had enough?" asks Mrs. Porter, "Are you ready to join me? I think it is only fitting that this district should be the focal point of a tax protest led by the Modern Day Minute Men of Lexington, Arlington, Winchester, and Woburn, and led, against an unresponsive government, by a member of a minority party and a woman!"

Volunteers interested in Diane's candidacy are urged to contact her. All are invited to a Fund Raising Birthday Party on June 9th at Elk's Hall in Lexington Tickes will be available at the door.

The fits the thing at Bettie Donald's

Bettie Donald

Bettie recalls her opening on Waterfield road during two of the worst blizzards of the century, followed by the fire which destroyed the Waterfield block After setting up again on Church street, she finally relocated in Winchester terrace, where she has been ever since.

Before coming to Winchester to set up her own business, Mrs. Donald was a buyer for Jay's of Boston. There she learned the importance of properly fitted garments. To make certain that clothing fits properly and that customers are satisfied, Mrs. Donald and her assistant Maureen Hogan encourage their clientele to try on clothing before buying. The sign over her door expresses her philosophy: "The Fit's the Thing."

The shop carries intimate apparel in the medium to better price range in all sizes for all women. Mrs. Donald does the buying and checks her merchandise for quality and workmanship. Her husband says, "She loves everything in the store so much she can hardly bear to sell it." A rundown of the fashion clothing in the store includes: gowns designed to fit, bras, foundations, slips, half slips, nightgowns, robes, hostess, bathing suits, slippers, hosiery, and a new line of travel apparel to accomodate : The cruise-bound or those wishing to fill in their travel wardrobe.

Mrs. Donald holds a diploma for the fitting of breast prothetics. The fitting rooms and ample selection of breast forms enable her to be of aid to those needing this help, and she derives much satisfaction from this service.

Bettie takes great pride in her window displays, and she laughs when she tells how many a man turns up on a Monday morning to get a gown his wife spotted Sunday while strolling through the terrace.

At Bettie Donald's, a record is kept on file of customers' names and addresses for reference purposes — then if a satisfied woman doesn't recall what she bought earlier the answer is at hand.

Bettie is a charter member of the Winchester Business and Professional Association. She loves her work and location off Thompson street in the center, and she says, "Winchester and the square have been good to me, and I have been good to it

Alcoholism program featured for Friends of Hospital

"Alcoholism" will be the subject of the spring meeting of the Friends of Winchester Hospital, May 4, at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church. Coffee will be served at 9:00 a.m. with the meeting beginning at 9:30 a.m. The public is invited to attend.

Father Joseph Martin's film, "Guidelines," will be shown as an introduction to the program, followed by a panel presentation, and time for questions and answers.

Barbara Bryant, social worker and member of the social services department of Winchester Hospital, will be moderator of the panel. Panelists include Dr. Gustav Kaufman, Winchester Hospital; Barbara Kleeman, counselor at Mt. Auburn Hospital Outpatient Clinic on Alcoholism; Howard chase, veterans agent for the town of Winchester; and James P. Richards, vice president of Mt. Pleasant Hospital, formerly supervisor of Division of Alcoholism, State Department of Public Health.

Helen Craig, president of the Friends, says, "The 'Alcoholism' meeting is a continuation of the Friends policy to provide health education to the community. The meeting is designed to look at attitudes toward alcoholism and the alcoholic and to provide an awareness of community resources."

Friends of Winchester Hospital is an auxiliary of more than 500 men and women from Winchester and surrounding communities. Nearly 300 active volunteers work in 22 different volunteer services within the hospital.

Publicity guide free at The Star

Free copies of a Guide for Publicity Chairmen are available at the The Star office, 5 Church st.

30th anniversary

Auxiliary to honor members

Many Winchester physician's wives who were charter members or past presidents of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Middlesex East District Medical Society will be special guests of the organization when it observes its 13th anniversary May 4. Twelve of the 28 past presidents and 25 charter members were Winchester residents.

The auxiliary was founded in 1948 with two Winchester women serving as officers that first year: Mrs. William D. Barone, vice president and Mrs James F. McDonough, recording secretary. Mrs. Charles E. Rooney was one of several women who met together the previous year to discuss the possibility of forming a woman's group to be affiliated with the medical society.

Nine towns in the area north of Winchester were included in the district and, during the past 30 years, the auxillary has grown from a group of 65 to the present membership of 150.

Mrs. William Barone will give a brief history of the organization and of the nursing scholarships which have become its main thrust. The scholarships were initiated by Mrs. George A. Marks of Winchester during 1949, at which time the late Mrs. Inga Michelsen, also of this town, was serving as president.

Mrs. Barone has been working with the auxiliary president, Mrs. Walter H. Riester of Lynnfield, in an effort to reach past charter members who are no longer active. Fo further information or directions any members may call 729-1544.

The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Robet Scribner, 43 Grey Lane, Lynnfield.

Vallee and Berberian star in Belmont's Auntie Mame"

Two Winchester residents will have starring roles in "Auntie Mame," the next production of the Belmont Dramatic Club. The hilarious comedy will be presented six times at the Belmont town hall, 455 Concord ave., four evenings, April 28, and 29, and May 5 and 6 at 8 p.m., and two matinees, April 30 and May 7 at 2 p.m.

Betty Vallee of Taft drive will play the major supporting role of Vera Charles, Auntie Mame's best friend and worst enemy, the "English actress" from Pittsburgh. Betty's dramatic experience has been extensive and varied, her most recent productions being "Plaza Suite" at the dinner theatre at Boston's Park Plaza, "Royal Family" for the Winchester Players, "The Importance of Being Earnest" (Arlington Firends of the Drama), and "Forty Carats" (Belmont Dramatic Club).

Paul Berberian of Highland avenue, owner of Millbrook Antiques in Arlington, will play Auntie Mame's faithful sevant, Igor. Well-known in Winchesetr dramatic circles, Paul has appeared on local stages as Professor - Metz in the Unitarian Players production of "The Man Who Came to Dinner," in "Thurber Carnival" at the Winchester Summer Theatre, and in "Tiger at the Gates" for the Congregational Players.

"Auntie Mame" will be directed by Elaine Kasparian of Belmont, who has long been active in many local community theatre groups. She recently directed the Winchester Children's Theatre in "Stories Retold — Fables Through the Ages," an imaginative improvisional experience with dialogue and action created by the children.

"Auntie Mame," a unique comedy adapted from the best-selling novel by the pseudonymous Patrick Dennis, starred Roslind Russell on Broadway and in the movie, then was made into a musical and a movie-musical. It is ideal entertainment for the whole family, for Mame appeals to the best in all of us; she is uproariously funny, outrageous, naive, child-like in her trust of tomorrow, flouting every custom which interferes with the "living" of life. "Life is a banquet," she cries, leading her nephew, Patrick, and the audience, on to a new horizon, doing all the things most people only talk doing.

James retires from Winchester Hospital; fund established

For retiring Winchester Hospital president Reese E. James, the reception held recently at the Winchester Country Club would be long remembered not only for the many friends who came to wish him well or the many gifts he received, but also for the announcement that the Reese E. James Educational Fund had been established to mark his 19 years of service to the hospital and to the community.

"I am moved and flattered," James said in response to the announcement by hospital board Chairman D. Reid Weedon Jr. "This fund will be a launching pad to furthr any good I may have done here in the past 19 years. Whatever we have done, we have done together. I thank you all."

Gifts presented to the retiring president included a scrapbook of highlights in his career as administrator and president, a CB set, musical recordings and a personal check for the purchase of a new stereo system for his new home in Florida.

James was also presented with a framed resolution drawn up by the Massachusetts House of Representatives and sponsored by Representative Sherman Saltmarsh, lauding him for his achievements in the field of health care administration. The resolution was read by Marcia Saltmarsh, representing her husband.

Dr. William L. Kermond, president of the hospital's medical and dental staff brought greetings from the staff "to the man who embodies what medical care is, in essence, 'love thy neighbor.'"

Former board Chairman Kenneth C. Latham was master of ceremonies.

Public contributions to the Reese E. James Educational Fund may be sent directly to Winchester Hospital.

College club in membership drive

The Winchester College Club is having its spring membership drive. The club exists to promote educational and cultural groups with a relaxed friendly atmosphere.

Nominal dues support the club, which offers both daytime and evening interest groups. This year these include literature, travel, two book exchanges, history, antiques, needlecraft and day-trippers. The French group is being revived. Gourmet dinner, bridge and photography are strong possibilities for next year.

The small fee that each interest group charges helps the club, each year, to support scholarship achivement at Winchester High School and to provide interesting speakers at the two general meetings a year.

College club membership is open to all women who have completed at least two years of study at a degree granting college. The individual interest groups welcome non-club members and often include husbands. For further information, please contact: Alice McCarter, membership chairman at 729-6818 or Susan Setnik, interest group chairman at 729-4972.
